Up Goes Gold.
Remarkable Hen.
McAdoo Sees Russia.
Swimming Under Water.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GOLD WENT up 18 cents an ounce yesterday. Ladies and gentlemen that put their money in gold, let it lie, without interest, and then had it taken away by the United States government, will quote lines that Whittier borrowed from Dante and Dante borrowed from someone else:

"For of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: 'It might have been.'"

Those that know nothing about money, which means about 123,000,000 in the United States, find it amusing to see the United States go off the gold basis, and then enter into a competition with England bidding for gold, which had previously been called an unnecessary feature of our money system.

THERE ARE two world prices for gold, one in London, in shillings and pence, one here, in dollars. Nobody knows quite what the pound or dollar is worth, so the values in gold don't mean much. The real value of gold is based on the franc, still on a gold basis.

So the little French franc, originally worth more than nineteen cents, then cut down to less than four cents, is now the world's standard of value. The president of France, if he knew American slang, might say to the President of the United States:

"Laugh that off!"

MORE INTERESTING than gold to millions of Americans is a white leghorn owned by H. H. Ruttledge, of Sardis, British Columbia. Yesterday she laid her 352nd egg in 359 days, and is expected to break the world's record of 357 eggs in 365 days.

We think it wonderful when one of our own kind produces a "marvelous boy baby weighing nine pounds."

In sixty days that leghorn hen produces eggs weighing more than she does.

SENATOR M'ADOO, of California, back from Russia, "could not help but see evidence of progress in the construction of huge apartment houses, streets, sewers and transit facilities."

He admires President Roosevelt's wisdom in moving toward recognition of Russia, and was impressed by the absence of "unemployment" in Moscow.

They make people work over there whether they want to or not. Here they can't get work even when they want it.

BURMA IS proud of her champion swimmer, Prafulla Kumar Ghose, who swam 79 hours and 24 minutes without stopping, in the royal lake at Rangoon.

Wall street says:

"That is making a fuss about nothing. Thousands of us down here have been 'under water' for the last four years without coming up."

They have, and so have their bankers.

Distribution of wealth will continue, as in the past. Years ago slaves worked for nothing but blows and sorrow. Then men were serfs, sold with the land.

Then came miserably poor wages, less than $25 a year in Russia for instance, while a President of the United States complained that you couldn't hire a good man in America for less than $100 a year.

Recently mechanics got from five to twenty dollars a day; now they get less. Occasionally somebody gets a million dollars, or a hundred million or five hundred million. That means nothing. He never takes it with him.

IF THE end of the "individualist" should come, that would mean an end of enterprise. But there is no danger of it. Strong individuals, like Groven Whalen, will always exist, each with his top hat and his gardenia in his buttonhole, if he wants them, doing useful work for society.

There are no individualists among ants, mud-wasps, or bees. There are, thank heaven, individualists among human beings. We may reach the mud-wasp stage, but not in a million years.

THE GOVERNMENT will lend farmers fifty cents a bushel on corn, and for corn grown on good land, fifty cents is not a bad price, although it ought to be one dollar.

Some call the government's lending "socialism." The majority will agree that it is better than old conditions, under which corn sold for 10 cents a bushel, and many farmers used it for fuel, because it was cheaper than coal.

IN CONSTANTINOPLE, now called Istanbul, yesterday, one thousand Turkish peasants were received as guests of the governor, in honor of the tenth anniversary of the Turkish republic and lodged in ancient palaces, well-fed, highly honored with military honors.

The world progresses. Ladies from all over the world have seen the inside of palaces, occupying beautiful harems in Turkey. Charles the Twelfth of Sweden was a prisoner in Asiatic conquerors marched in occasionally. This experience for the peasants is something new in history.

TRAIL LINKED TO RACKET MURDER PROBE

Oliver and Aliberti Believed Put on Spot By Same Gang

The search for the killers of Benjamin Oliver, former Mayor of Yorkville, O., shifted today to Pittsburgh and crossed the trail of detectives hunting the slayers of John Aliberti, the East Liberty racket guy.

Ray Long, sheriff, and A. L. Hooper, prosecuting attorney, of Jefferson County, were expected in Pittsburgh to find out things about the two Pittsburghers arrested in the Oliver shooting—Frank Romano, 28, and Joe Viola, 30.

Meanwhile county detectives planned to obtain photographs and fingerprints of Romano and Viola in their hunt to track down the Aliberti killers. The sleuths believe the two jobs may have been carried out by the same assassins.

The wealthy Oliver, who once lived in Pittsburgh, was shot down by killers who fired from an automobile as he stood outside his clothing store in Yorkville.

An hour later the two Pittsburghers were arrested in nearby Bridgeport, O. They were driving a car which fitted the description of the death car.

Funeral services for Oliver were scheduled for today from the Ralph Schugar funeral home at 1801 Fifth avenue, with burial in the Beth Shalom Cemetery, Carrick. Oliver leaves a wife, Minnie Oliver, and two sons, Aaron and Leonard Oliver.

Urges Foresight

GIFFORD PINCHOT

Gov. Pinchot, who today pointed out the inevitability of national prohibition repeal, insisted that he is still a dry, urged all drys and anti-drys to unite now for work for proper governmental liquor control.

Vote Machine Flaws Bring Parley

GOV. PINCHOT CONCEDES REPEAL

Urges Drys, Wets to Join in Control Legislation

STATE COLLEGE, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today appealed to "sincere drys" and "sincere wets" to join in supporting liquor control legislation to "keep liquor and politics apart."

The Governor reaffirmed his position as "a dry" who does not "talk one way and drink another."

In his speech before the Penn State Christian Association, he asserted such a "working combination" is the only way to prevent a return to conditions that existed before prohibition."

"DECISION MADE"

He said it is true that the Eighteenth Amendment has not been repealed, and added:

"But it is equally true that the Eighteenth Amendment is going to be repealed. Nothing is more obvious than that the American people have decided against the Eighteenth Amendment. The decision has not yet been recorded. But beyond all question it has been made."

In preparing for liquor control after repeal, the Governor urged sincere wets and sincere drys to follow this five-point program:

"The saloon must not come back.

"Liquor must be kept out of politics.

"Liquor must not be sold without restraint.

"The iniquitous Brooks high license law, which dragged our judges into liquor politics, must not return.

"The sale of liquor must be so handled as to discourage bootlegging by making it unprofitable."

For those who favor prohibition, the Governor sounded this warning:

RYAN SEES 'NEW DEAL' AT MINES

Frick Striker Sure of Victory After Visit To White House

Has King Coal kicked his best friend out of court in fighting the United Mine Workers?
Read the second article of this graphic series on Page 37.

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Martin Ryan, coal digger, whose combative energy is about to win a new deal for his fellow miners employed in the so-called "captive mines" of great steel corporations, today is returning to his home among the hills of Fayette County with exalted ideas of the "New Deal."

A few brief hours in the nation's capital yesterday broadened Martin Ryan's views of life and gave him reassurance for the fulfillment of his ideas.

In his own way he explained the cause for which he has been fighting—a cause which threw the country into turmoil following gunfire and bloodshed in remote mining villages—a cause which at this moment has the attention of the President of the United States and alone waits his settlement.

VICTORY SEEN

Martin Ryan's earnestness, his straightforward arguments, unflagging determination to obtain justice won instant response in official Washington. He and his seven colleagues are going back home certain in their belief that they have won a victory in the great industrial struggle in which they have borne a conspicuous part.

Stabilizing the Dollar

By JULIUS BERENS

THE INDIVIDUAL SALARY or wage earner may well ask where he or she stands in devaluation of the dollar.

To begin with, they must realize that UNLIMITED inflation would work to their injury and to the injury of other classes.

Dollar devaluation on the other hand is a CONTROLLED inflation. It is fixed inflation.

It really is REFLATION. It is stabilizing the purchasing power of the dollar at what it was before the depression and consequently restoring commodity prices to somewhere near where they formerly were.

It is a recognition of what already has taken place, in part, and a limitation of further inflation and variation.

The individual who needs a bushel of wheat must now pay nearly a dollar for it. He could have bought it for 50 cents when prices were at their lowest this year. The same thing, in varying proportions, is true also of almost everything else he buys.

BUT THIS PRICE ADVANCE ALREADY HAS TAKEN PLACE.

What is desired is to make sure that business and industry are not again endangered by the reappearance of such abnormally and disastrously low prices as to threaten ruination for all.

THE DOLLAR has had a constantly increasing purchasing power for four years.

This purchasing power reached a point where it became impossible for business as a whole to continue, since profits were unavailable and capital was rapidly being exterminated.

Prices received by farmers and other producers were insufficient to allow payment of debts, or to maintain employment, or to maintain salaries and wages.

What has happened more recently, through the rise in prices, has been a reduction in the dollar's purchasing power.

It is absolutely necessary to relieve debtors.

Once business enjoys profits again, and the debtor is reasonably relieved of part of his burdens, then the benefits will prove nation-wide.

It is the very essence of capitalism that business must enjoy profits and that debtors must be able to carry debts.

DEVALUATION is a sensible, logical, essential compromise between the out-and-out inflationist and the self-satisfied extreme conservative who would make no change whatever in the economic structure.

The capitalist must be reassured that his money is not to be wiped out by reckless inflation.

The industrialist who would place orders for future delivery must have a reasonable idea of just what the value of the dollar will be.

The businessman who is anxious to bid for business for future delivery must also know, within reason, what the value of the dollar will be.

With stabilization intentions proclaimed officially by the President, there would ensue such a return flow of capital to the United States as to give the investment markets, and thus business, a vast stimulus, quite apart from all other influences.

This value must be measured, until a better measuring rod is presented, in gold.

WHEN THE economic conference was under way in London these newspapers opposed stabilization of the dollar.

It was stated then that the dollar's gold valuation had not depreciated sufficiently in relation to the necessary price and debt structures of this country.

Since then, the dollar has dropped sharply.

There is no cure-all for depression.

If still higher prices are necessary, then they can proceed from so-called normal methods, once dollar devaluation is affected, to prevent prices

HARRIS QUIZ SUMMONS EXPERTS

Paper Ballots Ordered As Rees Reveals Defects

The Harris vote machine committee, in a surprise meeting, this afternoon called Election Bureau officials and vote machine experts before it.

The action followed information by Maj. William T. Rees, head of the bureau, and others, that the vote machines cannot be safely used, due to a defective link, in the election November 7. "Repeating" is possible with the present set-up, it was reported.

Election Bureau officials also urged printing of ballots for the election, which was done.

And the Board of County Commissioners was divided as to what is to be done.

MANSFIELD OBJECTS

Commissioner W. D. Mansfield is for setting the machines aside and using paper ballots, saying:

"With the machines the way they are, it is possible to vote twice for certain persons. What's the use of fooling ourselves?"

Commissioner C. C. McGovern said:

"We're going to call in some experts. We want them to see if these links can't be made to work. If we can get them in shape, Commissioner Barr and I are for them."

The impression that the machines would not be used was given out when the Commissioners ordered ballots printed for every district in the county. They also laid off all extra mechanics, who have been setting up the machines.

FAILURE OF LINK

The failure of the candidate link to work properly was called to the attention of Rees yesterday morning. He investigated and found it possible to vote for the same candidate more than once. Shortly after noon the County Commissioners held a conference in the basement of the County Building, discussing the problem with Rees, Assistant County Solicitor Ralph Frank and Chief Mechanic Albert Lauer.

Director Rees presented a report, explaining that the links on hand had failed to function properly and that several thousand similar links ordered and to

BOY SOLD GIN, RAID NETS MAN

Acting on a complaint of a woman who brought her 14-year-old son to the District Attorney's office to complain that a man was selling children moonshine and gin, county detectives today arrested Frank Osmelak, of 2503 Josephine street.

Detectives, led by Frank Malone, say they made a buy following the complaint. They made out information before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan, and then raided the place—a residence.

Osmelak was held for court by Flanigan on a charge of violating the Snyder Act.

RAIN, COLDER WEATHER DUE

The rain will do little toward soaking the parched ground resulting from an unusually dry October, the weather man stated. Up to today only 46 hundredths of an inch has fallen this month. The normal is 2.11 inches.

U. S. Grants State $2,260,849 Relief

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—An unemployment relief grant of $2,260,849 to Pennsylvania was announced today by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, said the grant was to match funds spent on relief in Pennsylvania in September. It made a total of $21,606,509 allotted to Pennsylvania from federal relief funds.

City Treasurer Ill, Shows Improvement

Slight improvement in the condition of City Treasurer H. Raymond Hilliard, seriously ill in Homeopathic Hospital, was reported today. Mr. Hilliard is suffering from an infection caused by an abscessed tooth.

GOLD HOARDERS UNDER ARREST

BOSTON, Oct. 27. — (AP.) — Gerald T. Driscoll, 32, a municipal department clerk earning $1,000 a year, and Edward Spiegel, a State street lawyer, were arrested today as gold hoarders.

Driscoll was charged in failure to report that he had $10,000 in gold.

The indictment against the men, both of which were secret, charged that Driscoll withdrew $5,000 in gold from the Federal Reserve Bank, on March 2 and another $5,000 March 3.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Attorney General Cummings has instructed all district attorneys to proceed as soon as possible against violators of Mr. Roosevelt's anti-hoarding order.

Carole Lombard Suffers Relapse

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Carole Lombard, blonde screen actress and former wife of William Powell, also of the films, was confined to her bed today and permitted no visitors. Her condition was described as serious.

Believed to have recovered from a two weeks' illness, Miss Lombard was rehearsing for a new picture with George Raft three days ago when she collapsed.

ROBBERS PREY ON SAFETY MEN

The police and fire departments would like the world to know that if anyone steals a police patrol or fire engine there will be trouble. As it is, they've stood for about enough.

Charles Faulkner, former North Side police inspector, reported to detectives today that someone had stolen the garden hose from his home at 1406 Chateau street.

Shortly thereafter, Capt. Edward McNichols, of No. 5 Engine Company, reported the theft of his black and white coach dog "Spot."

Then came a report on the teletype that City Detective Andrew Carciere had lost his gold badge, probably in front of the courthouse. If the finder returns it, no questions will be asked.

JOBLESS RANKS FALL IN STATE

HARRISBURG, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Swept downward by the steady increase in industrial activity, the total of unemployed workers in Pennsylvania dropped below the million mark in September for the first time in 21 months.

The Department of Labor and Industry today reported mid-September figures which showed 909,363 persons out of work, a decrease of 12.4 per cent from August and 26.4 per cent from September, 1932.

The general gain in employment was accompanied by increased payrolls. Reports from 5,580 firms representing 14 major industries showed a 5.7 increase in payrolls from August, with the biggest gains in anthracite mining, building construction, petroleum, dyeing and cleaning and retail trade.

The speed with which the wheels of the state's great industrial empire are turning was shown by the department reports that from August to September 128,243 persons went back to jobs.

Since last March, when the peak of unemployment was reached, nearly half a million returned to work to send the total of those out of work down to the lowest figures since December, 1931.

Boxer Repeats Love For Astor Widow

HAVRE, France, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Still insisting he will be married shortly to Mrs. William K. Dick, the widow of John Jacob Astor, Enzo Fiermonte, handsome Italian boxer, arrived today aboard the liner Paris. Fiermonte said:

"Ours is pure love. Money plays no part in it. Mrs. Dick plans to come to Paris in a month, and we shall be married quietly."

Science Fights for Girl Developing as Man

International News Service.

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 27. — Science today was engaged in one of its strangest conquests—an attempt to restore the femininity of a formerly pretty 23-year-old girl who is assuming the physical characteristics of a man.

She is a patient at Highland Hospital here and her identity was not revealed by Dr George E. Nesche, supervising physician of the Oakland clinic, and Dr. Theodore Schwarz, assistant director of the hospital, who are handling the strange and interesting case.

However, they said that two years ago she was "a charming girl" but that now she has developed sideburns, mustache, mannish "ridge" muscles and even her hands have become masculine.

The physicians attribute the metamorphosis to an unbalance in pituitary and thyroidal glands, probably induced by "quack" weight-reducing compounds.

They proposed to excise a portion of the thyroid gland and feed the patient an extract of pituitary gland. This will be done over a period of months. One of the doctors said:

"Our problem right now is to halt the transformation processes and later eradicate them.

"A girl bathing beauty may be a delight to the eyes of spectators, but to a scientist or a physician she is just a case of well-adjusted glands."

He said Primo Carnera, the giant heavyweight boxing champion, is a "case of glandular unbalance" and may "get worse" if not properly treated.

FORD DENIES NRA VIOLATIONS, ASSAILS GEN. JOHNSON

Auto Firm Says It Has Refused to File Reports Asked

International News Service.

DETROIT, Oct. 27.—The Ford Motor Company this afternoon challenged the accuracy of statements made by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, that Henry Ford is in direct violation of the automobile code.

The statement read:

"Mr. Johnson's vocabulary has got him down again. Before assuming airs of a dictator he should fortify himself with evidence that Henry Ford has refused compliance with government requirements.

30-YEAR PERIOD

"The public has known the Ford Motor Company for 30 years and is not dependent on Johnson for information concerning it. It is an act of injustice for Mr. Johnson to intimate that any refusal has been made of any proper demand on the Ford Motor Company, especially since he knows that his original signers have not yet had time to file the reports which he charges this company with refusing.

The statement was issued through the office of William J. Cameron, Ford's public relations counsel, in Dearborn.

It followed releasing of an interview in Washington today with Gen. Johnson in which he said the Ford Motor Company already is in direct violation of the automobile code and is not eligible to make any bids for government contracts.

NO BLUE EAGLE

Ford is the only automobile manufacturer who is operating without benefit of the NRA's Blue Eagle. The company contends, however, that it is meeting all the requirements of the automobile code and has even gone a step farther in several respects.

No comment was forthcoming as to what steps the company would take should its dealer's bid on 1,500 trucks for the Civilian Conservation Corps be rejected by the government.

It is believed that if any action is taken it will be through the dealer in Washington who submitted the bid.

Johnson Hints U. S. Will Prosecute Ford

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Hugh S. Johnson said today that if Henry Ford fails to submit figures requested by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce within the time to be set, "I'll turn the case over to the Attorney General."

At a press conference the NRA executive intimated that the deadline would be November 7, but cautioned he was not definitely certain that that date would be the one fixed.

However, he said, while a violation of that kind probably would be conclusive evidence of noncompliance with the automobile code on the part of Ford, he does not consider the manufacturer now eligible to bid on government contracts.

He asserted in response to questions:

"No, I don't think he's eligible because Edsel Ford told me when I was in Detroit that they would never consent to any collective bargaining."

Johnson disclosed that Robert Fechner, director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, had informed him that a low bid by a Ford dealer for a large number of trucks for his organization would be rejected. He asserted:

"I've taken a position that a great big billion dollar corporation cannot hide behind a $10,000 company."

from breaking back to the dismal levels prevailing not so long ago.

IT IS FOR the purpose of achieving the results outlined in this series of editorials that President Roosevelt is ardently urged to declare himself for dollar devaluation.

He should, logically, announce his ultimate objective as a gold dollar fixed at the 50 per cent depreciation allowed by Congress.

Knowing President Roosevelt's intentions, owners of capital, be they capitalist or small saver, business man or speculator, can then do with their capital what they determine to be best.

The plan hereby proposed would mean a new dollar worth 50 cents in gold (compared with the value of the dollar just before the country went off the gold basis).

Just as soon as possible, within his judgment, the President should announce the permanent and fixed new gold-value of the dollar.

Vote Machine Defect Brings Harris Quiz

be delivered today and tomorrow were of the same make and probably would have the same defects. He was of the opinion that no suitable link could be obtained in time for the election and recommended the use of paper ballots.

REES' REPORT

The report of Director Rees to the Commissioners follows:

"After setting up a number of voting machines for use in the general election, November 7, 1933, we have found that we are unable to adjust satisfactorily the indorsed candidates link furnished by the Commercial Credit Company to replace the one formerly furnished by the Poole Engineering Company, and accordingly we will be unable to have sufficient number of links made in time.

"This confirms the report of the voting machine investigating committee composed of the Honorable Frank J. Harris, Attorney Edward O. Tabor, and Attorney W. B. McFall, under date of October 17, 1933, quoted as follows:

"The indorsed candidate's link in use at the present is not absolutely positive, although on machine No. 483 we were able to defeat the purpose of the link only in the case of the candidate William A. Magee, who was indorsed by the Republican and Independent parties, as the machine was set for our investigation. It is possible, on machine No. 483, for a voter to register two votes for Mr. Magee by turning both buttons at the same time. It is true that this required careful manipulation and considerable force, but not more than can be readily applied without tools other than the fingers. After we discovered this condition, we had the machine changed so that Mr. Magee would be indorsed on the Democratic ticket also, which, we understand, is the proper arrangement for the coming election. This did not, however, prevent the voting for Mr. Magee on both the Republican and Independent tickets at the same time.

EXAMINATION NEEDED

"Apparently the above condition exists only when the indorsed candidate's link used is of considerable length. We would, however, find it necessary to check this on other machines than No. 483 before making the above as a positive statement.

"We were given the opportunity to see the new type of indored candidate's link, which is proposed for future installation on these machines, and it is our opinion that, when this link has been carefully designed and completely tested, it will prove to entirely overcome the objection to the present link. It would not, however, be possible to change to this new type of link before the coming election.

"The new type of indorsed candidate's link referred to above has not been fully completed, but will do all that is required when so completed. There will not be, of course, sufficient time to make dies and complete same in time for installation on these machines for use in the November election.

"Therefore, I recommend that paper ballots be used throughout the county on November 7, and would ask that your board take action looking toward the additional order to the printer."

Autos for Cavalry Held NRA Club Over Ford

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 27.—The White House is planning to scrap the horses of the National Guardsmen and make them ride automobiles in a commercial effort to induce Henry Ford to join the NRA, if you believe the reports afloat today at the fifteenth annual convention of the National Guard Association of Pennsylvania.

Lieut.-Col. Thomas H. Atherton of the horse-drawn 109th Field Artillery stood about 6' 3" to begin his speech to the convention today. He declared:

"The latest rumor is that this whole movement is an effort on the part of the administration to persuade Henry Ford to join the NRA. This proposition has created a feeling of distinct nausea in the stomach of many military officers, but either from being good soldiers or from the fear of offending 'higher authority' nothing has been said."

A speaker suggested such motorization should fail with the infantry. He explained:

"The advance of the infantry is at times rapid, but as a general thing a horse can keep up with it. When it comes to a movement to the rear there are times when the infantry outdistances the horse."

FARMERS SPLIT OVER STRIKE

Associated Press.

Dissention apparently has entered the ranks of some farmers in the strike called by the National Farmers' Holiday Association to boost prices.

An anti-holiday association was the object of a group of Southwestern Iowa farmers. They met at Glenwood, and took preliminary steps yesterday to form an organization whose business would be to keep farm products going to market.

Meanwhile in Wisconsin, where the Co-Operative Milk pool went ahead with preparations for a milk embargo, more dairies were closed and others were expected to shut down later.

Other developments were:

The executive committee of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation approved the administration's corn-hog reduction program, offering aid.

National Guardsmen deputized to keep open a bridge over the Missouri River at Portsmouth, Neb., were withdrawn.

Minneapolis Clock To Keep Dirty Face

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Mayor Bainbridge has a keen dislike for dirty faces, but there's one that's going to remain unwashed.

A huge clock in the Courthouse tower has a grimy face, but the Mayor says the city has insufficient funds to get it cleaned.

CITIZENS TO AID ENFORCEMENT OF CODES

NRA Perfecting Vast System to Spot 'Chiselers'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The citizens of the United States, individually and in mass, will be the police force by which NRA intends to keep industry, self-governing under codes, within the bounds of fair competition.

Within a few days forms will be available at every postoffice or local NRA committee office upon which any person may file complaint against anyone he charges with violation of a code. He will mail that to a regional compliance director, stationed in the principal city of his area.

Instructions in greatest detail on how to handle complaints so made have gone out to the two dozen Department of Commerce regional managers who are to serve temporarily as compliance directors for NRA.

If a case is referred to an industrial agency it will be accompanied by a time limit notice, and upon expiration of time without result, the regional director will take personal charge.

When a regional director fails to achieve results in a case, after due notice to the party complained against, he will refer the whole file to Johnson, who for the time being will serve as national compliance director.

JOHNSON LABOR TALK FLAYED

The address of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson before the American Federation of Labor was the "most ill-advised speech a government official has made in a long time," decared Stephen Raushenbush, of Harrisburg, secretary of the Pennsylvania Security League.

Speaking before a meeting last night in the Downtown Y. M. C. A., sponsored by the League of Social Justice, Raushenbush said that when a government attempts to establish a bottom level for economic conditions, it is apt to become the top level also unless there is strong unionization of the working people.

NRA LEISURE SPURS READING

The leisure time created by the national recovery program of shorter hours will be used, in good measure, by an increase in the use of library books, Ralph Munn, director of Carnegie Libraries, believes.

Pointing out that during the depression the number of books borrowed from the Pittsburgh libraries increased 50 per cent, Munn explained that the library cannot replace, with present funds, the books worn out during the year.

Last year, he stated in an article in the Carnegie Magazine, Pittsburghers borrowed 4,270,000 volumes. Usage of the library has increased 120 per cent since 1925, although during the past year, the library was forced, because of the burden on taxpayers, to cut down to the 1925 expenditure level.

The cut was made by closing down various activities, buying fewer books, and other retrenchments.

U. S. SHOVES UP GOLD PRICE AGAIN

Government Hopes for Similar Rise by Commodities

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's new monetary policy carried the RFC price for domestic newly-mined gold 22 cents higher today in the official hope that commodity prices will adjust themselves to the advance.

A price of $3.76 was fixed by the committee the Chief Executive designated for that purpose, as compared with $31.54 yesterday. Today's level was 66 cents higher than the world market price at the London opening.

PRICES RELATED

The economic principle behind Mr. Roosevelt's plan holds that prices of gold and commodities are closely related. When one goes up, the contention is the other will rise.

Thus the expectation apparently is for there to be sooner or later an automatic adjustment and that, since the price of gold is arbitrarily pegged and cannot go lower, commodities must move upward.

Those who watched the Roosevelt experiment closely were puzzled in their effort to determine what formula, if any, the administration was using in its daily quotations.

Since the first price of $31.36 per ounce was announced on Wednesday, the advances have been 18 cents to a figure of $31.54 yesterday and 22 cents farther to today's quotations.

LONDON QUOTATION

Meanwhile, the London quotation dropped from $31.09 at Wednesday's highest foreign exchange quotation to $31.06 yesterday and rose to $31.10 today.

The margin of the domestic quotation above the world price has been 27 cents on Wednesday, 48 cents yesterday and 66 cents today.

The price is fixed daily by three high government officers, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation, and Henry Morgenthau, Jr., representing the President and the Agriculture Department, called at the office of Acting Secretary Dean Acheson of the Treasury.

CUBANS HOLD AMERICAN

HAVANA, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Two Americans were involved today in strikes and uprisings against the government marked by widespread outbreaks of violence.

One, C. M. Jervis, was held prisoner by workers who took over the Alto Cedro sugar mill, of which he was manager, in Oriente province.

Fears of an island-wide general strike moved the government to renewed vigilance in the midst of continued disorders such as those in which the Americans were endangered.

Plans for the general strike, it was reported here, were being laid by Communists.

But the current strike difficulties in Havana kept authorities busy today as they sought to forestall moves toward further uprisings.

A huge bomb tossed from a speeding automobile did extensive damage to two buildings in midtown Havana this morning. No one was injured.

KAY FRANCIS

BRENT STRIKES FOR MORE PAY

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—George Brent, film star and husband of the screen actress, Ruth Chatterton, notified Warner Bros.-First National studios last night he would not play in the picture "Mandalay," in which he was cast with Kay Francis.

Brent, reports said, walked out on the projected picture shortly before his scheduled departure on a location trip because of a dispute over salary. It was understood he was receiving about $1,000 a week, but how much more he believed he should be paid was not disclosed.

Shortly after he had made his declaration the studio announced Lyle Talbot, film actor who recently was injured in a motor car accident, had been obtained to fill the part.

Brent's wife originally was cast in the same picture, but she, too, refused to accept the part planned for her.

Declares High Court Rulings Oppose NRA

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Overwhelming weight of decisions of the United States Supreme Court for three decades is against the validity of the National Recovery Act, Dr. Ashley Sellers, Emory University law professor, said in a speech prepared for delivery today at the Southern Political Science Assiciation convention.

Prof. Sellers said however, there is a chance the high court will sustain the act, "prompted by a situation of fact and not of the law."

Truckers' Union Outlaws Strike

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Union leaders who started a transportation strike in Philadelphia less than a month ago have agreed to try to stop the second one, for which they disclaim responsibility.

Leaders of the latest strike, aimed at truck operators who failed to sign agreements with the Brotherhood of Transportation Workers after the first walkout, estimated more than 1,000 drivers had joined the strike yesterday.

NEW BANK CHIEF REPUDIATES WIGGIN

$10,000,000 Profit On Stock Deals Disclosed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Disclosure to Senate investigators that Albert H. Wiggin made more than $10,000,000 by trading in stock of the Chase National Bank while he was its head drew a repudiation of the institution's past policies today from its new management.

After Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the Senate Banking Committee, had created a stir by showing the fortune made by Wiggin, W. W. Aldrich, the present head of the bank, interrupted the proceedings with a statement promising there would be no "artificial market" in the stock as long as he was in charge of the institution.

Aldrich later amended the statement to promise the market would not be affected by the operation of trading accounts by affiliates of the bank.

The bank president's statement was extemporaneous and followed the disclosures of Wiggin profits while the Chase Securities Corporation, an affiliate of the bank, was engaging in pool operations in the bank stock.

Aldrich's dramatic statement, repudiating the policies of the man who sat beside him and preceded him in management of the bank, came as a surprise to committee members.

Wiggin only two days ago gave up his retirement salary of $100,000 a year in the face of criticism.

Under close questioning by Pecora, Wiggin said the reason his personal corporation made $10,000,000 in the bank stock while the Chase Securities Corporation's operations were yielding only $156,000 was a difference in the way they operated.

HINT BRITISH DEBT BOLT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Unconfirmed rumors in diplomatic circles caused Secretary Hull to be asked at his press conference today whether the British war debt negotiators were dissatisfied with their progress and contemplated returning to London.

The Secretary of State referred his questioners to the Treasury, where officials were not readily available to talk on the matter.

It was a matter of comment, however, that Hull and Acting Secretary Acheson, of the Treasury, both were in consultation with President Roosevelt during the day at the White House. Their topics were not divulged.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, had conferred at length with Secretary Hull in the morning.

SUSPECT SLAIN IN CRIME WAR

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27.—Indiana bristled with arms today as 630 National Guardsmen and thousands of volunteers for the American Legion's "shot gun army" stood ready with orders to "shoot to kill" in the vast drive to put down the reign of bandit terrorism.

The orders to "shoot to kill" brought the first fatality in Indianapolis early this morning when police shot to death Gilbert Tuggle, 24, an alleged thief, who failed to heed the command to stop.

The Indiana National Guard also furnished a mobile unit of 25 picked machine gunners and riflemen to be available for instant use day or night at state police headquarters here.

Alcatraz Island Commandant Dies

NRA Defies Challenge By Cut-Rate Retailers

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—A cut-rate retailer or group of cut-rate retailers either in the general merchandise or drug trade who wishes to challenge the retail code authority's right to establish mark-ups on goods, below which they cannot sell, are welcome to do so, Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said today.

Johnson said that he had determined to forbid the sale of goods in the general retail or retail drug trades at less than cost plus 10 per cent.

Johnson said the retail trade authority, of which he is the head, will meet Monday and endeavor to work out final details of the mark-up plan. He said the mark-ups would apply to all goods and groceries sold in drug stores, at lunch counters or in food and grocery departments of department stores. He said:

"I am going to insist that all retail stores in the field come entirely under the retail code in every article of merchandise or service they sell."

It had previously been understood that the retail code would not apply to food and grocery departments either in department stores or drug stores.

Johnson was asked about the phraseology of the loss limitation provisions in the code, in regard to the use of the word "should." The retail code states that an allowance for wages "should" be added to invoice costs to prevent cut-throat competition.

Johnson said the addition of the mark-up to the invoice costs would be mandatory to all retailers the instant the trade authority established the percentage of mark-up required.

THOMPSON'S TREASURES GO UNDER HAMMER FOR 'SONG'

RELICS WORTH MILLION SELL FOR $65,000

Society Joins Bidders; 'Hot Dogs' in Great Dining Room

The sale will probably last two weeks. Oak Hill's 52 rooms are full of the collections of Thompson's honeymoon travels the world over, reputed to be worth $1,000,000, but the auctioneers do not expect to get more than $65,000 for the lot. Creditors hold judgments for more than a million, but the proceeds of the auction will go not to a creditor, but to a Pittsburgher who recently bought the effects from the Piedmont Coal Company, a Thompson creditor.

And yet, at one time Thompson's $70,000,000 "coal kingdom" made this house and its priceless antiques possible. And nearby Uniontown, capital of the "coke region," enjoyed such prosperous days that the town could boast that it rubbed elbows with a thousand millionaires!

GONG OPENS AUCTION

Eleven strokes of the Oriental temple gong, the same melodious chime that called Thompson to his meals before his last illness, opened the auction yesterday.

A lace table cover—the persuasive voice of J. Lawrence Cook, head auctioneer, wrings the last bid and the top price from the crowd—knocked down for $18. And so steadily on.

For the most part, Thompson's antiques seem to be going into homes much like his own, where they will become part of other famous and valuable collections.

AMONG THE BIDDERS

Among the bidders yesterday were Col. Charles A. Brooks, Mrs. A. W. Robertson, wife of the Westinghouse Electric board chairman; Richard Mellon, Dr. C. H. Burton, of Baltimore; Mrs. Charles Frock, Mrs. L. J. Huser and George H. Craig, of Sewickley.

Dr. Burton and his wife were buying furniture for an addition to their home in Baltimore. Col. Brooks said that he was buying for friends.

Appraisal prices were often in the thousands. There was a $2,100 rug, which Dr. Burton got for $405. There were a dozen and a half Venetian crystal brandy glasses, gold encrusted. Col. Brooks got them for $45. A small rug, silky heavy, a genuine Oriental experts have valued at $3,000 went to Dr. Burton for $330.

THE GREAT DINING ROOM

Out in the sunshine, which brightens even the weeds of Oak Hill, a curious crowd continues to poke and pry. More than 38,000 people, the auctioneers say, inspected the house during the week before the sale. Now, although the house is closed, hundreds peer through dirty windows while workmen pile up curios, roll up rugs. A lunch stand has been set up in the great dining room, and the crowd on the terrace buys sandwiches and coffee through the open window.

Perhaps the most curious sale of all was to Mrs. J. Lawrence Cook, wife of the auctioneer. Her husband sold her a huge jar of smelling salts from "Honey" Hawes' boudoir for $10.

The eager, bargain-hunting crowd bids quickly. A few dollars may buy a rug "J. V." paid $20,000 to snatch away from Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

MARLENE'S GIRL OUT OF FILMS

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27.—A sharp difference of opinion existed today between Marlene Dietrich, exotic German film actress, and Miss Rachel Smith, school teacher and child welfare representative at a movie studio.

California law allows a child of 8 to be on a studio lot only eight hours daily and to work only four hours.

Maria, 8-year-old daughter of Miss Dietrich, was working in a picture. Miss Smith visited the lot, said that Maria had been there eight hours, and ordered her sent home.

Josef von Sternberg, Miss Dietrich's director, declared that Maria was through work and was resting.

When Maria appeared the next day Miss Smith ruled the child should work only two hours to make up for "overtime" the day before, and report in the afternoon for regular school instruction.

Miss Smith's orders were not followed and she filed a statement with her superiors, which under the California school rules automatically cancelled Maria's acting permit.

Miss Dietrich may protest, it was reported.

HOLD U. S. MAN, WIFE AS SPIES

International News Service.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 27.—Two Americans, identified by authorities as Mr. and Mrs. Arvid W. Jacobson, and a Canadian widow known as Mrs. Martin were held today in connection with an alleged espionage plot.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson were each 29 years old. Four other foreigners also were arrested.

Police asserted the gang obtained a copy of important Finnish army plans, including those for mobilization in the event of war.

They were obtained, according to police, from General Staff Officer Pentikainen, whose disappearance led to an investigation.

Mrs. Martin, a young, extremely beautiful woman, arrived from Paris in May, according to police, who claimed to have found $3,500 in envelopes bearing cipher numbers when they raided her luxurious apartment.

Frost Sends 'Cherub' Crashing to Earth

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27. (AP.)—A 200-pound cherub crashed in front of City Hall and almost struck a blind newsdealer. The cherub didn't come from any celestial realm, however. It was a stone one loosed from atop the municipal building by an early frost.

INVALID GIRL ATTACKED

A Negro who attacked a 21-year-old girl as she lay ill in her home in Whiteside road last night, was sought by Center avenue police today.

The intruder forced the rear door and, after ransacking the first floor, went to the second and found the girl who, police said, had been in ill health three years. Despite her weakened condition the girl attempted to fight off the assailant and even revealed where a little cash had been hidden. The Negro spurned the money and fled after attacking her.

The girl's father, a watchmaker, returned home a few minutes after the assailant's flight and offered a $100 reward for the capture. The girl was taken to Passavant Hospital.

INDIAN STARVES SELF AT 120

International News Service.

THOMPSONVILLE, Mich., Oct. 27.—"Indian John" Gesick is dead here today at the age of 120 from the effects of slow starvation.

The ancient redman, known among his people as Shag-Wa-Go, had taken only an orange and a cup of tea daily for over a month, refusing all else.

Until recent years, it was a familiar sight to see Gesick seated on the porch of his cabin with bow and arrows, shooting birds as they lighted in his strawberry patch.

Gesick's mind was clear until the very moment when he joined his fathers in "the happy hunting ground."

THAW'S FORMER YACHT IN GALE

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The auxiliary schooner yacht Aurora, her deck strewn with torn sails and broken rigging, her engine room and much of her hull three feet under water and her crew tired and bedraggled, was towed into Hampton Roads yesterday by the Coast Guard cutter Mendota.

The Aurora was formerly owned by William Thaw, a brother of Harry K. Thaw, but was sold recently to William Hartness and was purchased from him by Mrs. Lewis Stone, wife of the actor.

Malcolm McGregor, Hollywood actor and six other men composing the crew of the vessel, told thrilling stories of the vessel's battle against a northern gale 10 miles south of Currituck, N. C.

T. Simonsen, mate, was washed overboard after the yacht had been picked up and was being towed toward Norfolk by the Mandota, but managed to swing on to a rope and was hauled back aboard.

COURT LOWERS ASSESSMENTS

Assessments on seven pieces of property in Brookline boulevard, Nineteenth Ward, today were reduced from $125 a front foot to $100 by Judge Thomas M. Marshall. This marked the first time in several years that the courts have countermanded the decision of the Board of City Assessors.

In his opinion, Judge Marshall stated:

"It is our impression that the assessment is hardly fair, due to the peculiar topography of the land, the restrictions of the city zoning ordinance, inaccessibility to the business section and the peculiar way the street car line is constructed, which renders traveling from one side of the street to the other difficult."

Pinchot to Miss Mine Peace Parley

HARRISBURG, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Because of pre-arranged business engagements, Gov. Gifford Pinchot today was forced to decline an invitation to attend a coal mining conference on Monday in Wilkes-Barre.

Thomas Maloney, district president of the Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania, arranged the conference in hopes of settling the insurgent strike which has continued in the anthracite region several weeks.

DOOMED RADIUM VICTIM DIES

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 27. (AP.)—Miss Grace Fyrer, 35, of Orange, died today in Homeopathic Hospital from the effects of radioactive poisoning which she received while working in the plant of the United States Radium Corporation several years ago.

Miss Fyrer was one of five women who worked in that plant who were "officially" doomed to die in court action in 1929.

The five were awarded $10,000 cash in settlement at that time and payment of all medical expenses. Two others had previously died, and Dr. Harrison S. Martland, county physician, said today a total of 20 from the U. S. Radium plant had met death.

Miss Fyrer had undergone 30 operations on her jaw bone, seat of the infection, and at one time was believed to have been cured.

The workers who were poisoned were engaged in painting watch dials with a luminous substance.

MACON BATTLES FOG IN PACIFIC

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The United States Navy's newest queen of the skies, the dirigible Macon, was fog-bound today off the coast of Southern California.

Forced to take to the open sea to avoid possible collision with mountain peaks, the silver-hued ship cruised during the night several miles off the shore line.

AKRON, O., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—At the airdock which cradled the American airships Akron and Macon, Akronites received today a closeup of the German sky-voyager Graf Zeppelin.

Permission for visitors to enter the dock was given as the Graf was groomed for its homeward journey to Friedrichshafen, by way of Seville, Spain, after its visit to Chicago yesterday.

The takeoff for the return trip is set tentatively for 8 a. m. tomorrow. Dr. Hugo Eckener, the Graf's skipper, has not announced the route he will follow over the eastern part of the United States.

ARTIST FACING ROCK PILE IN ALIMONY ROW

Barclay Behind Bars, Denies He Plans To Remarry

International News Service.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 27.—When you've spent most of your life painting pretty girls and marrying a couple of 'em it's pretty tough to turn loose your artistic talents on a rock pile.

Unless McClelland Barclay's friends raise $35,000 by tomorrow, the nationally famed artist will have to swap his brushes for a mallet and hack away at stones for 50 cents a day.

Barclay was discouraged over the prospect when he was interviewed today in the Fairfield County Jail, Bridgeport, Conn., where his two neighbors are also artists—second story artists.

Barclay was jailed on charges of wife No. 1, Nan Barclay, that he owes $40,000 back alimony. He was arrested in Westport, where the presence of a pretty young lady gave rise to reports that he had married a third time. The artist, a bit weary of it all, said the reports were all wrong.

Clad in a blue denim uniform today, he talked about wife No. 1. He said:

"She can't be starving. When we were divorced I established a $6,000 trust fund for her. She knows she can have it any time."

Well, was it true that he hadn't paid alimony? He exclaimed:

"Listen. I gave her $6,000 before the divorce. Since then I have given her $44,000. That makes a total of $50,000. Not counting the trust fund, doesn't it?"

The answer being yes, the conversation moved on to the young lady whom reporters found at Barclay's Westport studio. Of her he said:

"My wife? No, no, no. I have had enough of marriage. No, this young lady is a friend, Miss Helen Minardi. She is a writer, does magazine work, and lives with her mother in Rye, N. Y."

TRICYCLE AUTO CRASH HURTS 3

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Col. William Francis Forbes-Sempill, air attache to the British Embassy, and Charles Dalifuss, of Paris, a French aviator, both of whom came to Chicago on the Graf Zeppelin, were seriously injured today in the wreck of the new three-wheeled automobile they were testing here.

The driver of the car, believed to have suffered internal injuries, was Francis Turner, connected with a Pittsburgh firm. He is a brother of Col. Roscoe Turner, famous American speed pilot.

The car, known as the "dynaxion," was a new development in automobiles and built like an airplane with one wheel in front, two behind and the motor in the rear. It had an all-stream-line construction.

F. C. Turner, automobile racer, is a resident of New York City, it was said today at the offices of the Gulf Refining Company backers of the experimental car. He had been attached to the Pittsburgh office for a short while recently.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—General letters of administration disclosed today Renee Adoree, film actress, who died October 5, left an estate of $29.50 in cash, $400 held in trust by a motion picture studio and about $2,000 worth of jewelry.

LINDY IN PARIS UNRECOGNIZED AS CITY'S HERO

Colonel Gives 'Silent' Interview and Melts Hemingway, Coste

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, slipping secretly into Paris to avoid another tumultuous hero's welcome, traveled today over familiar streets completely unobserved by Parisians whose cheers six years ago abashed the modest trans-Atlantic flier.

No crowds swarmed at the doorstep when Lindbergh left the Hotel Crillon guardedly and went by automobile to Les Mureaux to inspect the plane which brought the couple through a storm from Inverness, Scotland.

ANNE NOT RECOGNIZED

Mrs. Lindbergh likewise rode up the bustling Champs Elysees, packed by a work-a-day throng despite leaden skies without even the chauffeurs in the surrounding traffic jam recognizing the eagerly-peering young woman as the famous ocean flier's wife.

She was the curious one this time, watching the oblivious crowds on either side of the famous three-lined thoroughfare which glistened with rain.

'SILENT' INTERVIEW

Lindbergh gave a five-minute almost silent interview to 50 American, British and French newspapermen and posed for photographers at the American embassy.

Mrs. Lindbergh stood in the background while Somerville P. Tuck, first secretary and press officer of the embassy, introduced each person.

The colonel shook hands with each, including the novelist, Ernest Hemingway, who happened to be in the embassy, but restricted himself to saying:

"How do you do."

And the interview was over.

Then bareheaded, and with Mrs. Lindbergh, he strode through the rain across the street to the hotel, noticed only by two women who stopped in their tracks and stared in amazement.

His old friend, the famous French flier, Dieudonne Costes, invited Col. Lindbergh to a private dinner with several brother airmen, and to talk over old times.

PLANE READY FOR HOP

During his visit to Les Mureaux Lindbergh examined a pontoon stay rod which was repaired in London and decided to have a more thorough job done by native mechanics. Airport attendants were instructed to refuel the plane and keep it in readiness for departure at any time.

Previously Linbergh told friends that "I came to see Paris," adding that he did not know how long he would stay nor where he would go from here. He made it plain that he did not wish any official functions nor any public attention.

Lindy Cloaks Visit Even From Pershing

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh succeeded so well in getting quietly into Paris on their flight from Inverness, Scotland, that not even Gen. John J. Pershing, living at the Crillon Hotel where the famous flying couple stopped, knew of their arrival until late this morning.

International Painting Rouses D. A. R. Ire

What is termed "unnecessary ridicule and derision" caused by the painting, "Daughters of Revolution," now being exhibited in the Carnegie International, may lead to an official protest by the Daughters of the American Revolution, officials intimated today. The picture shows three women of the dowager type drinking tea, with Gen. Washington in the background.

Mrs. B. C. McElderry, former regent of the organization here and other members declared the picture unnecessarily makes a laughing stock of a work worthy of complete respect. Mrs. McElderry said:

"Many people do not realize how much valuable work the D. A. R. has done. The organization has been the target for considerable ridicule. Naturally we have tried to preserve the American ideals, and no other organization has greater patriotism or devotion to our country. We were the first to realize the menace of Communism, which no thinking person would deny. Most of the attacks, such as the derision in this picture, began with the Reds."

HUMAN CHAIN RESCUES CHILD

CINCINNATI, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Firemen dangled a human chain over a cliff today to rescue Yale Rice, 5, who tried to play mountain-climber, got halfway and then found himself unable to go any further up or down.

Three firemen made up the chain that others of their company dangled some 30 feet over the edge of a cliff to reach the boy.

Had the lad slipped, he would have tumbled 30 feet more down the rocky precipice.

The boy and several companions, out "exploring," attempted to scale the cliff. Yale led the way, but lost his nerve when he became stuck. His crying caused his companions to run away.

ASSEMBLY MAY PROVIDE MORE RELIEF FUNDS

International News Service

HARRISBURG, Oct. 27.—Regardless of popular action on the $25,000,000 bond issue in November, the forthcoming special session of the General Assembly must appropriate additional relief funds to prevent another extraordinary session during 1934, Auditor General Frank E. Baldwin asserted today.

Baldwin's remark came after Gov. Gifford Pinchot reported "satisfactory progress" in his deliberations with political and Legislative leaders on a program for Legislative action next month. The conferees will meet again next Wednesday.

If the bond issue is rejected, the commonwealth will have only a balance of approximately $36,000 to meet relief needs after December. If it is approved, $20,000,000 which has been earmarked for relief will be matched by federal grants.

Baldwin said:

"Regardless of the fate of the bond issue, I feel sure the coming special session will have to appropriate additional funds for relief or another session will be necessary before next June."

He explained that on the basis of present expenditures—about $7,000,000 including administrative costs per month—the $40,000,000 will be exhausted in about six months. This would inject relief legislation into the session Gov. Pinchot will call for next month or will prolong the inevitable until about the beginning of the next fiscal year.

State Relief Board figures show the decline in relief needs has ended and an upswing is under way.

To meet this emergency Baldwin ventured his oft-repeated recommendation that the motor license fund be tapped for money to meet the emergency. He understands that "three-fourths of the states of the nation are doing it" and can see no reason why Pennsylvania's fund should be regarded as "a sacred cow."

EXPECT CALL NOVEMBER 13

HARRISBURG, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Although Gov. Pinchot and Republican leaders are secretive about the progress of their plans for a short, inexpensive special session of the Legislature, there is a growing certainty the session will be called November 13.

They conferred on the subject for three hours yesterday, but all the Governor would say at the close of the meeting was that it was "long and very satisfactory."

LEWIS URGES RELIEF BONDS

NEW FREEPORT, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Samuel S. Lewis, secretary of highways, who, as state treasurer in 1928, opposed five bond issues of $138,000,000, today urged approval of the $25,000,000 state expenses bond issue, to be voted on November 7.

Speaking at a road opening celebration, Secretary Lewis said the pending amendment is "vitally needed" to permit Pennsylvania to fulfill its obligations to the federal government, which has allocated money on the basis of a 50-50 state-federal agreement to make $100,000,000 available for those out of work in the state.

Lewis said the bond issue is "vitally needed" also to enable state-aided hospitals to continue free service and is "essential for the proper maintenance of our colleges and universities." Of the bond issue proceeds, $20,000,000 is set aside for relief and $5,000,000 for hospitals and colleges.

Milk Purchase Plan Not O. K. With U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, in a statement today said Representative Crosby (Dem.) of Pennsylvania, "is not an agent of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration and is not authorized by it to purchase for or distribute milk to the needy unemployed."

The statement was brought about by one previously from Crosby that he was setting up a nationwide organization, with relief administration sanction, to purchase the milk.

President Owes U. S. Saloon Ban—Cannon

IONIA, Mich., Oct. 27.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt owes it to the country to prevent the return of the saloon, in the opinion of Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

Governor Al Smith for his activities in behalf of repeal, Bishop Cannon at the same time paid a personal tribute to the Happy Warrior, "for he has been astute, shrewd and no one questions his sincerity."

Wyoming to Act On Liquor Control

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Governor Leslie A. Miller of Wyoming today called a special session of the State Legislature to meet next December 4. Repeal of the sale of liquor by the drink and control of the sale of beer will be the principal matters for consideration.

Prohibition Repeal Assured in Iceland

Returns from 16 districts of 27 in last Saturday's election gave 12,350 votes for repeal to 7,300 against.

Keep Liquor, Politics Apart, Pinchot Says

about to be repealed. On the contrary, the drys need to be far more active than they have been for years. Not active to defeat the will of the American people, but to create a new will and to regulate and control liquor for the greatest good of the greatest number. We are drys, but we are Americans first."

CONVICTIONS STAND

Recalling a speech of several years ago in which he criticized "men who have the impudence to pick out those articles of our Constitution which they will obey," Pinchot said:

"I can not change my position now just because the shoe is on the other foot. If it was sound before it is sound today. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. Turn about is fair play.

"Just as I demanded that every wet should accept the decision of the American people when they went dry, so now I must myself accept the decision of the American people when they go wet.

"In accepting the decision of the American people, I have not changed my convictions. I have not weakened or surrendered by allegiance to the dry cause. I have simply done what I hold every good American must do under the circumstances.

"I accept the decision of the majority and I propose to obey the law while it is the law. Every citizen who does not like the law, has the right to try and change it.

"This decision against my view does not lead me to believe that the great majority of the people of the United States are for repeal because they want to guzzle whisky and wallow in the gutter. We are not a nation of drunkards. We were not before prohibition; we are not under prohibition; and we are not going to be after prohibition."

Reviewing his personal attitude toward prohibition, and the history of the Eighteenth Amendment, the Governor said he is dry "because I believe prohibition is morally right" and "economically right."

Discussing development of the present trend toward national repeal, he asserted violation of the Eighteenth Amendment and racketeering in liquor were "deliberately encouraged by the controlling Federal authorities and by many minor authorities."

The Federal Treasury department, he said, dismissed experienced excise tax enforcement men and substituted "the scum of the political underworld." He said:

"I rented my house in Washington to one of the principal enforcement officials. When I got it back I found beer brewing equipment in the cellar.

"In state after state, including this one, the Federal administrator of the Volstead law was guilty of breaking the law he was appointed to enforce. In Pennsylvania incompetent after incompetent followed crook after crook in this crucial position, all nominated for wet and political reasons by wet politicians."

Pinchot asserted some of the responsibility for the discrediting of the Eighteenth Amendment" lies upon dry leaders who "laid down on the job, shut their eyes, refused to see and refused to act."

He said:

"Instead of matching the destructive propaganda of the wets by a corresponding protective propaganda, they acclaimed the Eighteenth Amendment, rejoiced in the Volstead act, and let it go at that. They went into winter quarters while the enemy was on the march. They thought the war was over when the heavy fighting had only just begun."

Low Tax On Liquor Urged In Mid-West Conference

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 27.—(INS.)—A drive to keep the federal tax on liquor reasonably low after prohibition repeal and as uniform as possible throughout the country was under way today following a five-state conference here yesterday on liquor problems. The conference, attended by representatives of middle western governors, concluded that reasonably low liquor taxes, both state and national, will be imperative to discourage bootlegging and illicit manufacture.

HOTELMEN HOPE TO SELL LIQUOR

A right for legitimate hotels to serve their guests liquor in a decent manner, is the demand of the Pennsylvania State Hotel Association, following prohibition repeal, according to Daniel Crawford, of Philadelphia.

As chairman of the board of directors and member of the prohibition committee of the association, holding its thirtieth annual convention in William Penn Hotel, he said:

"We are desirous of returning to the hotel its right to dispense liquor in accordance with our traditions and a decent program. We are opposed to the evils of the old days when many hotels operated as joints and dives. But we do want and demand a right to serve our guests in a decent manner instead of driving them out to bootleggers.

"We want to be able to sell a small quantity of liquor—say a quart as the maximum—in the original package as an accomodation.

REPEAL CRIME WAR PLANNED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—In contemplating the effect that possible repeal would have on those who have been living well off their earnings in the illegal liquor business, government officials are preparing to meet any crime wave that might follow ratification of the Twenty-first Amendment.

These officials have been cognizant that repeal would mean a complete upset of the present alignments in the liquor business. A great many occupations will disappear. The gangsters whose pistols and fists have helped to carry on the activities in the cities; the men who have guarded the liquor-running trucks; the crews of rum runners, a great many of the border smugglers and the house-delivery bootleggers are among those whom officials expect to be cast out into a cruel December world.

M'CLURE CITED AS FIGHTING RUM UNION

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Telling of a "bootleggers' union," D. Harvey Sykes testified in the Delaware County liquor conspiracy case today that State Senator John J. McClure disapproved of it because it would bring no profits to the "protection" organization.

Seventy-six persons, including McClure, are on trial in Federal Court on charges of participating in a ring which the government alleges exacted tribute from liquor smugglers, operated a large brewery and gave protection from raids to lawbreakers.

Sykes, former constable who is serving a prison term on extortion charges, has testified that McClure personally received "at least $65,000 to $70,000" in levies on liquor smugglers alone.

Saying he was the organizer, Sykes testified that the purpose of the bootleggers' union was "to keep outside bootleggers from coming in."

"Big shots" in the alcohol distilling racket would sell sugar and other materials to small still owners and then buy the finished product at $6.50 a 5-gallon can, the witness said. Meanwhile the union was to keep the market price up to $7.50 a can.

Sykes asserted the extra dollar was to be used to pay police officers to keep outside bootleggers out, and for a defense fund in case of federal raids. The witness said:

"McClure said it would be no benefit to the organization. I thought it over and commenced to realize myself that it wouldn't pay. The union lasted only six or seven weeks."

28 New Indictments In Phila. Rum Probe

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Twenty-eight new indictments, charging conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws, were returned here today while, in an adjacent Federal Court room, the government struck blow after blow in the conspiracy trial of Senator John J. McClure and 75 other defendants.

The latest true bills, naming "Fox" Poley, bootlegger, as head of an alleged rum ring, bring to more than 120 the number of persons indicted by a federal grand jury. In addition, the jury now has two other rum combines under investigation and more than 80 additional indictments are expected.

Bench warrants were issued immediately for those indicted by Judge George A. Welsh.

Although evidence given the grand jury was carefully guarded, it was learned the ring operated a fleet of ships at sea with which they established contact by a portable wireless station. Liquor was smuggled in from Montreal and the island of St. Pierre de Miquelon to points on the New Jersey coast and then taken into Delaware County.

It was in Delaware County that the government charges Senator John J. McClure, prominent Republican leader once mentioned as a gubernatorial possibility, headed a huge liquor "protection" ring which accepted graft for granting immunity to lawbreakers.

Volume of Riley Poems Brings $510

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach bought a first edition of "The Old Swimmin' Hole' and 'Leven More Poems," earliest of the books of James Whitcomb Riley, for $510 yesterday in the second session of the sale of the library collected by the late Charles P. Senter, of St. Louis, at the American Art Association Galleries.

Another unusual item, which brought only $17.50, was an edition of Holbein's "Dance of Death," which bore a note on the fiyleaf stating that its binding was human skin.

Auto Kills Girl Chasing Pet Dog

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—As Marybell Uram, 6, started across the street to join her pet dog, she ran in front of an automobile and was fatally injured. She died yesterday on the way to a hospital.

U. S. Thanks Japan For Aiding American

TOKIO, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Acting on instructions from Secretary of State Cordell Hull at Washington, American Ambassador Grew visited Foreign Minister Koki Hirota today and expressed the United States government's thanks for the Japanese army's share in bringing about the liberation of Dr. Niels Nielsen, an American missionary, in Manchuria.

Dr. Nielsen, formerly of Minneapolis, was released and returned to the Lutheran staff at Hsiuyen, 110 miles south of Mukden, Manchuria, after having been held captive by brigands since last April.

RYAN PREDICTS 'NEW DEAL' AT FRICK PITS

John E. Johnson, Ralph Courtley, James Arthur Hall and Joseph J. Prady—came here to urge a prompt settlement of the captive mine dispute. For 10 days this matter has been in the hands of President Roosevelt following the deadlock in the negotiations between President Thomas Moses, of the Frick Coke Company, and Vice President Philip Murray, of the United Mine Workers, in their efforts to compromise differences between the coal operators and the miners in bringing all mines under the Blue Eagle of the NRA irrespective whether they be commercial or "captive."

MINERS ANXIOUS

For more than a week the President has waited. Out on the picket lines men have shivered in the chill mountain air. Women and children, already reduced to want, face the approach of winter with the attendant perils of hunger and lack of shelter. A decision must be had. If the personal appeal of the miners themselves could avail, the pilgrimage to Washington by Martin Ryan and his comrades would not be in vain.

At noon yesterday President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, introduced the rugged delegation to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator. They had the right of way. Sleek office seekers, the executives of big business corporations and various arrays of business and financial "big shots" were obliged to wait. Johnson heard the story of the miners and received their petition. As they arrived, Johnson said:

"How are you, Ryan? I've been wanting to see you."

After this visit the delegation went to the White House.

The President was ill in his room and not receiving callers, but his secretary greeted the band of workers cordially and told them that Mr. Roosevelt insisted upon the settlement of the mine dispute without further parley. It was good news.

PROMPT RESULTS

On the White House steps Martin Ryan and his delegates paused to reflect. In the short space of an hour they had reached those in authority with their petition and everywhere had been given assurance that positive movements had been made for settlement and a consequent resumption of employment. Ryan said:

"Looks like we have gained the things we tried to get at the start of this thing. All we wanted was a square deal. I believe the President will see that we get it. It's too bad he is suffering with a cold because if he had been well I know that he would have made us welcome, because, being on the square himself, I am sure he is with us in our fight for a square deal, or a 'New Deal,' as he calls it.

"Just three months ago the strike was called among the mines of the Frick Coke Company. We believed in the new code and felt that all miners should be given the same wages and receive the same treatment.

"We objected to the unfair system of not paying for 'dead work' and the custom of laying off men and discharging them if they made complaint. Old men were fired and new men were taken on without any bargaining with the workers. For years we had endured this treatment and when the strike was called July 25 the workers in the four Colonial mines, Filbert and the rest of the Frick operations went out. All told there were 15,000 men in our ranks.

MOVEMENT SPREAD

"We resolved to unionize the whole region. At Colonial I started the Grindstone local of the United Mine Workers of America with a little band of six men. At the other mines a few resolute men got together and formed locals. It didn't take long until we gathered in recruits by the hundreds.

"No movement ever succeeded by sitting in a fence corner and whittling. We had a fight on our hands and we knew it. We rolled up our sleeves and waded in. We didn't pussyfoot. We told the men that their welfare and their very lives depended upon establishing unions and in defending our rights, and if the things done by the officers of the union didn't suit us, we said so—and everybody could hear it.

"In a few weeks we had 97 per cent of the miners enrolled and in all we have 76 thriving locals. We won our first step and then came a truce on August 6. Back to work we went. We accepted promises as having been made in good faith. We watched the work of Gen. Johnson in getting the operators to sign up the coal code. For a little while it looked rosy enough. The commercial operators went along on both wage scales and the checkoff. Then came the flare-up when the owners of the captive mines refused to sign. This came on September 22, and the second strike was called.

"There will be no more truce. There is nothing to compromise. The action of the operators shows us that it would be useless to go back to work until all differences are settled and both sides are satisfied and bound by the President's agreement."

DELEGATE WEEPS

Gen. Johnson's bluff manner made a ten-strike with Ryan and his delegation. The feeling was mutual because the National Recovery Administrator admires fighters, and he talked to the miners in their own language. After a short interchange on the causes and effect of the strike and further objectives of the unionists, inquiry was made as to living conditions in the mining communities and the prospects for the coming winter. No longer any hardboiled mannerisms, and one of the delegates, telling of conditions, broke into tears. When the little party left Johnson's office one of the men remarked:

"The General is with us 100 per cent."

Roosevelt Calls Hand Of Steel Men on Mines

Calls for Showdown In Captive Pit Strike

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—President Roosevelt has called the hand of the nation's steel barons again.

He asked them to come here on Monday and tell him what efforts they have made to restore peace in their captive coal mines. Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel board; Eugene C. Grace, of Bethlehem; ex-Gov. Nathan L. Miller, of New York, now counsel for the American Iron and Steel Institute, and probably others, will call at the White House Monday. President Roosevelt is ready to ask them some pretty blunt questions.

Mr. Roosevelt sent the metal kings away from here two weeks ago after they assured him they would negotiate with representatives of the captive mine workers in an effort to bring peace in the mines. Since that time there have been reports from Taylor that he and his associates were "making progress." Nothing more definite than that was heard, however, and the President now wants to know more about the negotiations.

WAIT SHOWDOWN

Union leaders at the captive coal mines today awaited the outcome of President Roosevelt's conference with the steel corporation officials, owners of the captive mines, next Monday.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, expressed the hope that the President would effect a settlement, saying:

"I read that the President called the steel officials in. I hope that a satisfactory settlement will be made."

The parleys between Murray and Thomas Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, were snapped off and the steel barons in New York began to deal directly with the President. Two weeks have elapsed since Moses called the last meeting.

United States Senator James J. Davis called to see Moses in his office today. After being closeted for half an hour, Davis said:

"We just talked over old times."

All commercial mines, except a few in Mercer County, were going at top speed, producing, mine leaders said, at the fullest capacity since the World War period. A difference over wages in Mercer County brought the closing of half a dozen mines.

CARRIERS SEEK CHEAPER RAILS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Hope for a lower rate than $37.75 a ton appears to be delaying announcement by the railroad co-ordinator of the answers from the big steel companies to the administration's request for bids on 800,000 tons of steel rails.

Joseph B. Eastman today declined to answer questions on the situation, saying he soon would have a prepared statement.

Asked whether an effort is being made to lower the bids to a point near the $35 figure mentioned in his letter to the steel companies, Eastman would only say "wait and see."

He yesterday discussed the railroad situation with President Roosevelt.

The administration hopes to be able to increase employment in both steel mills and on railroads by arranging to buy rails for roads that need them through the public works administration.

WE CAN SEE AROUND CLOTHING CORNERS

else this fine clothing could not be sold at these fraction-of-their-real-worth prices

Last summer when even the best clothing makers were sitting around with their feet on desks practically willing to give their mills away, we went out and bought this clothing at a fraction of its real worth. And since then prices have risen. So our ability to see around clothing corners saved you money in two ways. Even the most critical of you will put your stamp of approval on these groups. From every angle . . . style, colors, fabrics, patterns, and models . . . they are garments you will be proud to wear. Come in and see them tomorrow . . . the last Saturday in Gimbel Month.

Motive Power Chief Heads Division In Indiana

Harry W. Jones, general superintendent of motive power of the Pennsylvania Railroad Central Region at Pittsburgh since March 1930, has been promoted to general superintendent of the Southwestern Division at Indianapolis, F. W. Smith, vice president announced today.

M. R. Reed, superintendent of motive power of the Eastern and Central divisions at Harrisburg, succeeded Jones here. The appointments are effective November 1.

Beginning work as a machinist apprentice 30 years ago, Jones received steady promotion, becoming superintendent of motive power of the Western Pennsylvania Division in 1929.

Pittsburghers Go To Guard Session

Several Pittsburghers were in Lancaster, Pa., today to attend the fifteenth annual convention of the National Guard Association of Pennsylvania which opened this morning and continues through tomorrow.

Among them were Col. W. R. Dunlap, commander, and Capt. Karl W. Curtis, of the 176th Field Artillery; Col. Eric Fisher Wood, commander, and Lieut. Gilbert A. Goldspinner, of the 107th Field Artillery.

Numbers Suspects Freed Under Bail

Calvin Dillard and Francisco Cole were at liberty today on $1,000 bail each following a raid by county detectives on an alleged numbers headquarters and speakeasy at 108 Patton street, Wilmerding, late yesterday.

They were held for court by Justice of the Peace William Wilkinson, charged with keeping a gambling house and violation of the Snyder act.

PARK TO ASSIST POLICE SCHOOL

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today assured Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., of the Public Safety Department, and Superintendent Franklin T. McQuaide of his co-operation in the establishment of a school for police officers here.

The school was begun several months ago with a class for traffic officers, but Denny and McQuaide now wish to include classes for patrolmen. Later a course for instruction for detectives may be added, it was said.

The school, as proposed, will include a series of lectures by assistant district attorneys, courses on sources of police information, criminal investigations and patrol duties by officers of the State Police School at Hershey, Pa.; Police and Fire Surgeon Daniel E. Sable, Fire Chief Richard L. Smith, as well as the director, superintendent, and other police officials.

MOST CRASHES DUE TO NEGLECT

Lack of attention is responsible for the greatest percentage of Pennsylvania's automobile accidents, according to statistics covering the first nine months of 1933.

The average accident during that time, pictured by officials of the Better Traffic Committee, occurred on a dry road, in clear weather, with the vehicle traveling in a straight line. The peak hour is 4 to 5 p. m. on Saturday.

Pedestrians figured in 28 per cent of the accidents and 51 per cent of the fatalities recorded during the period. Of the drivers, 834 were intoxicated, 290 were asleep and 6,521 were confused. Accidents totaled 32,091, a 7.3 increase over last year's figures for the same period.

CLASH OF G. O. P. WOMEN CHIEFS RUMORED

By MARK SHIELDS

According to whispers nearing shouts about the Republican organization tea tables, all is not serenity and the spirit of for God, for country and for Yale among the higher command of the ladies' division of the party organization.

It may or may not be fact, but there is precedent for attaching some weight and credence to the whisperings. The affair is of little real political importance, but it is an entertaining story, and the campaign can stand for a bit of entertainment.

When the campaign headquarters were opened for the general election Mrs. Laura T. Hinnau moved in to take command of the women's division due to her position as vice chairman of the Republican County Committee, chief aide to Chairman William H. Coleman. She occupied the same rooms where during the primary Mrs. A. G. Frazier had presided as head of the woman's division backing Mayor John S. Herron for the Republican mayoralty nomination.

Mrs. Frazier was absent.

SUGGESTION RESENTED

Then some of the men who had been active in the Herron campaign suggested that Mrs. Frazier be invited in as a participant in the women's work in the general election. Mrs. Hinnau is supposed to have resented the source of the suggestion, explaining that she was taking orders only from Mr. Coleman.

Whereupon she is said to have been told that the headquarters were not being run by Mr. Coleman who, while the County Chairman, and thus the titular head of the party, is not looked on with such admiration since he made that speech attacking the NRA. It was decreed that Mrs. Frazier would do some work, and that it was about time the work was getting under way.

LAWRENCE INCIDENT

The episode is somewhat reminiscent of the campaign of last year, when Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, an independent in the Republican politics, was taking an interest in party affairs.

She organized meetings in a rather independent manner which was resented by Mrs. Hinnau. The latter asked one of the powers of the party to put Mrs. Lawrence in her place, but was told that Mrs. Lawrence was doing a pretty fair job, and was stimulating about all the interest that was evident among the women.

Mrs. Hinnau became vice chairman at the direction of the late Mayor Charles H. Kline as a favor to Samuel J. Grenet, leader of the Twenty-seventh Ward. Women leaders of the state organization suggested once that she be supplanted by a lady from Aspinwall, but the old home-town spirit rose and the ladies of the state were told they had better keep hands off Allegheny County.

PEACE EXPECTED

It will, of course, be all ironed out, but all the problems which came with the equal suffrage amendment are not confined to how the ladies will vote. There is the matter of how they will go about doing it.

About Republican headquarters there is considerable cheerfulness over the reported accession of Charles Bright, who was campaign manager in the Eighteenth Ward for Rigester of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell in the primary. This Mackrell carried.

Mr. Mackrell, of course, is lined up with William N. McNair, the Democratic mayoralty candidate.

The Republican campaign will be climaxed next Friday night with a mass meeting in Duquesne Garden.

CARLO HORSEK, 13 NELLIE, 9

Two of the six Horsek children, Harwick, at the rabbit pen in which two of them told Justice of the Peace Gunsallus in an Oakmont hearing they had to sleep when their father, Joseph, chased them from their home. He was held for court. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

SLEPT IN COOP, CHILDREN SAY

Joseph Horsek, a Harwick coal miner, was in the county jail today, awaiting court action on charges that he neglected his six children, whose ages range from 4 to 19 years.

He was held for court by Justice of the Peace B. L. Gunsallus, of Oakmont, following a hearing at which three of his children testified he forced them to sleep in a back yard rabbit pen.

On four occasions, Rose, the oldest, testified she slept in the rabbit pen when her father, intoxicated, chased her from the house. On other occasions she slept at neighbors' homes, she said.

Horsek's son, Joseph, 17, testified he, too, slept in the rabbit pen, and Mary, 16, corroborated her sister and brother's testimony. So did his wife, Mrs. Caroline Horsek, who, in addition, charged her husband attempted to set fire to her bed.

Horsek denied the charges.

MEETINGS SET BY DEMOCRATS

LEWIN RAPS M'NAIR TAX PLAN

Both Parties Train Fire on Large Estates

It was a tough night for the Denny and Schenley estates along the political front.

In the Republican meeting in Arsenal High School, Ninth Ward, Dr. A. L. Lewin, member of the school board, said the graded tax had originally been established to make such landowners "scream" and stop so much money going to Europe. At the same time he derided the tax theories of William N. McNair, Democratic mayoralty candidate, who has proposed the tax be five times as much on land as on buildings.

Mr. McNair repeated his taxation program at a meeting in North Side Carnegie Hall, under auspices of the Italian Democratic committee, speaking part of the time in Italian. A tax system such as he proposed, he said, would hit these big estates, and he, too, wanted to stop the flow of tax money to England.

MACKRELL RAPS G. O. P.

The meeting, first Italo-American affair of its kind to be held in Pittsburgh, packed the hall even to standing room in the balcony. Its enthusiasm reached the heights in a vociferous reception given McNair on his entrance, heralded by a brass band.

Politically it was significant for the first appearance of Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell on the Democratic stump.

Declaring he was a Republican gone A. W. O. L., Mackrell attacked recent Republican criticism of the national administration. He said:

"To belittle the head of a nation who is straining every resource to relieve the country can only be the expression of a misguided organization."

Salvatore Sunseri, Mackrell's Italian committee manager, also spoke in McNair's favor.

TALKS IN ITALIAN

Billed to address his audience in their native tongue, McNair opened his address in flowery Italian, in which there was reference to the great heritage of that country, "the garden of Europe."

McNair's Italian, while not the exact brand to be heard in the chambers of Mussolini, according to authorities, was easily understandable to the crowd.

Mussolini's name was greeted with ovations when frequently mentioned by other speakers.

HOME OWNER AID

Lapsing back to English to explain his tax program, McNair said the utilization of the community's economic rent would take the burden of taxation off the small home owner and place it on absentee land holders. He advocated taking the tax off houses, because, he said, they give work.

The meeting was enlivened by the singing of the Italian tenor, Samuel DiPrimio, and of Mrs. Irene DeMilio.

Among the many speakers were Father Ercole Dominicis of Carnegie; Councilmanic candidates John M. Huston and John J. Kane; Dr. Vincent L. Marino, for Coroner; John Heinz, for Sheriff; John J. Kennedy, for Common Pleas Court, and James L. O'Toole, Jr., for County Court. Frank Nerone was chairman.

SEE BENEDUM BENEFIT

In the Republican Arsenal School meeting, where Magistrate George Metzger and Deputy Fire Chief Louis G. Conley presided, Edward G. Coll asserted that McNair's tax plan would be an excellent thing for M. L. Benedum, millionaire oil man, one of the financial backers of the Democratic campaign, and ascribed by Coll as owner of a big building on Fourth avenue.

Councilman W. V. English praised the graded tax law, but asserted McNair's theories would be a perilous experiment in Pittsburgh at this time.

Councilman George S. Oliver explained that President Roosevelt should have the help of all citizens in his work for national recovery, and declared he was getting it from the Pittsburgh city administration.

North Side Italians Cheer Democratic Candidate

INDORSEMENTS GIVEN M'NAIR

Endorsements for William N. McNair, Democratic mayoralty nominee, and his ticket, were announced today by the Irish-American Political Association and the Firemen and Oilers' Local No. 834.

Twenty-eighth Ward Independent Republican workers, meeting at the home of Mrs. John Matthews, Elmont avenue, also announced for McNair.

AUTO CRASHES INTO TROLLEY

Trolley traffic was tied up for 20 minutes at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street today when an automobile pulling out from in front of the Fifth avenue entrance of the Mellon National Bank, collided with a Center and Lincoln street car. The front wheels of the automobile were caught under the front truck of the trolley car.

R. Maurice Trimble, architect, of 7180 Brighton road, Ben Avon, was the driver, police reported. No one was injured.

Schoolboys Rescue Woman From Blaze

WESSON, Miss., Oct. 27. (AP.)—A dozen grammar school boys dropped their books yesterday to play roles as heroes when fire started in a residence across the street from the schoolhouse.

After the boys had braved the flames to save most of the belongings of Miss Mattie Browning, they discovered the aged woman had not left the house. Returning, they found she had fainted. The walls caved in a moment after they had pulled her to safety.

DRY LABEL WON BY LYSLE

Mayor George H. Lysle of McKeesport may favor prohibition repeal, but he wants his name printed on the ballot as the nominee of the Prohibition party and the court has directed that it be done.

Lysle claims that he received the nomination on that ticket at the recent primary election. He also received the Republican nomination. Someone applied for George Lysle for mayor on the Prohibition ticket.

Lysle claims that there is only one Lysle running and that is George H. Lysle and therefore obtained an order from Judge W. Heber Dithrich directing that the Bureau of Elections correct the ballots and voting machines so as to show George H. Lysle as the prohibition nominee.

First of all, it is distinctive [illegible] remedy and not a cure-all. [illegible] odds it is an internal treatment. Thirdly, it does the four things necessary: It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and helps in the system relieves the [illegible] ache and crappy feeling and speeds [illegible] the entire system. That's the treatment a cold requires and anything less is only chances. At druggists. Say Laxative Bromo Quinine. Use and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and reject a substitute.

JUNIOR PATROL

Even while there is a holiday like Hallowe'en fellows, we want to remember to be careful.

Here's a dandy letter today from Frank Vitelli, of 3122 Shadeland avenue, North Side. You remember he sent us a code which we couldn't figure out, so today he sends the answer: "I am joining the Junior Patrol."

But best of all he sends a swell list of safety rules and we are going to print them right here:

THE SAFETY PLATFORM

I will bear in mind the value of human life and a sound body.

I will take no risks to endanger my body or any of its parts.

I will do nothing to endanger the life or limb of any other person.

I will be vigilant not only for my own safety, but for that of others, in the street or indoors, on foot or in conveyances, anywhere and at all times.

I will try to do at least one Good Turn every day.

HOW YOU CAN TELL THE CAREFUL FELLOW IN SCHOOL.

He keeps to the right on walks, in halls, going up and down stairs.

He goes up and down stairs one step at a time.

He looks where he runs.

He doesn't jostle in a crowd.

He doesn't bully the little fellows.

He sees that the little chaps have a fair chance on the playground and that they don't get hurt.

OUT OF SCHOOL

He does not walk on railroad bridges or tracks.

He does not jump off moving trains, cars or engines.

He does not crawl over, under, or between cars.

He does not loiter around railroad stations or cars or play on or around turn-tables.

He does not cross tracks without remembering to stop, look and listen.

He looks where he goes and keeps to the right.

He looks out for automobiles turning corners.

He looks and listens for danger signals and heeds them.

SCOUT RIDERS PLEDGED AID

County Commissioners C. C. McGovern and C. M. Barr pledged support of the new mounted Boy Scout troop to be organized in Allegheny County at a meeting in the Community House, South Park, last night.

Addressing 42 scouts and nine leaders, McGovern said the Commissioners would try to carry out any plans formed by the troop committee.

Members of the committee are Maj. J. H. Shenkel, A. T. Benson, J. A. Brunton and W. A. Robb. They announced November 15 for the next meeting, after which the year's training will begin.

Coffee Stolen In Police Station

F. E. Berner, head of a wholesale coffee concern, left 42 pounds at the station here overnight and the next day only 24 pounds remained.

Mr. Lissfelt

The Morning Musicale at Hotel Schenley yesterday morning presented Esther Edmundson Mohr, soprano, and Joseph Esposito, pianist.

Esposito showed his fine musical spirit by choosing so majestic a work as the Bach Chaconne for this concert. But his style is not for this music. He is more contemplative, and his large tone somehow misses fire. That big tone is misapplied, too, in Scarlatti. In Medtner this player is at his best, which under ideal conditions is always good.

Mrs. Mohr is one of the famed Foster singers who have done such fine propaganda for the good name of this Pittsburgh composer. Her best manner is displayed in miniature songs where she sings with much more warmth of tone than formerly. I fear her group of autumn songs put her in too elegiac a mood for the happy "Tannhaeuser" Aria, in which Miss Lefridge did not help with a rather matter of fact accompaniment.

Doctors Give Creosote For Dangerous Coughs

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops all coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of all colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use.

CHRISTIANITY HELD HOPE OF CHINA

Christianity today offers China its only potent weapon against advancing Communism, declared Bishop Logan H. Roots, of Hankow, China, at a mass meeting of the United Foreign Missionary Conference last night in Carnegie Music Hall.

Dr. Roots made this assertion before representatives of 600 churches and social groups in Allegheny County by reading a letter from a powerful Chinese family whose name could not be disclosed because of its strategic political office, he said. The letter stated, in part:

"Communism in China today offers Christianity its supreme challenge. The two exist side by side. Certain areas of China are definitely in Communist hands. In the provinces of Fukien and Kiangsi, for example, through the great effort of Nationalist armies this spring, many portions have been regained from the Communist control.

UNITED EFFORT SEEN

"In the rehabilitation of these areas, the Christian Church must demonstrate as universal a concern for the needs of common men as Communism has professed. Far from the policy of retrenchment to which the churches of America have committed her, China needs not fewer missionaries but more, trained to advance a program of rural reconstruction, education, methods of cooperative effort with the humility to learn from the Chinese their own needs, but above all requirements, filled with the knowledge and love of Jesus Christ.

"We believe that Christianity can give China what Communism never can—a sense of the divine purpose of a loving Heavenly Father."

A time when all Christian effort in China, as well as throughout the world, will be united was envisioned by Dr. Roots. He declared:

"I think ultimately the whole Christian movement througout the world will come together in an effective unity for the expression of every aspect of Christ."

LOOK TO AMERICA

Other speakers at yesterday's sessions included Miss Lillian Picken, of Satara, India; Dr. Charles R. Watson, president of the American University, Cairo, Egypt; Dr. Yi-Fang Wu, president of Ginling College, Nanking, China, and Dr. Louis H. Evans, world-wide missionary.

Miss Wu pictured an even greater need of American missionaires in China "now that the Nationalist government has insisted that the Chinese take over the administration of Christian schools there. She also pointed out the dangers of an increasing leaning among students toward militaristic opinions.

Egyptian youths are convinced that in education lies their salvation, according to Dr. Watson. He said:

"The United States is the biggest educational laboratory in the world, and of course they look to us. It is replacing the oriental education, which was pedantic, with an education that fits one for life."

Dr. Jones said:

"We are denying in India that America's missionary efforts are denominational or spiritual imperialism."

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, of India, and several other missionaries will speak at the Buena Vista Methodist Episcopal Church, Buena Vista and Sampson streets, North Side, at 3 p. m. today.

ENDLESS CHAIN PATTERN 518

Unique Scrap Quilt

The Endless Chain, made of but three different patch pieces, needs no explanation of its name. The links of the chain are formed by scraps of material, each link being made of different scraps. This fact makes this pattern especially fitting for a Friendship Quilt. What indeed could be more appropriate than the patches given by a friend forming a link in the chain of friendship?

Pattern 518 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help ararnge the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Man Mailing Letter Calls Out Firemen

DENVER, Col., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Seven fire trucks, three fire chiefs, 40 firemen, three police emergency cars and six patrolmen helped Gerald Shawcroft mail his letter. Incidentally, the Mayor figured it cost the city $75. Shawcroft mistook a fire alarm box for a mail box.

WELFARE PLEAS MADE ON AIR

Radio pleas for support of the Welfare Fund's drive to raise $2,837,000 for relief this winter were made yesterday by Gustav L. Schramm, executive secretary of the Legal Aid Society and candidate for judge of Juvenile Court, and Miss Luella Sauer, of the Conference of Catholic Charities.

Outlining the aims and services of the Legal Aid Society, Schramm pointed to counsel fees, court costs and delay as the three major obstacles to justice for the poor.

The fund's appropriation for Catholic charities was analyzed by Miss Sauer. Of the $175,000 allotted, $112,377 will go to the family department and $44,107 to the care of children, making an average of $5 per week for each family and $2 a week for each child, Miss Sauer said.

M. E. LEADERS HERE NOV. 8-9

A conference of the clergy, directors of church music and leaders in the work of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in Christ Methodist Episcopal Church November 8 and 9. About 1,000 delegates from 1,900 churches will attend.

Speakers will be Edwin Lewis, professor of systematic theology and the philosophy of religion, Drew University; Dr. William W. Sweet, University of Chicago; Dr. Allan MacRossie, of the General Conference course of study; Dr. William P. Talley, president of Allegheny College; Dr. Charles Wesley Flint, Syracuse University; Robert Guy McCutchan, dean of music, DePauw University; Charles Fowler Price, Drew University; Dr. Gaius J. Slosser, Western Theological Seminary; Bishop Adna W. Leonard, of the Pittsburgh Area, and Dr. Earl E. Harper, president of Evansville, (Ind.), College.

LEAGUE FIGHTS NEW SCHOOLS

The Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers' League today voiced opposition to the construction of two school buildings contemplated in the tentative 1934 budget of the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education.

I. Leonard Aronson, president of the league, said the proposed issuance of $1,500,000 school bonds for the projects would require a budgetory appropriation for carrying charges of $110,000 in 1934. The tentative budget provides for an increase of $132,262.83 over that of the current year.

The league, seeking a reduction of at least three mills in school taxes, maintains the budget can be cut sufficiently without detracting from the standards of education, Aronson said.

VIENNA COURT GIVES DIVORCE ON RACE ISSUE

VIENNA, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—What was believed to be the first divorce decree granted in Austria on the ground of marital incompatibility between Jews and Aryans was handed down today by a Vienna court.

The court's decision pointed out that "racial differences such as between Aryans and Jews must inevitably lead to continual shipwreck, except in those unusual cases where common interests are unusually strong."

Both parties were held equally to blame in the case before the court because although they did not belong together they married anyway.

The Socialist publication Abend, in an editorial said:

GRAZ, Austria, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The principal and 11 teachers in the public school at Schladming, in Eastern Styria, were ousted as Nazis today.

Germany, Not Nazis, Under Fire, Says Hitler

COLOGNE, Germany, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Chancellor Hitler, putting a new twist on his interpretation of present world opinion, told 15,000 persons last night that the German people, not the Nazi regime, were being suspected abroad of war-like intentions.

He urged them, therefore, to vote for "peace and equality" at the November elections for which he is campaigning on behalf of the Nazi party and his own regime. He said:

"Because the world says the German government perhaps wants peace, not however the German people, I have determined to appeal to the nation itself.

"I did not do it for myself—my government is firmly entrenched."

Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, chief of foreign affairs in the Nazi party, said:

"There is apprehension abroad that realization may dawn that Nazi-ism is superior to democracy."

He added that the world was casting envious eyes on Germany.

NAZI STUDENT INQUIRY ASKED

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A demand that the activities of German exchange students at American universities be investigated to disclose whether they are engaged in Nazi propaganda work had been made today by Dr. Frank Boas, professor of anthropology at Columbia University.

In a letter to Representative Samuel Dickstein, chairman of the House Immigration Committee, Boas cited an official order of the supreme command of the Nazi regime requiring all German students in foreign lands to spread Hitler propaganda.

Boas, a German Jew, whose books were among those burned by Hitler's order, said:

"I have made no accusation against Columbia sttudents. I do not know whether the Nazi propagandistts are operating there or not."

As it was being revealed that a Long Island broadcasting station and a local German-language magazine were being investigated as suspected mediums of Nazi propaganda, Samuel Untermyer, attorney and prominent Jew, made public a letter which he said was intercepted at sea and gave "proof" of a Nazi propaganda campaign in the United States.

Consul Sees Briton Imprisoned by Nazis

MUNICH, Bavaria, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The British consul today was allowed to see Noel Penter, a British correspondent who was arrested in connection with his report of a speech by Chancellor Hitler last Sunday.

Penter remains in jail facing a high treason trial on a charge of violating Article 92 of the penal code.

RIOTING ARABS SLAIN IN FIGHT AGAINST JEWS

JAFFA, Palestine, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Police today fired upon large unruly crowds of Arabs demonstrating against a recent increase in Jewish immigration, killing an undetermined number and wounding others. A number of police also were injured.

Steel-helmeted police were patrolling the streets and the army and air force was held in readiness as the Arabs called a general strike and closed all their shops.

The situation was tense all morning, but it increased after the midday prayers when large crowds flocked from the mosques determined to form a procession which authorities had forbidden.

After making several baton charges, the police opened fire.

The situation at one time looked ugly, but it was believed in the early afternoon the situation had been brought in hand, although desultory firing continued.

All precautions have been taken against the feared attempts of the Arabs to defy an official prohibition to carry out the demonstration plans. Palestine is under a British mandate.

FRENCH CABINET BEGINS WORK

The new cabinet—new in little more than name, since the personnel varies little from the old—was admitted to the presidential palace at 2 a. m. and presented to President Lebrun.

Although M. Sarraut revamped the old Daladier ministry, injecting little new blood, he brought to the difficult task of protecting the franc and reviving prosperity, two things his supporters deemed highly important.

He brought what his financial advisers termed "new, even novel," financial ideas, along with a conviction that "almost anything can be done if necessary."

The outstanding name missing in the new ministry is that of the American-born Raymond Patenotre, undersecretary of national economy, who has been subjected to heavy criticism by the opposition.

M. Sarraut became minister of marine, choosing M. Daladier as minister of war and Joseph Paul-Boncour to succeed himself as minister of foreign affairs.

TWO MACKRELL AIDES SPLIT ALLEGIANCE

Two North Side Executives of Joseph N. Mackrell for Mayor at the primaries took different roads today, one coming out for Mayor John S. Herron the other following Mackrell's lead in supporting the Democratic nominee, William A. McNair.

Hugh F. McKnight, who polled the highest number of votes on the Mackrell council slate at the primary, announced he would vote for Mayor Herron at the November election.

Mrs. Walter McFarland, 5119 Fairmont avenue, chairman of the women's division in the Mackrell campaign organization in the primaries, came out for McNair.

M'KNIGHT'S STAND

McKnight will preside at a Republican meeting in the Twenty-seventh Ward November 1. He said:

"During my campaign for Council, prior to the recent primary election, I consistently advocated for the City of Pittsburgh a business administration, the bringing in of new industries, a reduction of taxes and a general economy in our city government.

"John S. Herron, the Republican candidate for Mayor, is the man of integrity, honesty and fairness, with an experience of years behind him and a knowledge so acquired, he is fitted to administer the highest executive office of our great City of Pittsburgh. Believing in Mayor Herron, I propose to support him in the coming election."

WOMAN FOR M'NAIR

Mrs. McFarland's statement:

"I have no sympathy with the political beliefs and practices of the leaders of the organization now dominating the Republican party in Pittsburgh and believe the election of Mr. McNair would be the quickest and most effective way of ridding the party of that domination.

"I supported Mr. Mackrell at the primary because he stood for the things I thought were right. His decision to support Mr. McNair proved that he was sincere in the position he took in the primary campaign."

Prodigy Too Learned For School to Lecture

JACK BARRY, 13

Jack Barry, 13-year-old prodigy from out of the West, arrived in Pittsburgh today to tell the rest of the boys if they're smart enough they won't have to go to school.

When he was 8 the authorities in Los Angeles tried to compel his attendance. A test of his powers was made in court and he added numbers quicker than the judge, spelled better than the jury, recited history with greater accuracy than the prosecuting attorney and his penmanship excelled that of his own counsel—so Jack modestly admits.

And the court ruled he was an exception and didn't have to go to school.

Jack lectures on all sorts of abstruse subjects, mostly Biblical and philosophical. He has given lectures in 39 states and has debated, he says, with learned professors and psychologists.

Some of his subjects: "The Five Great Questions of the Bible," "How to Be a Success in Life," "Are We Living in the Last Days?"

The boy seer doesn't like the movies much. He says:

"They're a sham. But John Barrymore and George Bancroft are all right."

Jack carries four books—the Bible, Webster's dictionary, a World atlas and a general history. From these and "inspiration" he obtains all his knowledge, he asserts.

The slender blue-eyed lad weighs 81 pounds and wears knickers. He has never seen a big league baseball game and cares little for sports except tennis.

He will give a free lecture tonight in the Pittsburgher Hotel. Others will follow Sunday and Monday nights.

FOES OF METRO PLAN ASSAILED

Branding propaganda circulated throughout the county against the Metropolitan plan amendment as a "studied attempt to mislead the voters, William S. Doty of the Allegheny County Bar Association, today pointed out that the amendment merely gives the voter another opportunity to vote for the governmental change.

He denied that the present amendment provides for the abolition of the office of the justice of the peace and alderman and providing for the creation of one court composed of 30 members possessing certain qualifications for the office not required of aldermen and justices of the peace.

Such a provision was contained in the amendment rejected by the electorate. The new amendment has been attacked on the ground that the establishment of the "court" would impose "another burden on the now overtaxed taxpayer."

KAVANAUGH OUT FOR M'NAIR

James J. Kavanaugh, who tried to become a mayoralty candidate during the September primary, but who was too young under the law, today said he would vote for William N. McNair, the Democratic candidate for Mayor. At the same time Allen D. Kerr, who was teamed with Kavanaugh as a Sheriff candidate, said he would follow a similar course.

Republicanism is synonymous with inertia, Kavanaugh said, and the present officials have shown no reason for retention. McNair has a sound plan of government, and will carry it out, Kavanaugh said.

I keep coming back to that word "balanced" on the back of the Chesterfield package

YOU often hear the word balance—something is out of balance—top-heavy, not on an "even keel."

What you read, "Chesterfield Cigarettes are a balanced blend," means that the right amounts of the right kinds of tobacco are welded together; that is, home-grown tobaccos, the right kind, the right quantity—are blended and cross-blended with tobaccos from Turkey and Greece.

When these tobaccos are balanced one against the other, then you have a mild cigarette.

When they are in balance, then you have a better-tasting cigarette.

May we ask you to read again the statement on the back of the Chesterfield package?
May we ask you to try Chesterfield?

U. S. SEA FORCE HONORED BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Led by its commander-in-chief, President Roosevelt, the Navy today celebrated the one hundred and fifty-eighth anniversary of its establishment.

The celebration is held annually on Navy Day, fixed to coincide with the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt. Ships and shore stations in all parts of the country held their customary "at home" for citizens. Special programs had been arranged for every naval district.

PRESIDENT'S GREETINGS

The President last night sent his greetings to Acting Secretary Henry L. Roosevelt of the Navy. He said:

"The United States Navy has never failed to render the fullest measure of service to the nation.

"In every war, the men and the ships of that Navy contributing the 'first line of defense' have thwarted the hopes and ambitions of the enemy, and in time of peace the Navy has ever been a true emissary of good will.

"Since its origin in 1922, October 27, the anniversary of the birth of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, has been set apart for the observance of Navy Day throughout the nation and it is deemed particularly fitting to commemorate jointly the glory of that great American President and that American institution so united in their devotion to the preparedness for our national defense.

UNDERSTANDING AIDED

"It is highly desirable that these men who spend the greater part of their lives at sea and out of contact with the people they serve should have a day set apart on which to make personal report of their trust to the people and convey to them a better understanding of the Navy and its work.

"Such information in a country where government is by public opinion is essential to the formation of correct judgements affecting naval policy, in this work of information, the Navy Day observances play a considerable part.

"Along with a lessening of naval armaments, there comes greater reason for maintaining the highest efficiency, fitness and morale in this branch of the national defense. Understanding and appreciation by all of us will give the highest incentive to such maintainance.

RECALLS OWN SERVICE

"Through personal service in the Navy, I know its responsibilities to the nation and I congratulate the entire naval establishment on the high efficiency, the high sense of loyalty, courage and devotion it has given always in the fulfillment of the missions assigned to it."

Secretary Swanson sent from the West Coast, where he has been inspecting the fleet, his message of greeting to all American was vessels for distribution over the naval wireless station here.

ADMIRAL SPEAKS

Admiral William H. Standley in a speech urged "a sane, businesslike, continuing program of construction" to provide for replacement of vessels as they become obsolete and the use of every endeavor to build up a strong merchant marine. He said:

"The building program recently inaugurated by President Franklin D. Roosevelt under the National Recovery Act, and his announced policy of building up to treaty strength will go far toward correcting the existing inferiority in our naval strength and placing our Navy where it belongs, namely, second to none.

"Today we find our fleet undermanned, badly in need of repairs and modernization, and with many of its units so old as to be obsolete and useless if pitted against modern ships of the same type."

His address was broadcast by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

British Isles Gale Disrupts Shipping

LONDON, Oct. 2.—(AP.)—A gale lashed the east coast of England last night, forcing 20 steamers to take shelter at Bridlington Bay and causing damage to houses along the seacoast.

The storm almost stopped operations of the east coast herring fishing fleet. Unusually high tides Wednesday night caused huge masses of cliffs to tumble into the sea near Lowestoft, Bridlington, Redcar and other north Yorkshire and Durham towns reported damage.

Admiral, Here For Navy Day, Lauds Cruisers

Those new 10,000-ton eight-inch gun cruisers in the U. S. Navy are better ships that people think, Rear Admiral E. S. Land, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Construction, here to participate in Navy Day exercises, says.

Between sips of cold beer at the James Magee home in Forbes street, following an airplane trip from Washington this morning, he was vigorous in his defense of the ships which have been the subject of so much controversy.

ROLLING CORRECTED

Not the design, he says, but weak steel caused the stern posts to break on the first two launched. And a tendency by the ships to roll with the wind and waves has been corrected on all of them.

What is the navy doing to protect the new ships against an air attack?

"That's our little secret, but you can bet that we are keeping our eyes open!"

Roosevelt's new building program, Admiral Land points out, actually is only a start toward a treaty navy. Pittsburgh, he says, probably will receive about $30,000,000 worth of steel business from the Navy during the coming year.

Scheduled to benefit by millions from the new $280,000,000 naval appropriation, Pittsburgh celebrates Navy Day today by proclamation of Mayor John S. Herron.

Chief among the observances listed is a banquet in the Hotel William Penn tonight, sponsored by the Roosevelt Commemoration Association of Pennsylvania. Speakers will be Admiral Land and Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of education for Pennsylvania.

LAWSON TO SPEAK

At 11:45 p. m. Lieut. R. S. Lawson, of the United States Naval Reserve, will speak over Station KDKA on "Your Navy and Mine," pointing out the part played by battleship construction in the development of modern American cities.

Throughout the day, the United States Naval Reserve, 141 Grant avenue, Millvale, was open for inspection.

According to Lieut. Com. Robert Velz, inspector of naval materials for the Pittsburgh district, between two and three million dollars' worth of orders will pass through his office monthly during the next 20 months.

Of this amount, Pittsburgh will benefit from about half, he said. More than 80 per cent of all Navy money spent, it is computed, goes to labor.

The Pittsburgh district's contributions to naval construction consist mainly of structural material, aluminum, forgings, galley equipment and refractive materials.

NATION HONORS T. R., MARKS NAVY DAY

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—To a big house where a woman in black lives there came today messages from far and near—for it was the seventy-fifth anniversary of the birth of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

Mrs. Roosevelt, the widow of the former President, who died in 1919, spent the day quietly, receiving the tokens of remembrance and devotion. Heading a delegation in an annual pilgrimage to the hillside grave, Brig. Gen. Lucius R. Holbrook planned to place on the grave a wreath sent by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The nation celebrated Navy Day today — because Theodore Roosevelt was such a strong supporter of the Navy. His widow said:

"He loved the Navy more than anything all his life."

She spoke yesterday to a group of school children at Roosevelt House, New York City, telling them stories of her days in the White House. When President McKinley died and the Roosevelts moved into the White House, she said, they found it a sad place. She continued:

"Mrs. McKinley had been quite an invalid, and there had been no children living there. It seemed all shut up and dark.

"My poor husband was so sad, so I sent word at once to Oyster Bay, 'Send me as many children as you possibly can.' After that it was better."

RUSSIAN ENVOY OFF FOR U. S. IN SECRECY

MOSCOW, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Maxim Litvinoff, to whom all Russia looks for the attainment of American recognition, was on his way to the United States today in an atmosphere of utmost secrecy.

And the crowds which gladly would have cheered him off on the all-important journey to Washington were barred from the railroad station.

Hours after he had slipped away behind closely drawn shades on the Berlin train, it was impossible even to learn whether his English-born wife had accompanied him.

MAINTAINS SILENCE

To the time of his unheralded departure he refused to break the silence in which he has locked his ideas about the forthcoming negotiations.

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Maxim Litvinoff, commissar for foreign affairs of Soviet Russia, passed through the capital of Poland today on the train which is carrying him toward the Atlantic Ocean and his forthcoming conference in Washington.

With him were Constantine Oumanski, chief of the foreign office press section, and Ivan A. Divilkovski, secretary of the foreign office collegium.

HULL DELAYS TRIP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Secretary Hull today cancelled his plans for sailing next Saturday on a good will trip down the west coast of South America, and will leave a week later with the American delegation to the Pan American conference at Montevideo, Uruguay, sailing down the east coast.

The suddenly re-arranged plans will permit the Secretary of State to meet and confer with Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, upon his arrival on a recognition mission.

BATTLE FLAMES FOR SIX HOURS

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 27.—Fire, accompanied by several explosions, swept the Stucky drug store building, a three-story brick, in the heart of the business district, early today, causing loss estimated at $50,000.

The blaze started on the unoccupied third floor and spread rapidly. The explosions were believed caused by chemicals in the drug store.

Volunteer firemen battled the blaze for six hours. A double brick wall prevented spread of the flames to a new building adjoining the burning structure.

Fire Chief Richard Timmons said he was investigating the cause.

Report Students' Clash in Warsaw

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A Wolf (German) news agency dispatch from Warsaw today said the government had extended the indefinite closing of Warsaw University as a result of student clashes to all the university's institutes.

The university senate and the president will be arraigned because they failed to call the police to curb the riots. The state's attorney summoned the president today.

HERRON RELIEF WORK ASSAILED

Mayor Herron's administration of relief work was assailed today by John J. Kane, Democratic candidate for Council at a noonday meeting today in Democratic headquarters, Kane said:

"Mr. Herron allocated about one-third of his bond issue funds to the Emergency Relief Association, the remaining two-thirds being set aside to pay men placed on the relief rolls by his ward chairman.

"The pay of these men varied according to their vote-getting abilities. Most of the men were paid 45 cents an hour, some $6 a day, but old-time politicians like Charles Hillegas, Jack Ryan and others got $10 a day."

Grandma's Tackle Thwarts Kidnaper

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Police were searching today for a masked man whose attempt to kidnap Teresa Collins, 5, last night was thwarted with a flying tackle made by Mrs. George Larocque, 48, the child's grandmother.

CUMMINGS PITT 'FRAT' MEMBER

Attorney General H. S. Cummings has accepted an honorary membership in Omicron Delta Kappa, activities fraternity at the University of Pittsburgh, John P. Bracken, president, announced today.

Mr. Cummings

A committee from Gamma circle, the Pitt chapter, visited Cummings in Washington last week. His acceptance of the Pitt bid followed.

The date for his initiation, if Cummings is able to leave Washington at the time, has been set for December 4.

Caddy Gets Life For Killing Golfer

RICHMOND, Ky., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A 15-year-old caddy, Lloyd May, has been sentenced to spend the rest of his life in prison for having killed Clarence Agee, 19, champion of the Richmond Golf Club here and acting caddy-master.

May was convicted yesterday. Agee was shot to death with a shotgun on the night of August 25, at the golf club clubhouse.

Portion of Pants Gone, Man Sues Theater

He sued John Hamrick, theater owner, for $50 damages. He recited that some object on a theater seat "fastened itself in the upper portion, commonly known as the seat, of plaintiff's pants and did then and there take entirely away from said plaintiff part of said seat of plaintiff's pants."

GUNMEN KIDNAP KY. CANDIDATE

International News Service.

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Oct. 27.—Four masked men at pistol point kidnaped Willis Staton, independent candidate for Circuit Judge, shortly after midnight on a lonely mountain road 30 miles east of here, the Sheriff's office was informed today.

Blocking the road with their automobile, the band halted Staton's car, commanded him to "sign or die" and abducted him when he defied them, according to reports.

Staton's youthful nephew, who was driving him to his home here from a political rally the candidate had addressed, was gagged and tied to Staton's automobile, which was left standing on the roadside. He freed himself two hours later and sounded an alarm.

FAMED ACTRESS AIDS NURSE

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—A voice from the past, the voice of Adele Blood, once a famous actress of the stage known as "America's most beautiful blonde," spoke yesterday in the real life drama of the Lankershim trial wherein Mrs. Irene Herbert is suing to collect on a $500,000 promissory note from the $7,000,000 Lankershim estate.

Taking the witness stand and speaking graciously and with as much ease as if she were reliving her famous roles in "Every Woman" and "Anna Christie" in the heyday of her career, Miss Blood, now known in private life as Adele Blood Hope, told of introducing Mrs. Herbert to Col. J. B. Lankershim, picturesque multi-millionaire developer of the great San Fernando Valley, 25 years ago.

Mrs. Herbert is suing for the $500,000 payment on the claim that Col. Lankershim signed the note before his death because of his appreciation of her "kindness," "protection" and many services she rendered him as nurse and companion during the latter years of the aged pioneer's life.

Head of Creamery Co-operative Dies

ST. PAUL, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Arthur J. McGuire, 59, founder and general manager for 11 years of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., largest diary co-operative in the United States, died yesterday after a brief illness.

The organization comprises 450 co-operative creameries owned by approximately 83,000 farmers.

SLEUTH ADMITS GUILT, OUSTED

Within a few hours after Constable Ray Platt, of Ben Avon, pleaded guilty to conspiracy to cheat and defraud in Criminal Court, as a member of the accident insurance swindle ring, a new constable was appointed in his place.

Platt was asked for his resignation and Judge Sylvester J. [illegible] named in his place Bailey Kent Schafer, deputy constable in the borough. He was sworn in and began his new duties today.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

Patricia Pitt

The days of a bride of tomorrow are filled to overflowing with entertainments. The feted young woman is Marjorie Catherine Stewart, daughter of the Howard G. Stewarts, who'll become Mrs. Robert S. Congdon tomorrow afternoon in Calvary Episcopal Church.

Last night the parents of the bridegroom-elect, the Sidney B. Congdons, gave a dinner-dance for the bridal party in the Hotel Schenley.

Tonight, after the rehearsal, the Allen Davisons, of Edgewood, will entertain at the rehearsal dinner in their home. Their little daughter, Clara, will be flower girl at the wedding.

Rehearsal Dinner

Tomorrow Mrs. James E. Graham will give the wedding breakfast in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

Mrs. Walter Friday, of Glenshaw, gave a luncheon Wednesday for the bride-elect. Anthony Kearing, one of the ushers, entertained at a dinner, followed by bridge, in his home. Mrs. John Young, of the Ruskin, entertained at a bridge-luncheon at the Ruskin Monday. Eunice Watson gave a dinner-dance in Longue Vue Country Club Saturday night for the bridal party, and a week ago Wednesday Mrs. C. P. Sidwell and her daughter, Laura Jane, gave a luncheon in the Edgewood Country Club.

* * *

The tea which Mrs. Benjamin Dangerfield, Jr., and Mrs. R. W. Downing were to have given November 8 to present Mrs. Dangerfield's debutante daughter, Katharine, has been postponed.

Postponed Bud Tea

* * *

At the tea to be given at the Child's Guidance Clinic a week from today for those attending the American Association of Hospital Social Workers' conference, to be held at the Hotel Schenley November 3 and 4, Mrs. George S. Ebbert will represent the Harmarville Convalescent Home, and Mrs. John Gibson, Jr., the Skin and Cancer Foundation.

* * *

The first fall meeting of the Ellis School Alumnae Association will be held at the home of Mrs. John K. Blair, of Brentwood, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Alumnae Meeting

* * *

Mrs. William Y. Humphreys, Jr., will entertain a box party of children in honor of her young son at the opening of the children's theater season at the Nixon tomorrow morning. "The King of the Golden River" will be the play.

* * *

Oliver Ricketson, Jr., head of the Carnegie Foundation's field force in Guatemala, sails today from New York on the new Grace liner, Santa Rosa, for Guatemala. With him are Mrs. Ricketson and their three children, Mary Margaret and Oliver III.

Family Sails

Mr. Ricketson, who's an archeologist, has been, with Dr. Sylvanus Morley, largely responsible for the excavations at Chichen Itza and other recently-discovered Mayan ruins.

Church Scene Of Johnston Nuptials

Yesterday morning in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Derry, Pa., Miss Marie Katherine Johnston became the bride of Patrick DeMalt. The bride is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Rush, of Derry, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. DeMalt, of Derry. Officiating was the Rev. T. A. Connors, pastor.

The church was decorated with chrysanthemums and autumn leaves and ferns. The bride wore peel grey chiffon velvet with a matching hat and a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses and lilies of the valley. Her cousin, Miss Dorothy Allison, was maid of honor and wore patsy blue chiffon velvet with a hat to match and her corsage was of Johnnie Hill roses and lilies of the valley. Emil DeMalt was his brother's best man.

Seminary to Close As Funds Give Out

HERMAN, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Founded in 1877 by the Capuchin Franciscan fathers, St. Fidelis Seminary is going to its proud classes because of lack of funds.

The 162 young men studying at the seminary for the priesthood will return to their homes, the Rev. Bertrand Brookmann, rector, said yesterday.

Jury Gives Golfer $3,433 for Lost Eye

COVINGTON, Ky., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—A verdict for $3,433 damages for the loss of his right eye, struck by a golf club that slipped from the hands of his golfing partner, F. E. Beach, has been awarded J. B. Berike, of Covington, by a jury in Kenton Circuit Court here. Berike sought $11,175 damages.

Erie Girl to Wed Pittsburgh Man In November

Late November will bring another wedding taking place in Erie, which concerns Pittsburgh for the bride and bridegroom will live in Pittsburgh.

Isabel Winburn, of Erie, whose engagement to Dr. George Gregory Burkley, of Pittsburgh, was announced late in September, has named November 30 as the day for her marriage.

The ceremony will take place in St. Peter's Cathedral at 10:30 o'clock that morning with the Rev. Gerald Dugan, the pastor, officiating.

Her only attendant will be her former roommate at Vassar, Mrs. Henry Bogerts, of Hackensack, N. J.

Francis Burkley will be his brother's best man, and Dr. S. Watson Harmeier, Charles Boucek, Karl Zimmerman, William Heazlett and Joseph Hampsey, all of Pittsburgh, will be ushers.

A wedding breakfast in the home of the bride's parents, the Eugene Winburns, of Erie, will follow. Dr. Burkley and his bride-to-be met at the Mayo Clinic, where her mother was a patient, and Dr. Burkley was an interne.

Dr. Burkley, who is the son of the Frank Burkleys, is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh. He is now a Mellon fellow at Magee Hospital.

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The League of Pen Women's luncheon yesterday grew and grew until it overflowed the room set aside for it in the Woman's City Club. Not only was there a good turnout of members, but many guests were present to hear the young Sewickley poet, Lucie Karme Gillette, read some of her lovely poetry, which she did with charm and sweetly gracious dignity.

She read several from her published poems, "First Children," and also gave a new one, "The Wind," written just yesterday. Mrs. George Phelps Rose introduced her.

Then, as an added attraction, Julian Lee Rayford, the Southern poet, rythmed and sang and read several of his compositions with accompanying gestures and descriptive sounds. Mrs. May T. Neff, Pen Women president, introduced many of the guests among whom were Miss Helen Hoerle, of New York, whose book, "The Girl and Her Future" is in its fourth edition.

Alumnae of Sorority Giving Halloween Masque

Miss Merwitzer, who is chairman of the affair, is assisted by Miss Florence Lewinter, Miss Madeline Safyan, Miss Rhea Robin and Miss Helen Bart.

Gen. Ward, Veteran Of Indian Wars, Dies

SEATTLE, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Brig.-Gen. Frederick K. Ward, 86, United States Army retired, died at his home here. He was born in Newark, O., was graduated from West Point in 1870.

Gen. Ward was a veteran of three Indian campaigns, Nez Perce, 1877; Sheepeaters, 1879, and Sioux, winter of 1890-91, and of the war with Spain, and the Philippine insurrection.

Cinderella Ball Group Heads Announced

Not only will debutantes of the season appear in feature dances at the Cinderella ball Thanksgiving Eve in the University Club, but they'll also sell cigarets under the chairmanship of Mrs. Alan Humphreys.

Directing the deb dances are Mrs. James McKay, who herself has appeared in specialty numbers at former balls, and Mrs. Edward Purcell Mellon II.

Mrs. W. W. Blair, Jr., is chairman of the ball; Mrs. A. P. Woolfolk, of tickets; Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr., patronesses; Mrs. James Verner Scaife, Jr., of supper; Mrs. W. F. Weaber, lucky number contest; Mrs. Ellen Stone Bailey, floor committee; Mrs. Roberdeau Green Annan, publicity. And Mrs. William Nimick is secretary for the ball.

Member Campaign Begun by Women Voter's Group

Its membership campaign was formally inaugurated yesterday by the Allegheny County League of Women Voters when it held its monthly conference in the Congress of Clubs. Two campaign teas will be held, the first at the Congress of Clubs on November 8 and the second at Mrs. R. Templeton Smith's home in Shady avenue on November 13.

At the conference yesterday, the majority of committees combined sessions to hear a talk by Miss Harriet M. Howe, of the Food and Drug Administration. She deplored the lack of control in advertising of food and drug products, and said that there is no law governing advertising of cosmetics, some of which are deadly.

Miss Lucy Randolph Mason, national executive secretary of the Consumers' League, spoke on industrial control and what it means to the consumer.

Wildwood Country Club Plans Halloween Party

The members of Wildwood Country Club and their guests will attend a Halloween celebration and dinner dance Saturday night at the club.

Firemen Smash Wrong Window

As they answered a downtown alarm last night, a ladder truck skidded and sideswiped a chemical truck. Then the firemen smashed a large plate glass window of a storeroom from which smoke was issuing. It was the wrong building. The fire, in the basement of a hotel, adjoining the storeroom, caused no damage.

Fortnightly Club Fetes Husbands

Last night the Women's Fortnightly Review, of Mt. Lebanon, entertained the club husbands at dinner in the St. Clair County Club. Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, president of Washington and Jefferson College, was the speaker and in addition to his talk the program included an amusing Russian skit written by Mrs. Nellie Risher Roberts.

It was presented by Mrs. Robert Kunz, Mrs. Lucille Miller Werner, Mrs. Edna Batz, Mrs. Lillian Gardner, Mrs. Kay Estep, and Mrs. Leila Conway. The social committee, headed by Mrs. W. B. McFall, arranged the affair.

Fight of 2 Women For Child Delayed

BEAVER, Pa., Oct. 27.—The habeas corpus proceedings through which Mrs. Vicilia Gongalez, Wyandotte, Mich., seeks to gain possession of her daughter, Emelia Gongalez, 5, now known as Betty Hamilton, from Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, foster parents, of Beaver Falls, was continued until next week by Judge Frank E. Reader.

Mother's Estate Benefits Children

Four sons and three daughters of Mrs. Caroline Dieterle, 1620 Brownsville road, are given the bulk of her $12,500 estate by her will, filed for probate today. They are Gilbert, Richard, Sylvester and Carl Dieterle and Eleanora Wolfe, Edith Wolfe and Leona Stein.

By NANCY JANE

Here's one of Helen Leony's favorite stories.

Once at a gathering a newspaper photographer arrived to take pictures. She began to enumerate all the reasons why she, and others, didn't want their pictures taken.

To which the photographer replied: "I came for pictures, not for alibis."

EVERY FUR HAS A QUALITY CLASS

The sleeves sketched will slip on easily over any sort of frock beneath.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

ANY woman about to invest her egg money in a new fur coat would do well to lend her ear to a skin expert, the sort who deals with the fashion menagerie, not the beauty salons. The people who have passed a million or so pelts through their fingers are hard to fool on quality and identity of furs, and their council will save the amateur enthusiast from purchasing karacul that turns out to be kidskin, and Eastern mink that gave its all in the state of Texas.

* * *

MOST responsible furriers are so proud of their professions that they rejoice in the individual excellencies of all types of fur, seeing no fun in fooling a woman with a beer income into buying inexpensive furs which have been doctored to look like the champagne variety.

THEY know that kidskin, when it is made of finely cut and sewn pelts, is a handsome, durable article in its own rights far superior to shoddy karacul at the same price; and they would rather sell a fine dark muskrat coat than one made of precariously painted "Eastern" mink.

Getting your money's worth in furs is practically an exact science—but one needs a specialist's advice concerning it.

Through the Spyglass Viewing the New

What eyefuls . . . what carfuls . . . what a time we have had with the batch of news we bring you today! Our spyglass is positively dim with fog from looking long and lustily! Therefore, waste no time in calling Grant 6500 for the names of the shops listed here . . . or sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply.

* * *

A new method of waving your hair . . . which is going to revolutionize you all my hearties . . . and turn you into meek little lambs who come bleating to this one and only shop which has it (exclusive rights in this country incidentally!)

No waving solution is used . . . no electricity on the hair . . . no irons . . . and it is NOT a finger wave! By now you're sufficiently aroused to demand "well, what IS it then?" And our answer is-air . . . hot air!

Nobody but this particular man knows how to do it . . . and until we saw it with our own popping eyes, we wouldn't have believed it! No sitting under a buzzing dryer, think of it! No waiting long hours for your hair to dry . . . it dries and waves at the same time! Time—10 minutes for curly hair . . . 15 for permanents . . . 20 for long hair . . . and the wave stays and stays! 75 cents.

* * *

Last minute gaspings just grabbed en route to press—words to the effect that one store which has been left absolutely goggle-eyed with the results of their $28 coat sale . . . has decided to do it again! ("Milk's good, cream's better," you know!) So that we just HAD to take a hand in the business and say our little say. It being that:—if wouldst have a GOOD COAT for a SMALL SUM these are the alpha and omega of your coat shopping! Loaded to the muzzle with furs, they are . . . weighted down as to shoulder interest . . . and plunged knee-deep in 1933 fashion! Sizes 14 to 20 . . . 38 to 50. Let's go!

* * *

Left, right . . . left, right . . . you won't get "left" and you'll surely be "right" if you visit a shoe shop we have in mind where the newest shoes of the hour have taken up headquarters! Trip in . . . hop in . . . trudge in . . . no matter how you get there just so long as you DO get there before someone smarter than you snaps up these purr-fect-ly adoor-able (gurglings on our part) black velvet shoes!

They're 4-eyelet ties and have the new and much heralded Chinese heels . . . $5.95.

Nor is this all! Evening slippers there are too . . . the same models as we saw parading their snobbish steps in another store for $9.00 whilst at the spot we cherish, they appear modestly for $4.95! Silver kid sandals . . . with cutout toe and heel . . . very Grecian you know! Also in white faille . . . dyed to match your gown free.

* * *

Even though your name may not be Tony . . . you can own up to a perfectly legitimate fondness for spaghetti, (as most people seem to!) So from now on consider us your fair-haired child . . . for we have found the place where you can get REAL Italian spaghetti (meat, mushroom or tomato sauce) and coffee for 25c . . . a lowly "two-bits!" We for one have never become exactly ravished over the idea of "spaghett'" so you know when we say that we looped ourselves 'round this with gusto . . . it MUST have been good!

* * *

Dip your nose into one of the new beverage mugs we've discovered at 10c each . . . and not a cent more! They have colored enameled rims . . . to harmonize with your frock when you wave them aloft—red, blue, green, yellow, orange . . . and sport three merry souls staggering down their sides in silhouette! Very gay . . . very heavy and "durable" . . . very much your money's worth for this price!

Let your taste for Chocolate keep you feeling fit!

Do you find that you must take larger doses of the laxative that once worked nicely in moderate amounts? That's a sure sign of laxative staleness! Why don't you try a cathartic change? All druggists have the new Chocolate Cascarets. They may bring you an entirely new state of health. It is surely worth a trial!

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

I am scolded and spanked on the wrists by the capable Adela Rogers St. John, because several editions ago I pointed out how listless it was in New York. Miss St. John argues that the town was never so full of interest and sets forth that the current race for Mayor "is the most important" in the history of the town and that "millions of people are seething." Well, I know that. But I am in no mood to seethe, nor can the argument for the office of Mayor keep me amused or entertained. "Poverty and riches," she adds, "ride side by side and neither knows but what tomorrow they may change places. The most enormous mass of humanity ever gathered in one spot is fighting a brave, splendid fight for its life." Well, now—isn't that fun—and gay? True, the city is in a mood—but hardly a merry one, and I long for diversion, the sort we had night after night before most of us had to be concerned with problems of the state and nation. Since the article appeared, however, things have turned a little brisker—a few new shows have come and made the scene less tiresome—and some of the cabarets have revealed intelligence and talent. But even that wears off—and the average local will subscribe to that sentiment . . . In fewer words, laughter is at a premium.

No announcement that comes over the air impresses me as "Ladies and Gentlemen — the President of the United States!" He seemed a little weary Sunday night—but little wonder. Wonder what the critics of slang think when even the nation's Chief Executive uses it to make himself forceful. He used "chiselers" more than once in that talk. It comes from the underworld. Wish I could locate that former war correspondent, now aged and forced to find shelter on the park's benches. One of our unofficial statesmen was "touched by the story," he says, and wants to supply succor—and now I can't find the fellow. He probably can't even afford the price of a newspaper to know of his luck. Something tells me that I've been trapped along with dozens of others into exploiting a new clown—with that "Elmer" gag. The stunt, they now contend, started in the advertising agency—which engages an automobile peddler on the air known as "Elmer Everett Yess!" The country at large has heard of him already. "Repetition makes Reputation."

If they do find Judge Crater—his story probably will be the most exciting of them all. I never could believe he killed himself—he always appeared to enjoy living. His mysterious disappearance certainly blasted the careers of several chorus lassies—caught in the spotlight focused on him. That broker and comrade of showmen, who dwells in style in a mid-town hotel—probably could put the finger on Crater—they were inseparable. But Detective Piaschetti apparently needs no help. Never saw a chorus of white girls offer the same zip and pace the brownskins deliver—they simply cannot duplicate that swing. Yet a white lad, Dan Healy, usually arranges the rhythms for the latter in the dusky spots. It never dawned on me until I heard it—that the composer of "The Last Round-Up" copied his rhythm from the slow gait of a horse. Add items that catch my eye: The new electric sign over that rendezvous near 47th—named The White Way—spells the name of the place in yellow bulbs. Perhaps the only hotel in the town that has a lobby and guests similar to the play, "Grand Hotel," is the St. Moritz. So many of the people are so continental and weird. Particularly that white-haired tall gent with the monocle, who, it appears, is a foreign journalist covering the "weird Americans."

I see that the expression, "Too, too divine!" which has become "deevoon" until I could choke, is said to have originated in Hollywood. Quet-so—after Tallulah Bankhead brought it there. But when Bankhead shrieks it—she means it derisively. Of course, it would be my luck to be occupied on Sunday night now that Mr. Holtz is putting the locals in stitches at the Winter Garden. The Winter Garden clowning, perhaps, is one of the few things left in our mad midst that can be witnessed and enjoyed over and over again. With Holtz, that is officiating. The ditty, "Thanks," certainly clings to the ear. I even heard a voice warble it poorly over the networks the other night and liked it.

The conditions that changed so swiftly for some showmen and women jeered one former executive in the mightiest of the theater circuits. Six years ago he directed fancy-salaried headliners and drew a sugary wage himself. Now he manages to smile—at the best job he could promote—juggling the lines of a phone switchboard in a Times Square club. And he listens to the problems of the stars and lesser knowns he once put in lights from coast to coast. The Omaha citizens I see are backing a statesman from there, who thinks it is about time that the nation honor President Roosevelt—and he suggests that one day be set aside annually called "President's Day." Which was done on last April 30. And most likely will be celebrated next April.

(Copyright 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27.—Most exciting news of the day is that Constance Bennett and Katharine Hepburn, two of the screen's most glamorous and sophisticated actresses, are to compete as producers of motion pictures about primitive peoples.

Connie began it when she sent the Marquis de La Falaise to Bali to film "Legong" or, to put it in English, "The Dance of the Virgins."

Now Katharine drops in from location on "Trigger," all fired to finance a picture based on the legends of the Indians in the San Jacinto mountains. She says they are beautiful, full of drama and ideal for screen material.

Not having a husband, at least none available in Hollywood, La Hepburn will form her own company and hire a staff to make her picture. She'll use only Indians, and plans to get at least a three-reeler and possibly a feature out of her idea.

* * *

It is Al Jolson's own story, so call him the liar.

On his recent trip to New York, the comedian says he went to a snooty golf club on a guest card. Just as he was about to tee off, an attendant approached.

"Pardon me, sir," he said, "but I must ask your name."

"But my wife's name is Keeler," argued Al.

There was a moment's suspense.

"All right," said the attendant, "play nine holes."

* * *

Here is an item that I hope gets to the right eyes. Alice Lake, who one time starred with Viola Dana, May Allison and Alla Nazimova on the old Metro lot, is down on her luck. She can't even get extra work.

"People seem to be afraid to call me because they think I might want too much money," says the actress. "But I'm not living in the past. I'll cheerfully work for anything. I'll go anywhere they call people."

How about it, Hollywood?

* * *

Paramount has shut down on further interviews for Charlotte Henry, the little girl who finally was chosen for "Alice." The ordeal of her first screen appearance has the youthful actress on the verge of a breakdown. She has been ordered to eat lunch in her dressing room instead of in the studio commissary, and to lie down and rest as much as possible.

Tracy Is Star In Fulton

By ZORA D. UNKOVICH

Wise-cracking Lee Tracy breezes through a quarter of a century of a "if-only-I-could-do-that-over-again" plot with true Tracy assurance in "Turn Back the Clock," light comedy feature now amusing the audiences in the Fulton.

The theme revolves around the age-old wail of "I'd do things differently if only I could live my life over again." Through the medium of ether during an emergency operation, Tracy relives 22 years of his life, this time marrying the other girl, Peggy Shannon, in the role of blonde, luxury-loving Evalina.

Complications naturally result. The wished-for life is not all perfect, especially since Joe (Tracy) retains a complete knowledge of his actual existence. With this knowledge of what is going to happen, he is able to become immensely wealthy, yet is unable to foresee one fundamental phase of his life, his relations with his wife, Evalina.

Events which have made history—the war, the stock market crash of 1929, the flight of Insull to Athens, even the rise of Henry Ford—are lampooned in this second existence. Habits of 1933 transferred to an early 1900 environment, are fittingly ludicrous.

One scene in particular is painfully realistic, the sensations caused by the administration of ether. After watching the screened representation, you almost begin to imagine you smell the anaesthetic, being administered to Tracy.

Although Tracy's secret desires run to the two-timing beauty of Evalina, Director Shearer sticks to the conventional ending in which the erring husband is made to realize the true worth of his little wren of a wife, capably acted by Mae Clark.

Not a bit heavy, never even attempting seriousness, "Turn Back the Clock" won't excite you in the least, but it will, if you're in the humor, provide you with frothy amusement.

Aldine Bills Gov. Pinchot May West On Screen

"I'm No Angel," starring Mae West, which has just completed a week in the Penn, will continue its downtown run in the Aldine, which has been closed for some time. Like Miss West's previous picture, "She Done Him Wrong," her present vehicle is from her own pen. It portrays the romantic adventures of a dancer in a carnival, who "gets her man." Cary Grant has the leading male role.

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Gov. Pinchot is seen and heard in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News in an appeal to voters to support Constitutional Amendment No. 8 at the polls. This provides that the state may sell $25,000,000 worth of bonds. The proceeds, the Governor points out, are to go solely to feed the unemployed, provide free hospital treatment for the poor and aid educational institutions of higher learning.

The football season gets into its stride with record crowds in attendance. In Pitt Stadium, thrilling pictures show Carnegie Tech routing Notre Dame, 7-0. At Princeton, Columbia is seen going down to defeat, 20-0.

President Roosevelt is seen and heard delivering what is considered by many as his most important talk to the nation. By special request of the White House Hearst Metrotone News recording equipment was installed for the delivery of the speech that the American people might see as well as hear the Chief Executive make his report on the progress of the Recovery Act.

(Note—Owing to the necessity upon theater managers to arrange their programs on time schedules it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.)

Odds and Ends

THE THREE most popular eating spots in which the Broadwayites finish their nightly rounds are Reuben's, Dave's and Lindy's. Although none of these gentlemen will admit that any competition exists, they are all keen rivals. And the gags that have been played upon them through the years are many and varied.

The victim of the latest hoax is Dave Kleckner, the proprietor of Dave's Blue Room. Several weeks back, someone started a rumor that Dave's name was to be used in Walter Winchell's picture, "Broadway Through the Keyhole."

The word spread. One Broadwayite told another—and they all told Dave. The story grew and grew, and Dave listened to each build-up with ever-increasing joy. He was told that, not only was his name used throughout the story, but he was actually made the hero of the tale.

Dave believed it. He couldn't help himself. Every customer who came in, congratulated the genial restaurateur and assured him he was getting the publicity break of the age. Whenever the names of Lindy or Reuben were mentioned in the papers, Dave would laugh loud and long.

"What does this mean?" he would inquire scornfully. "When Winchell's picture comes out, then you'll see some real publicity. Just wait!"

Poor Dave. His name isn't used at all in "Broadway Through the Keyhole." The closest he comes to it is when Paul Kelly, toward the end of the picture, says:

"So long, fellows. Give my regards to all the boys at Lindy's!" . . . .

* * *

THEY'RE telling the tale of a gentleman named Abe Tannenbaum. Mr. Tannenbaum, it appears, recently boarded a train from New York to Boston without the formality of purchasing a ticket.

In the car with him were several members of a musical show that was en route to the same city. Watching them carefully, Mr. Tannenbaum noticed that, when the conductor asked for their tickets, they would reply: "Company."

"What company?" the conductor would ask. And the show folk would respond by announcing the title of the theatrical organization under whose name their transportation had been paid. When the conductor reached Mr. Tannenbaum and requested his ticket, the latter gentleman shrugged his shoulders carelessly.

"Company," he remarked evenly.

"What company?" asked the conductor according to form.

"Tch, tch, tch," replied Mr. Tannenbaum with a smile, "I thought you knew. The Boston Garment Company!" . . .

* * *

"YOUR recent story about the police officer in Norwich, Conn.," writes Frank Davela, "reminds me of an incident that happened to me while passing through the same town some time ago. In fact, it was probably the same officer.

"I asked the officer for directions that would lead me to the Post road, and he proceeded to give me instructions that called for at least 10 left and right turns. When he was through, I choked a bit.

"'It's a complicated road, isn't it?' I muttered.

"'Oh, no,' was his honest reply. 'It's concrete most of the way.'" . . .

* * *

WITH Miami days approaching again, the boys are doing a lot of reminiscing about past events in the southern resort. The story I like best is one that happened about three years ago.

A group of Broadwayites—there were seven in all, I think—arrived in Miami and found that they were unable to secure accommodations in any of the leading hotels. They were disconsolately discussing their next move when a New York multimillionaire happened along.

The group fell upon him with whoops of joy. This particular chap enjoys mingling with the Broadway crowd, and gets a great thrill whenever his name is mentioned in a theater or a night club. There are people like that, you know.

The wealthy gent listened to their sad story and immediately did the noble thing. He invited them to come to his palatial home and to stay as his guests as long as they pleased. They didn't need a second invitation. Within an hour they had all moved in, bag and baggage.

And what service they got! This was one of the finest estates in Miami, and it was run accordingly. The food was superb, and there were butlers and valets for every guest. It was probably as close to heaven as any of the seven Broadwayites will ever get.

"Well, Nick," said the millionaire, "how do you find everything?"

The guest shrugged his shoulders and said nothing. The host's expression changed.

"What's the trouble?" he inquired anxiously. "Has something gone wrong? Is it one of the servants? What's happened?"

Original "Thousand Women" Who Gave Approval of Anniversary Values Now Nears 200,000* Mark as Celebration Approaches Final Saturday at Frank & Seder

Crowds and Bargains will be the order of the day at FRANK & SEDER'S 26th Anniversary Sale tomorrow. As the event approaches its final Saturday, the original "thousand women," who approved the Anniversary offerings, have grown to almost two hundred times that number . . . as evidenced by their enthusiastic buying during the first three weeks of the event.

As recognition of the widespread public approval that has been given their Anniversary offerings, FRANK & SEDER has set aside tomorrow (Saturday) to feature again the merchandise offerings that have proven most popular with Pittsburgh men and women during the Anniversary celebration.

Every department in the store will participate. Special Anniversary offerings will be featured for Men, Women and Children . . . Furnishings for the home . . . domestics . . . floor coverings . . . fabrics . . . all will be offered at typical Anniversary savings. In announcing tomorrow's unusual Anniversary event, FRANK & SEDER urge the buying public of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania to get the DOUBLE benefit of Anniversary savings and the protection against higher prices in the future.

Housewives Are Making Homes More Attractive

PROMINENT PITTSBURGH MEN WEAR SEDERCREST

Evenings at Home, Frequent Parties, Are Reasons Given

Many business and professional men in Pittsburgh are seen at luncheons and conferences, wearing Sedercrest suits. According to reports, they agree that it doesn't take an expensive suit to make a handsome appearance; it takes a well-made suit. Frank & Seder say that if men are looking for good fabrics, well made, they find them under the Sedercrest label. This goes for the topcoats and overcoats, too. Tomorrow, if the men from the office come back later than usual from lunch, it's a safe guess to say that they've been looking over the special Anniversary showing of Sedercrest suits, topcoats and overcoats, at $19.50. (Fourth Fl.)

As the winter evenings draw in, women say they feel the urge to make their homes more attractive. There's nothing like colorful drapes to give a room cheery, hospitable warmth. One Frank & Seder customer says she has the whole family in the living room since she put up her new rose-colored drapes. They are lustrous jacquard weave, lined with sateen. 2½ yards long and cost $5.95 in the Anniversary. (Fifth Fl.)

Other drapes of rust, green, red and mulberry may be had in rep or jacquard weaves, for $3.95 and $5.95. (Fifth Fl.)

Decorators advise the use of pinch-pleated Panama drapes because their neutral colors blend with the color scheme of your room. Frank & Seder feature them specially for the Anniversary at $1.77 a pair. (Fifth Floor)

Smithfield St. Bridge Workers Swear By Lumberjacks

Men who work out of doors in all kinds of weather know what it means to their comfort and health to have warm, sturdy working clothes. They are the men who wear lumberjackets like these . . . of heavy flannel, with convenient zipper closings. Frank & Seder offers them in the Anniversary in navy and maroon in sizes 36 to 46 for $3.85. (Fourth Floor)

Woman's New Hat Stopped Paris Show

Early in August, Marcel Rochas, one of the first of the great Paris dress designers, invited the smartest women of Paris to see his Autumn collection of gowns. He asked Mme. Maria Guy to design hats to go with the gowns. The show went on in the usual way until a certain mannequin started down the runway. Her entrance signaled long and loud applause from the audience. But the applause, much to M. Rochas' surprise, was not for the gown but for the hat! The mannequin was wearing "Baby Bonnet," the hat that started this clamor for turned-up, pushed-back brims. A Frank & Seder Anniversary group can trace their parentage to the now-famous Maria Guy hat. Their Anniversary price is $1.89. (Third Floor)

Moderns Take Light Out of Window

Putting the light in the window to guide the family's steps back to home and fireside, is all wrong, according to modern ideas. The better way is to keep the lamp on the living room table . . . shining on the newspaper and the newest racehorse game and have the family right there all evening. Frank & Seder give credit for a lot of happy home groups to their attractive collection of Fulper pottery lamps with glazed finish over warm colors, featured in the Anniversary at $1.39. (Sixth Floor)

SNOW PREDICTED FOR THE WEEK-END

Frank & Seder can't do anything about arranging the weather for you, but they'll see that you're READY for the weather that comes. The weather bureau told them to expect snow flurries at the end of the week, so they rounded up this list of warm wrappings for children of one to six—or thereabouts.

Heavy wool sweaters to slip over the head, or button down the front, for $1.39. (Third Floor)

Zipper sets of "Shammy Velours" with snug helmets to keep tender ears from being nipped, for $4.98. (Third Floor)

Chinchilla coat sets (three pieces) with the third piece a helmet or a beret, depending on how the child happens to feel about it. For $4.98. (Third Floor)

All wool one-piece snow suits with heavy hat and mittens. Light and dark shades in sizes 1 to 4 at $5.98. (Third Floor)

Suede cloth coat sets have warm linings. These come two ways—plain, or trimmed with fur. Considering the rise of wool prices, these all-wool sets are something pretty special at $10.98.

In a brushed wool set, it's sometimes hard to tell your child from the snowflakes, the brushed wool is so light and soft. Frank & Seder advise anxious parents to buy the pink or blue sets. The white sets are much too pretty to ignore, though—and even if they do look like snow, they're warm as wool can be. The price of sweater, leggings, cap and mittens is $1.79. (Third Floor)

There would never be any coaxing to sleep with the windows closed if youngsters could be tucked in in heavy knit sleepers. These are made with knit feet. The price—69c. (Third Floor)

Cotton wash frocks are both comfortable and attractive. Cotton prints, with little panties or bloomers for $1. (Third Floor)

"BAH, BAH, BLACK SHEEP" COULDN'T HAVE BEEN WRITTEN ABOUT THESE LEAKSVILLE BLANKETS, SAY MANUFACTURER

The "Leaksville" blankets that Frank & Seder have been featuring during their 26th Anniversary have had nothing to do with the black sheep of any family. They're big 72x84-inch blankets, part wool, with the proper proportion of cotton for maximum warmth. For double size, $2.99 a pair. (Fifth Floor).

BLINDFOLD TEST FAILS IN HANDBAG SELECTIONS

Business Women Enthusiastically Acclaim Frank & Seder Hose

Women Want to Know What's Inside

Women who bought silk hose in the first days of the Anniversary are wearing them in when they come back for more. Frank & Seder think the advice of the business girls is worth passing on. They often buy medium weight to wear during the day—every day, and choose chiffon silk hose for dress. Both styles of hose, full-fashioned, are offered during the Anniversary for 69c pair. (1st Fl.)

Observers near Frank & Seder's first floor Handbag Section noticed crowds of women buying bags. Four out of five women examined the bags inside almost before they looked at the outside. Frank & Seder conclude that what's inside counts! They recommend the Anniversary priced handbags of calf, morocco and alligator grains fully lined and fitted; with either extra pockets or zipper fasteners. These handbags are $1. (Street Floor)

EVENINGS ARE GROWING GLITTERY

There's a new excitement in the air this season. Optimism shows even in the jewelry women are wearing. Bright-colored necklaces and earrings are more popular now than they've been for a long time. Women say they make any dress look—and feel—more expensive. The jewelry itself is certainly not expensive. Not in this Frank & Seder Anniversary. Necklaces, pins, clips and earrings are 29c each or 4 for $1. (Street Floor)

Towels With Modern Borders are Favorites

Frank & Seder conclude that women aren't buying arm-loads of towels these days simply because they don't cost much. Most women, according to the salespeople, are attracted first by modern deep colored borders, second by softness and thickness and, third, by size. The favorites in Frank & Seder's Twenty-sixth Anniversary are the 22x44-inch "Cannon" bath towels at 22c. (Fifth Floor)

They Favor Sheets With Deep Tuck-in

Maybe it's because winter's coming and no one wants to take a chance on chilly toes at three in the morning, but the swing during Frank & Seder's Anniversary has been to the famous Pepperell bed sheets . . . 81 inches wide, and 99 (not the usual 90) inches long, at 98c each. (Fifth Floor)

Filet Cloths, Sensation at $1.29
Frank & Seder believe these cloths are one of the sensations of the Anniversary. They're semi-filet, made entirely by hand. Approximately 72x90 inches in size. (Hand work can't be compared to exact measurements.) The Anniversary price is $1.29. (Fifth Floor)

WILD AUTO HITS MOTORISTS, NEWSIES

Four persons, including two newsboys, were injured when an automobile crashed into another at Federal street and North avenue and careened across the pavement late yesterday.

The victims, treated at Allegheny General Hospital, were Walter Frosch, 38, of 4039 Brandon road; James McGrath, 30, of 117½ Jacunda street; Edward Shoemaker, 25, of 1232 Columbus avenue, and Tony Petrack, 17, of 517 Sandusky street, the latter two newsboys.

Frosch and McGrath were seated in a car in Federal street when the other one struck it and the newsstand, and stopped in the park, where a Negro leaped out and fled.

Joseph Graham, 46, of 811 Stanton avenue, Millvale, operator of a Troy Hill street car, was seriously injured when struck by a truck as he stepped from his car to throw a switch at Chestnut and East Ohio streets yesterday. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

Benjamin L. Jones, 50, of 5643 Northumberland street, an automobile dealer, was injured when his auto crashed into a pillar on the Ninth Street Bridge last night, police reported. Suffering a possible fracture of the skull, he was taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

An automobile owned, police say, by James Wilson, of 461 Grace street, crashed into the front porch of the home of A. Gearneto, at 311 Wyoming street, after running, driverless, almost two blocks down Greenbush street last night.

TRADERS NAME P. R. R. OFFICIAL

E. W. Smith, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was elected to the board of directors of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce yesterday by the other members of the board at a special meeting. A vacancy was caused by the transfer of John F. Deasy, formerly vice president here, to Philadelphia.

The board also voted to appoint a special committee to act with the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society in celebrating the One hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of Pittsburgh on November 25.

OBITUARY

Schlipp Funeral.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. for Mrs. Hazel H. Schlipp, of 215 Martin avenue, Mt. Lebanon, who died Wednesday in Gary, Ind. The services will be held from the home of her sister, Mrs. George Ceska, of 3270 Eastmont avenue, Dormont.

Mrs. Schlipp leaves her husband, Walter E. Schlipp; a daughter, Ruth Schlipp; her mother, Mrs. Lydia Robbins, and two sisters, Mrs. Ceska and Mrs. T. M. Chalmers, and two brothers, Albert and William Robbins.

Jackson Funeral.

Requiem high mass will be celebrated tomorrow at 10 a. m. in St. Bede's Catholic Church for Joseph J. Jackson, 80, who died Wednesday in his home, 7025 Edgerton avenue.

Mr. Jackson was born in Dublin, Ireland, and had been a resident of Pittsburgh 64 years. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Philomena Pilgrim Jackson; a daughter, Mrs. Henry S. Carr; three sons, the Rev. Edward F., Jerome A., and Joseph F. Jackson; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Allen Funeral.

Funeral services for Miss Janet Allen, who died in her home, 410 Ann street, Homestead, Wednesday, will be held from the home tomorrow.

Born in Turtle Creek, she was a daughter of the late Peter and Catherine Allen, and for the last 40 years has resided in Homestead. She was a member of the First United Presbyterian Church of Homestead. Interment will be in Homestead Cemetery.

Miller Funeral

Funeral services for Mrs. Rosanna Hoffman Miller, who died in her home, 692 Forest avenue, Bellevue, yesterday, will be held in the Walthers Lutheran Church, North Park, tomorrow.

Mrs. Miller was a member of St. John's Evangelical Church, Bellevue. She leaves a son, Walter E., a daughter, Mrs. Ethel M. Brenamen, and two sisters, Miss Mary Hoffman and Mrs. Rachel Campbell.

Egan Funeral

Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen Maloney Egan will be held in St. Catherine's Catholic Church, Beechview, tomorrow morning. She was born in the old Sixth Ward, where she lived [illegible] years ago.

Mrs. Egan leaves two sons, Albert M. and George W. Egan, and three daughters, Mrs. Nellie Slavin, Mrs. Mary Bartholemew and Anna Egan, all of Pittsburgh.

Mullin Funeral

Funeral services for William W. Mullin, former Pittsburgher, who died at his home in Erie Wednesday, were to be held at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charlotte McKeen, of 6921 Thomas [illegible] this afternoon.

Mr. Mullin leaves a daughter, Miss Charlotte Jane Mullin, two sisters and two brothers.

Shot Down

BENJAMIN OLIVER

Mr. Oliver, 57, twice mayor of Yorkville, O., bullet-slain in front of his Yorkville store. Police arrested two men, one of Pittsburgh, for questioning, blamed the slaying on politics.

BOND APPEAL BY MRS. RAUH

An appeal for support of constitutional amendment No. 8 November 7 was made today by Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Pittsburgh Welfare Department. The amendment provides a $25,000,000 bond issue to care for Pennsylvania's needy.

Mrs. Rauh said:

"Unless this bond issue is passed by the voters of Pennsylvania hunger and misery will come to nearly 3,000,000 unemployed this winter—1,000,000 unemployed wage earners and 2,000,000 dependents. Of this number 117,800 individuals are in Pittsburgh and 127,390 in Allegheny County. Some of these may be reabsorbed in industry this fall, but it is inevitable that most will have to be helped through the winter.

"It is highly important that this bond issue be passed, for should it fail Pennsylvania will not be eligible to receive its share of federal relief funds.

"Hospitals also will have to further curtail or entirely discontinue free wards and dispensaries. Unless this imperative legislation is voted favorably, new and heavy taxes are the only recourse and few citizens favor such an expedient at this time."

CRASH INJURES 2; DRIVER HELD

Two persons were injured and the driver of the automobile in which they were riding was arrested by Woods Run police last night after the car struck a safety zone at California and Superior avenues.

Harold Zarro, 31, 620 Jackson street, North Side, and Frances Smith, 26, 1809 Fox street, South Side, passengers in the car, were treated at St. John's Hospital for injuries. Ernest Landfair, 24, of Allison Park, driver, was arrested on a suspicious person charge when, police said, a revolver, for which he had no permit, was found in his possession.

Landfair also failed to establish ownership of the car, police claimed.

Blinded by Lights, Autoist Rams Pole

Blinded by the lights of an automobile traveling in the opposite direction, Harry Faber, 44, of 1162 Brookline boulevard, drove his car into a telephone pole one block from his home last night. He was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for slight injuries.

250 NAMES CUT OFF VOTE ROLLS

The Pittsburgh Registration Commission has mailed notices to more than 250 residents of Pittsburgh, informing them that their names have been stricken from the registration books and that they will not be permitted to vote at the election November 7. The commission was expected to send additional letters out last night and some time today to make a formal statement on the number of those cut from the lists.

Those cut from the lists are not residents of any particular district or ward, but are from virtually every part of the city. The reason given for removing the names is that the tax receipts had been obtained illegally or attempts had been made to vote on receipts which had expired.

Those cut from the rolls have five days in which to appeal to the courts.

Chairman J. K. Morrow said the commission would hold all its testimony in readiness for the next five days for use in court action should any of those cut from the lists take an appeal. After the time for appeals have expired the testimony, Morrow said, would be given to the District Attorney.

When You Buy ASPIRIN

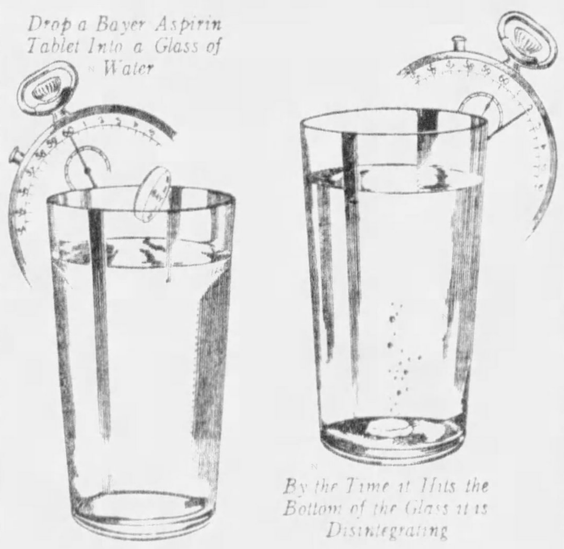
IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH

A Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablet Starts To Disintegrate and Go To Work

Drop a Bayer Aspirin Tablet Into a Glass of Water



By the Time it Hits the Bottom of the Glass it is Disintegrating

What Happens in These Glasses Happens in Your Stomach

Quicker Relief Now From Pain

There is now a quicker way to ease pain. A way that often brings relief from even a severe headache or neuritis in a few minutes. Millions are now employing it—the fastest safe relief, it is said, ever known for pain.

These results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence, to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glasses, above, tell the story. A Bayer tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus [illegible] to work almost immediately. This unique Bayer discovery means quick relief from pain for you and yours. Fewer lost hours from headache, neuralgia or the pains of rheumatism. And safe relief—for Genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

When you buy, though, see that you get the GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN. The best way is never ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But if you want Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER ASPIRIN."

WIND TUNNELS GREAT AID TO AVIATION

By ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT
Hearst Papers' Aviation Editor

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—"If a-motoring you go, hitch your wagon to a star—but be sure your wagon is properly streamlined if you want speed and economy."

This, no doubt, would have been Emerson's advice today, now that we've learned something about aerodynamics and the general peculiarities of air when it finds itself suddenly and violently disturbed.

STREAMLINE ESSENTIAL

And it doesn't matter whether it's high up in the sky or down on the ground—streamlining is essential to modern transportation, according to the lessons learned from that modern miracle worker, the wind tunnel.

Aviation's great advance in the last five years has been due to the knowledge literally blown at us through the wind-tunnels. What happens when a plane tears through the atmosphere at a terrific speed, or a surface craft burns up the road or skims through the wave tops, is now known definitely, scientifically and minutely. The facts are amazing.

California's contribution to progress of aviation and transportation—was made, and is constantly being increased, at the Guggenheim laboratory tunnel of California Institute of Technology, Dr. Robert A. Millikan's world-famous center of scientific learning and research. On the basis of what already has been accomplished, much is to be expected from the institution in extending wings—or wheels—of transportation.

APPLIED TO OTHER FIELDS

It is characteristic of modern science that discoveries in one field inevitably lead to progress in another. Facts learned in the wind-tunnel in smoothing out the path of an airplane in the air soon will find concrete application to automobiles and even ocean liners, as the speed of these vehicles and vessels increases day by day.

It was at Pasadena, in the Caltech tunnel, that the most spectacular gains in performances of transport and military planes were first predicted and worked out.

Under the direction of Prof. Theodor von Karman, probably the world's greatest authority on aerodynamics, and Profs. Clark B. Millikan and A. L. Klein, that tunnel was built and regulated so as to become the standard of accuracy in the country today.

It was not a simple job. To drive a huge column of air through a long wooden tunnel in which a model of a plane is suspended—which is the same as to send that model through the air—and do it so as to have uniform density and distribution of the air, traveling at 150 miles an hour, was a gigantic task.

SECRET DISCOVERIES

America's fastest airliner, the Douglas DC1, was put through a series of tests in the tunnel and results indicated after the scale model experiments were so startling that the engineers of the Douglas Company at first thought there was some mistake in the calculations. When the model was translated into a full size ship, it vindicated the tunnel.

Military planes, some built by John K. Northrop for the Army and the Navy, have been tested and difficulties due to installations, landing gears and various struts, recognized and eliminated. Just what these gains have been is a military secret, but it is generally known that they have added 25 to 50 per cent to the all-round performance of these service machines.

They have learned, for instance, that one large, properly streamlined obstruction generates less drag than two small struts joined at an angle—that the same constructing placed at different locations have different effects on retarding the progress of the vehicle through the air, and that balance and proper distribution of weight are all important factors in overcoming air resistance.

The wind tunnel already has changed the shape of our airplanes, but that is just a start. Automobiles and ships are next, and present results indicate that the gas buggy of the future, be it on wings or wheels, is destined to be a thing of streamlined beauty.

RECIPES STIR ENTHUSIASM

Department Becomes Home Economics Forum

It is quite remarkable how enthusiastic the housewives of Pittsburgh and vicinity are getting about the Sun-Telegraph-Prudence Penny favorite recipe contest.

This new department has developed into what might be called a home economics forum because many of interested women send in comments with their favorite recipes. One for instance speaking of her cake recipe writes that this particular cake as she bakes it is "fit for kings" and to make, easy to look at and easy to eat."

Mrs. G. F. Parfitt, 2444 Rydal street, Pittsburgh, writes:

"I have been reading and using your recipes for some time, but the idea of trying the prize-winning recipes of other women is very beneficial. I tried the 'George Washington Salad' and my husband and children were thrilled with it. Tonight there was a good fudge recipe and my children want to try it."

The Sun-Telegraph awards $15 in cash prizes every day for the best favorite home recipes submitted to Prudence Penny. $5 for the best of the day and $1 each to 10 others every day. Take a chance—send in your favorites. If they win a prize they will be printed in the Sun-Telegraph and in this way help other housewives.

FIVE-DOLLAR PRIZE WINNER

MRS. E. M. ROTT,
1830 Wynhurst Street,
FINNAN HADDIE

Soak fish in milk and water to cover using equal parts of each and one-half hour on back of range. Drain, separate into flakes and rinse thoroughly in warm water (there should be two cupfuls). Cook one-quarter cup of butter with one tablespoonful of flour, stirred about three minutes and quarter cup of flour, one cup each of milk and cream, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, and when mixture thickens add the flaked fish and one-third cup canned red peppers, cut in strips. Cover bottom of dish with cooked macaroni, pour over the fish and set in oven for five minutes, then sprinkle grated cheese over the top and put under gas flame to remain until cheese is melted.

TEN-DOLLAR PRIZE WINNERS

MRS. E. CHAMER,
830 Frank Street, McKees Rocks,
DAD'S FAVORITE

One and one-half pounds link sausage.
Eight medium potatoes.
One-half cup milk.

Peel and boil potatoes in salted water. Pour off water and mash fine, adding milk. Saute sausages until rich brown. Remove from pan and drain all frying. Add one cup of water to frying pan. Butter deep baking dish and put layers of mashed potatoes alternating with rows of sausage and liquid from frying pan. Bake in oven at 450 degrees for 45 minutes. Serve in baking dish. Serve 4.

MRS. PAUL BARTON,
3829 Wealth Street
CHOCOLATE EGG NOG

To make a delicious and highly nourishing drink, beat one egg thoroughly, add two teaspoonfuls of sugar and beat again. Then enough chocolate syrup (recipe below) to make the mixture a dark brown, beating as you add it. Then add enough milk to make one pint, beating to keep it light and frothy and stain. Whenever possible add a five cent scoop of vanilla ice cream and beat or shake thorough; for the ice cream adds more nourishment as well as completing the illusion that it is chocolate soda. If only part of it is drunk at a time, put remainder in a glass jar or bottle and keep cold, shaking thoroughly to serve again.

MRS. H. R. FINNEY,
206 Park Way, McKeesport,
BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES

One gallon cucumbers.
Eight small onions.
Two green peppers.
One-half cup salt.

Slice cucumbers crosswise. Slice onions and slices peppers. Add salt and let stand three hours. Drain well, then cover with the following syrup:

Five cups sugar.
One and one-half teaspoons tumeric.
One-half teaspoon ground cloves.
Two tablespoons mustard seed.
One teaspoon celery seed.
Two cups vinegar (diluted).

Mix sugar, tumeric, mustard seed, celery seed and vinegar. Pour over sliced cucumbers, onions and peppers. Heat to scalding but do not boil. Pour into jars and seal.

OLIVE FLEMING,
2389 Fremont Place, Beechview,
BREAKFAST POP-OVERS

One cup flour.
One cup milk.
One half teaspoon salt.
One egg, well beaten.

Add the milk slowly to the flour and salt, stirring constantly, until a smooth paste is formed. Beat and add the remainder of the milk and the egg. Beat vigorously for three minutes. Grease cups, but very, pour three-fourths full. Bake 30 minutes in a hot oven. They are done when they have popped to their full size and are light brown. Serve at once.

M. R. IRWIN,
826 Jackman Avenue, Avalon,
CHEESE SOUFFLE

One cup cheese cut fine.
Three eggs.
One cup milk.
Three tablespoons flour (level).
One half teaspoon salt.
Pepper.

Make a white sauce of butter, flour, milk etc., add cheese. Stir in beaten egg yolks and then in stiffly beaten whites. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven, 350 degrees.

MRS. F. J. O'BRIEN,
1505 Chelton Avenue,
SOUTHERN SPOON BREAD

Add two cups sifted cornmeal gradually

IMMIGRATION CHIEF LEAVES

William H. Marshall, director of immigration, Department of Labor, in the Pittsburgh district, today left for Buffalo where he assumes the duties of assistant district director of the merged immigration and naturalization offices.

Charles Garfinkel, assistant director here under Marshall, has been appointed assistant divisional director in Pittsburgh to W. W. Wiggins, who will be in charge of the merged immigration and naturalization offies here.

The changes are part of the general plan of the Secretary of Labor in consolidation of immigration and naturalization offices in various parts of the country. Marshall, who has been in the government service 27 years, has been in charge of the Pittsburgh immigration office since 1923.

Formula for Candy Welcomed With Food Hints

SOPHIA ANN WARD,
Box 295, Sharon,
HALLOWEEN PEPPERMINT HUMBUGS

Two cups of brown sugar.
One cup of water.
Few drops of peppermint (according to taste).

Boil sugar and water until syrup forms a soft ball in cold water. Butter tin platters and drop dissolved amount of peppermint on each. Pour equal amounts of syrup on each platter and as soon cool enough to handle, butter hands and pull candy until light golden color. Form into a long strip. Take remaining syrup and form into a strip and twist with first half of syrup. Then cut into one-half inch pieces with scissors.

MRS. J. F. HILTGEN,
1036 Lapish Road, N. S.
TRIPE A LA CREOLE

Two large onions.
Two large peppers.
Medium size can of tomatoes.
Two pounds of tripe.

Cut bacon, peppers and onions in small pieces. Fry bacon until browned, add onions and peppers, let simmer for five minutes or until they are tender; add tomatoes and the cooked tripe; salt to taste.

MRS. MARGARET C. DEES,
5001 Broad Street,
PEPPER SAUCE

One dozen sweet green peppers.
One dozen sweet red peppers.
One stalk celery.
Two tablespoons salt.
One teaspoon black pepper.
One cup sugar.
Vinegar enough to cover.

Chop peppers and celery fine and scald in boiling water for 10 minutes; drain and pack in hot sterilized jars. While peppers and celery are scalding cook vinegar, salt, black pepper and sugar; then pour over pepper mixture in jars and seal tight while hot. Let stand at least two weeks and you have a delicious sauce for meats.

CLARE GRINDER,
Hyde Park, Westmoreland County,
TOMATO RICE

Two small cups tomatoes (strained).
One cup water.
One teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon sugar.
One bay leaf.
Two tablespoons butter.
One and one-half cups uncooked rice.

Boil tomato juice and bay leaf for five minutes; strain. Place all ingredients in casserole, covered and bake.

...it's an old Pittsburgh Halloween Custom!

So...

...when the ticktacks tick and the doorbells ring be prepared...or the goblins'll git you if you don't have plenty of hush candy handy!

Possibly no other occasion is so happily remembered with chuckling reminiscences as is good old Halloween...when old folks hark back to the apple dipping and peanut brittle parties...bad boys their buggy tipping pranks and...those costume affairs which were such fun. Let's all make merry with an old fashioned Halloween next Tuesday...October 31st...and while doing so perhaps a remembrance of the parentless children in institutions with a donation of sweets would gladden our festive hearts, and surely enliven their interest in the happy festival.

Figs No Longer Just a Food Of Wealthy People

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City,
United States Senator From New York.

People who live in sections of the world where the fresh fig can be obtained are indeed fortunate. The fig is a delicious and palatable fruit, but it is so fragile and perishable that it cannot be shipped great distances.

Because it is so difficult to ship the fig in its fresh state is known to comparatively few persons. But the dried fig and the syrup-covered fig are excellent substitutes for the fresh fig and in these forms can be obtained in all parts of the country.

The fig is one of the oldest of foods. Like the olive and the grape, frequent references are made of it in ancient writings. The fig has been grown in the oriental countries from earliest times.

The Smyrna fig is the best known. As the name indicates, it was originally cultivated in Smyrna, but the same specie is now grown in California.

The fig tree is small, growing best in warm climates. But with extra protection and special care the trees have been successfully grown in colder countries.

It is of interest to learn that the male and female flowers of the fig grow on separate trees. This requires artificial fertilization for the development of the fruit.

DRIED IN SUN

Various methods are used in the drying of figs. The most common way is to dry them in the sun. Sometimes the fruit is exposed to burning sulphur, which destroys insect pests and their eggs. This process is followed by drying the fruit in the sun.

The larvae in the figs are sometimes destroyed by placing the fruit in a solution of boiling baking soda or lye. After this treatment the fruit is thoroughly washed and dried.

When dry it is packed in layers. Then it is sold as "choice," "extra fancy," or "selected."

The fresh fig contains about 16 or 18 per cent sugar, 2 per cent protein and 80 per cent water. The dried fig has a higher sugar content, carrying as much as 70 per cent of sugar. In addition, the fruit contains valuable vitamins and important mineral substances.

EASILY DIGESTED

Figs are highly recommended for their laxative action. They appear to be a real aid in overcoming constipation. They combat the tendency of the body toward acidity. When used in the diet they contribute to a well-balanced and varied menu. Fortunately, they are easily digested and may be given to the young as well as the old.

In former years the fig was an expensive fruit and only seen in the homes of the rich. Today, as a result of improved methods of cultivation, transportation and refrigeration, this valuable fruit is within the reach of the most limited budget. It is a tasty and nutritious delicacy that should not be omitted from the diet.

Man in West Builds Boat for Caribbean

BERLIN, Wis., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Frank D. Chapman, manufacturer, built a 38-foot sailboat in this landlocked city and this week will begin a three months' cruise to the Caribbean for deep sea fishing. The boat was hauled to Manitowoc and will be sailed down Lake Michigan, into the Illinois River and down the Mississippi to the Gulf.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

OCTOBER AND HALLOWEEN PARTIES—One suggests the other! With summer behind us and crisp days ahead, we find ourselves planning different types of party refreshments. At Halloween, of course, these must live up to the decorations—witches and black cats, pumpkins and corn.

Halloween is a celebration that children love. An afternoon masquerade party gives them a chance to "dress up" and have ice cream—two things which make a successful party. Here's a menu we have planned for this. Asterisks indicate that recipes are given in the article:

*Pumpkin-Face and Black-Cat Sandwiches.
*Orange Cream Sherbet in Orange Cups.
*Date Cakes.
Hot Chocolate-Flavored Malt Drink.

For the Pumpkin-Face Sandwiches, spread a filling of chopped raw, fresh cooked or canned vegetables, mixed with onion juice or salad dressing between rounds of sliced white bread. Make faces of pimento, dates, currants or raisins.

Black-Cat Sandwiches are made by using a cooky cutter in the shape of a cat. If a cooky cutter is not available, cut out a pasteboard shape with a sharp knife.

Spread cream or American cheese between slices of whole-wheat bread or steamed brown bread and cut the sandwiches as directed above.

ORANGE CREAM SHERBET IN ORANGE CUPS—1 teaspoon granulated gelatin, ½ cup cold water, 1½ cups boiling water, 1½ cups granulated sugar, grated rind of 2 oranges, 1 cup lemon juice, 1½ cups orange juice, 1 cup heavy cream, ½ cup granulated sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, separated.

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes, then dissolve in the boiling water. Add the 1½ cups sugar and stir until dissolved, then add the orange rind, lemon juice and orange juice. Turn into freezing trays of an automatic refrigerator and freeze to a mush. Beat the cream until stiff, using a hand beater or an electric beater at high speed, then add the ½ cup sugar and the salt. Beat the egg whites until stiff and the egg yolks until lemon-colored, and add to the cream. Fold into the orange mixture and continue freezing until firm, stirring twice during the freezing process. Serves 8 to 10. If desired, whipped evaporated milk may be substituted for the whipped cream. Scald 1 cup evaporated milk in the top of a double boiler. Add ½ teaspoon granulated gelatin soaked in 2 teaspoons cold water and stir until dissolved. Chill and whip.

To make the orange cups, cut oranges in half and squeeze as usual, being careful not to break the shell. Then carefully remove the remaining pulp and membrane. Place in a bowl of water until needed, drying well before using.

Should you not care to make the orange cream sherbt, vanilla ice cream may be purchased and served garnished with orange sections in the cups. Orange ice served with chocolate shot would also carry out the Halloween color scheme.

* * *

An evening masquerade for older boys and girls is just the thing for the first big party of the school year, and these refreshments could easily be made by the "eats" committee:

Apples on a Stick. Doughnuts
Caramel Pop Corn in Fancy Wrappers.
Minced Ham and Pickle Sandwiches.
Cider.

* * *

DATE CAKES—1 cup finely-cut pitted dates, 1 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon shortening, 1 cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups pastry flour, 1 cup chopped nut meats, confectioners' sugar.

Cut the dates with scissors, then add the boiling water, soda and shortening, and let stand until cool. Add the sugar and salt, beaten egg and vanilla, then the flour mixed with the nut meats. Beat well and fill tiny greased muffin tins ¾ full. Bake in a moderate oven of 375 degrees F. for

APPLES ON A STICK—2 cups granulated sugar, ½ cup light corn syrup, ¾ cup water, red coloring, ½ teaspoon cinnamon flavoring, 12 red apples, 12 wooden skewers.

Cook the granulated sugar, corn syrup, and water in a small saucepan, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking without stirring until a temperature of 300 degrees Fahrenheit is reached or until the syrup is brittle when tested in cold water. During the cooking, any sugar crystals thrown on the sides of the pan should be washed down with a wet cloth. Remove the syrup from the heat and set at once over hot water. Add coloring and flavoring, and mix well. Insert the skewers, which can be purchased from the butcher, in the blossom end of the apples. Hold each apple by the skewer and plunge into the hot syrup. Draw it out quickly and twirl it until the syrup is spread smoothly over the apple. Place with the skewer end down in a cake rack which has been placed over a large bowl, so that the apple does not touch anything while hardening. These apples should be made the day they are to be used. Makes 12.

* * *

CARAMEL POP CORN—1 cup granulated sugar, ¾ cup hot water, ½ cup brown sugar, 3 quarts popped corn, 3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar.

Place the granulated sugar in a skillet, place over heat, and stir until melted and of a golden-brown color. Add the hot water very carefully to avoid spattering, and stir until the sugar is all dissolved. Add the brown sugar and cook until a temperature of 238 degrees Fahrenheit is reached (soft-ball stage). Pour over the popped corn which has been slightly salted, stirring until each kernel is coated. Sprinkle with the confectioners' sugar, stirring until the corn is slightly sugared. For Halloween, form into balls shaped like ears of corn, wrap in waxed paper, and then in green crepe paper, tying them to look like ears of corn. Makes 18 balls.

* * *

HALLOWEEN SANDWICHES—Cut thinly-sliced white bread into circles. Spread ½ the rounds with any cheese mixture. Cut the remaining rounds to resemble a face with a triangle for a nose, circles for eyes, and crescent for a mouth. Place firmly on top of the previously-spread rounds.

For an unusual Halloween punch bowl, we suggest placing a large mixing pan or bowl in a pumpkin shell—it's decorative and easily done!

* * *

LOLLIPOPS—2 cups sugar, 2-3 cup light corn syrup, 1 cup water, ½ teaspoon oil of peppermint, vegetable coloring in desired shade.

Put sugar, corn syrup and water into saucepan and stir over low fire until sugar is dissolved. Cook without stirring, until temperature 310 degrees Fahrenheit is reached. Remove from fire, add coloring and flavoring, and stir only enough to mix. Drop from tip of tablespoon on smooth oiled slab or baking sheet. Press one end of toothpick or skewer into edge of each lollipop.

How about that slender vase you saw for 25 cents? Not enough "alone" but if you fill it with salted nuts the recipient will be delighted. Salted nuts are a real delicacy, but within the reach of everybody. Made at home, with a modern cooking oil, the process is easy.

Pour into oiled pan.

OLD ENGLISH TOFFEE—2 cups sugar, 1½ cups light corn syrup, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups thin cream, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons oil.

Put sugar, syrup, cream, and salt into saucepan and stir over fire until sugar is dissolved. Cook to temperature, 250 degrees Fahrenheit or until a firm ball will form in cold water. Stir quite often, as it scorches easily. Add oil and cook to temperature, 260 degrees Fahrenheit. When a hard ball will form add vanilla and pour in thin layer on oiled slab or baking sheet. When cold break in pieces. Yield: about 2 pounds.

Mothers Should Have Some Independent Interests

Should mothers be expected to live their own lives—develop their own interests?

Or should they depend on the young folks to keep them entertained?

And are they being horribly ill-treated if said young folks crave a few hours by themselves, now and then?

What's the story? This

Dear Miss Robinson:

I have been married for a year to the finest man I know and we get along beautifully except for one thing, my mother-in-law.

Before I was married I thought my husband's mother was a very fine and considerate woman. I thought I could get along fine with her. So I consented to have her live with us in our little three-room apartment. We haven't much money and couldn't very well afford to put her in an apartment by herself.

Now she insists on going everywhere with us. Sunday is the only day my husband has free, and we'd like a little time to visit by ourselves. But if we don't take her with us she bursts into tears and makes it very disagreeable for us.

My friends never come to see me because she hangs around all the time. She cries if I ask her to go out and says I "treat her terrible" and wants to know if she's "not good enough to meet my friends." And of course you know my friends and I would like to be alone, just to talk nonsense that wouldn't interest her.

She just can't seem to understand that I would like to see my husband alone once in a while or her. She's just terribly hurt if we're not with her every minute.

RESENTS SUGGESTIONS

As long as I'm home she won't go out. But if I go out, then she goes out, too. I can never be alone in my little apartment. If she would only go out occasionally and let me have the little place to myself, I would be so happy and I would be fond of her. But as it is!

She insists on making a lot of suggestions about housekeeping, too, which I resent very much. I am used to doing things my own way, and I can't stand interference. I have put up with her so far, on account of my husband; he is such a good man.

I am about to become a mother, though, and believe me—if she interferes with my way of raising my baby, I will fight plenty!

She reads your column, just as I do, and if you could just make her understand that I would like to be alone with my husband and my friends occasionally, and that that doesn't mean I don't like her, I would certainly appreciate it. Please help us, so we can get along better. IRENE.

NEED PRIVACY

Of course you would like to be alone, and you have a right to be, with all due respect to Mamma, who should know better than to insist on always being present. Since she doesn't know better, I am going to address the rest of my answer to her.

It is up to you, mom, to get yourself some interests and let the young folks have time to visit with each other alone. And it is up to you to stop feeling abused because they want that time. They want it, not because they don't love you, but because new families need privacy, need a chance to develop their own interests and friends. That isn't abnormal and heartless. It's the natural scheme of things. Even the dumbest of birds don't all nest together.

If cruel circumstances have forced you all into the same nest, then all the greater need to remember that natural law and respect the other fellow's rights.

If you really love those children, and not just yourself, you will know that, without having a "sob sister" tell you.

Would you have appreciated having your husband's mother, or even your own, with you every minute, when you were a bride? Of course not! Then take a tip from your own life, and quit gumming up the works!

Mothers can be pests, just like any other human. And being a pest never made anyone popular.

So get going! Find yourself some independent life of your own. Love the young folks well enough to leave them alone now and then. Take in a show or a lecture. Go to the park. Join a club. You'll be happier, as well as they.

Fay King Regrets to See Undeserving Second Wife Share Fame

By FAY KING

It is sad to see a second wife reap the glory of success that a first wife worked so hard to help her husband attain.

We have seen singers, authors, actors, baseball players, businessmen and others strut in the spotlight with a new wife while "the little woman," who perhaps did make herself a bit ridiculous overpraising the prospects of her husband, is forgotten.

I was once the only one who did not join in a mighty cheer given to a certain man on a brilliant occasion. I just couldn't!

Here was the very moment that the wife I had known had planned for, and, alas, another woman was standing in her place.

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Squeeze for an Overtrick

Overtricks in Rubber Bridge have for the average or even the good Bridge player only academic interest. They are only slight testimonials on difficult hands to the skill of the Declarer. In Duplicate Bridge, however, overtricks assume an importance out of all proportion to their value in the rubber game, as they may mean the difference between a top-score and merely an average score on a hand.

An example of the manner in which an overtrick was developed through the squeeze method occurred on the hand below.

South, Dealer.

	♠ 653 ♡ QJ92 ◇ K76 ♣ A95
	♠ AK2 ♡ A ◇ A109 ♣ KQJ1086

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	3 NT	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

South might have lingered somewhere along the line to do a little more bidding, but after his partner's response of three notrump, he felt that a six-club contract was safe and so decided it was not worthwhile to see what else the hand might contain. Actually, if he was going to play the hand as accurately as he did, he should have further explored the possibilities of the cards held in the partnership hands before closing the bidding.

West's Opening lead was the spade Queen, which South won with the Ace. The next play was the Ace of hearts. This was followed by the lead of the six of clubs, which was won in Dummy with the nine. Now, from Dummy, the Queen of hearts was led, and when East failed to cover, the spade 2 was discarded by the Declarer. South's next play was to lay down the Ace of trumps, and this lead voided both East and West of their trump holdings. Now the Knave of hearts was led. East covered, and South ruffed with the Ten of trumps. Three more rounds of trumps forced West to discard a diamond to protect the spade 6 in Dummy. The Declarer now laid down the King of spades, which effectually squeezed East, who also was compelled to part with a diamond, having previously been compelled to discard one on the last round of trumps. Now the Declarer led the nine of diamonds, which was won in Dummy with the King, and captured the twelfth and thirteenth tricks with the Ace and Ten in his own hand. The heart 9 and the spade 6 in Dummy had conspired to make ineffective any defense by East and West.

Madge and Lillian Rush to the Aid of Katie

Katie dashed to the oven, opened it and peered in. When she closed the door, her face was pulled down to a dolorous expression that I was sure was not warranted by what she had seen in the oven.

"Dot dinner not be feet for vun leetle dog to eat," she said, but Lilham clapped her shoulder smartly.

"Don't be a little idiot, Katie, just because you know how," she said. "We'll all hurry, and you'll only lose five or ten minutes at the outside. That long wouldn't spoil a royal banquet. Get along with you, now."

She gave the girl a little shove and Katie, whose spirits are more mercurial than those of any other person I know, fairly ran out of the room, giving a little parting giggle as she went.

"Now, then!" Lillian and I spoke the words together, but spoke no more until we had again assembled the trays with the tomato juice cocktails and the caviare and cream cheese canapes, which had crashed to the floor on account of Katie's nervousness after the baking which Mother Graham had given her.

Katie was back before we finished and busied herself with the rest of the dinner. When the last glass was in place, she gave up a tiny little beg.

MOTHER ALARMED

"Thanks so mooch," she said. "Now I can leev. Tank you."

"Don't you feel as if you had been shooed out of the kitchen, 'allee samee' schenker?" Lillian whispered mirthfully, when divested of our aprons we had left the kitchen and taken refuge in my little study off the library for a bit of primping before returning to the living room.

"Yes, indeed. I retarded that my mother's at rest. Katie is herself again and the dinner will be all right both in cooking and serving. But it cannot last. Ruin—"

"Thanks to your mother-in-law," Lillian finished what my loyalty would not permit me to say. "But you'll have to get that direction. Is the bird? Oh, boy! I never was a good cook and I'm not a bit nervous."

"You're better reassured, but you can as soon as you get back into the living room. She's especially keen upon this dinner for old Phil, and she's likely to have a stroke or something if she's kept in suspense much longer. But it's a mighty good lesson for her. I'll bet she'll let up on Katie for a month."

"If she'll only let her alone until after the wedding!" I said fervently.

"She will," Lillian said with conviction. Then we went back to the living room, where a momentary colloquy between my father and Philip Verlizen gave me a chance to speak to my mother-in-law unobserved.

DINNER A SUCCESS

"Everything is all right, mother," I said in an undertone. "Katie was nervous and dropped some glasses and almost had hysteria over them. But she's all calmed down now, and dinner will be served almost immediately."

"Were they those pretty glasses of yours the ones you like so well?" she asked tearfully.

I chose the role of Sapphira without a second's hesitation.

"No. I can easily replace the ones she broke," I answered and my mother-in-law brought a sigh of relief from her toes.

"Then the dinner won't be spoiled?" she quavered with an apprehensive look toward Philip Verlizen.

"On the contrary, it promises to be especially good," I whispered cheerily, and was rewarded by the look of thankfulness and comprehensive gratitude that flashed into her eyes.

My prophecy proved a true one. The dinner was perfectly cooked and perfectly served, from the cocktails and canapes in the living room, through the courses at the table to the coffee and tiny colored mints in the living room again. It was while we were sipping the coffee that Philip Verlizen, sitting next me, spoke in an undertone that no one else could hear.

"Don't forget that you have [illegible] the two interviews this evening, one with the 'true bride' and one by yourself, for the elucidation of the mystery surrounding the delayed letter."

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Hide the wrist with fur trimming. That seems to be the rule for many of the new suits. A new model in green-gray hairy wool has a collar trim of narrow bands of Persian lamb while the cuffs of the sleeves sport enormous gauntlets of the fur.

A warm day is no day for the fur hat that is sure to be appreciated when blustery winds blow. A charming new hat is a square crowned toque in glossy brown caracul with beautiful moire marking. The crown is worked to the center in folded sections. It has a straight feather of the caracul.

We hang onto fringe, season after season although this trimming never seems to become very popular. It is beautifully used on an afternoon dress of black marocain, the long, slim skirt being covered with rows and rows of silk fringe in adjacent tufts.

There's no reason why the stouter woman should not be as modishly garbed as her more slender sisters. An ideal dress for the larger figure is done in wood brown faille crepe and has accents of matching satin in revers, cuffs and panel pleat. It has tucked shoulders and a vestee of Alencon lace.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Sore Throat Not to Be Ignored

In my mail the other day I had a sad letter from a mother who had recently lost her child. The child had complained of a sore throat, but the doctor was not called until it was too late to save the little victim from the clutches of diphtheria. Everyone will sympathize with this mother. It is her wish that I warn all other mothers against the danger of neglecting diphtheria.

Dr. Copeland

There is no doubt that this child, as well as thousands of other children, could have been saved from untimely death if the necessary steps had been taken to guard against diphtheria. It cannot be questioned that modern methods of inoculation against diphtheria have saved the lives of millions of children.

Recently, in New York City, the millionth child received the inoculation. That is a fine record. It is hoped that eventually every child six months old will be given this protection.

Though most mothers are familiar with the procedure, many fail to take advantage of this modern medical discovery. Perhaps this can be explained by early misunderstanding and the unfounded propaganda of those who claim the treatment is dangerous.

May I assure every mother that adverse criticism of diphtheria inoculation is without scientific foundation. Every child is entitled to receive this protection and should be given these injections. Bear in mind that diphtheria is a disease that can be prevented. But it can only be prevented if the necessary injections are given.

If a child is listless and complains of a sore throat and fever, call your physician. With such symptoms diphtheria should always be suspected if the child has not been inoculated against the disease. Early recognition is essential if the child's life is not to be endangered. When the disease is immediately recognized, diphtheria anti-toxin can be given. It is only of value if given at the onset of the disease.

Though it is sometimes possible to isolate children from diphtheria germs, we never know when we may be exposed to these germs. They are always present in our midst. Guard against them by the protective measures modern science offers. The inoculations are not dangerous, but it is extremely dangerous for your child to be without them.

If there were universal use of these inoculations the disease could be entirely eradicated. We know what remarkable results have come from our attack against smallpox. But at one time smallpox was a dreaded scourge of mankind and found in all parts of the world.

With the discovery of vaccination and the enforcement of this method of protection, that disease has been almost entirely wiped out. In fact, in certain countries where vaccination against smallpox is compulsory the disease is rarely encountered. Surely the same thing could be accomplished with diphtheria, but that is possible only by the co-operation of everyone concerned.

Answers to Health Queries

M. L. C. Q.—What causes head noises?

A.—This is often due to nasal catarrh, which has extended to the middle ear. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

H. H. Q.—What do you advise for pimples, also constipation?

A.—Diet and elimination are important in the correction of these disorders. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

Household Hints

Mildew stains on white clothes can be removed by rubbing with lemon juice, then sprinkling with salt.

A mashed banana mixed with the white of an egg and beaten till stiff is an excellent substitute for whipped cream.

Put a little bluing in the water when washing windows. It will give them a much brighter look. And also polish them after they are dry with a chamois cloth.

To prevent liquid preparations from leaking when you are traveling, seal each bottle with a few drops of candle grease, smoothing it while still warm over the edges of the cork.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Fresh air chases away fatigue bugs. The girl who is about to depart on an evening pilgrimage of pleasant places will do well by herself if she will lie down on her back, hands under her hips and breathe deeply. Drink in the air through the nostrils, expanding the chest to the limit, tugging from the diaphragm. Expel through the lips with a whistling sound. Do this 10 or 20 times, resting between every third intake of air. Eyes will brighten, nerves will stop yowling, muscles will relax. Precede the breathing exercises with a warm bath and a quick, cold shower, and you'll last the party through and be as fresh as a daisy.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a wedding gift is purchased at a department store, for instance, when one doesn't have personal cards, just what should be "said" on the card furnished by the store.

The gift is to be sent direct from the store to the bride, who is rather well known to me. R.

Since you have no cards of your own, you might write a note of good wishes to the bride-to-be, and take it with you when you go to the store, to have it sent with your wedding gift. Or, if you prefer to use the store card, you might write on it, "With dearest love and all good wishes to you, from Jane."

MAKES DISHES GLEAM

To make your dishes gleam just sprinkle a teaspoon of Climalene into your dishwater. Climalene softens water . . . it dissolves grease. You do your dishes in soft lasting suds with ½ the soap. It makes clothes whiter, too.

NAVY DAY PROGRAMS

Airship Macon Football Show

ON NETWORKS TONIGHT

Battle Fleet Maneuvers On Radio

The shades of John Paul Jones and George Dewey sail the air waves this evening as the networks and the nation join in tribute to the Navy.

In broadcasts from the control car of the giant dirigible Macon, listeners from ocean-to-ocean are twice given bird's eye views of two great United States Navy Fleets in sham battle. (WJAS at 2:30 and 11 p. m.)

Rear Admirals Cluverius and Standley speak over an NBC-KDKA network at 4:30.

Charles Francis Coe, onetime Bluejacket and now a noted author, discusses "A Treaty Navy, Fully Manned." (NBC-WTAM, 1070 kilocycles, at 6:45.)

* * *

Pigskin Play

Gus Dorais, Detroit University coach, who brought his team to Pittsburgh a week ago today to play the Dukes, is Christy Walsh's guest in the All-America Football Show, heard over CBS-WJAS tonight at 9:30.

Probably the most thorough exponent of the Rockne-Notre Dame system, Dorais explains its highlights during his coast-to-coast air interview with the famous Sun-Telegraph football expert.

A dramatization of the outstanding play of the past week and football fanfare furnished by Mark Warnow's orchestra and quartet makes it a colorful program.

* * *

Bull and China

The March of Time dramatizes the President's vigorous recovery drive, the fall of the Deladier government in France; Austrian Chancellor Dollfuss locking up a German princess in a tower, and the amusing incident of a bull entering a china shop when Queen Mary, of England, was shopping there. Hear it over CBS-WJAS at 8:30.

* * *

Jessica Dragonette, the Cavaliers and Rosario Bourdon's orchestra present a diversified program of classical and popular music over NBC-WCAE from 8 to 9.

Grantland Rice, guest on the program, gives last-minute reports of football teams scheduled to play tomorrow.

* * *

Parlor Games

The combined titles of Lee Wiley's songs for tonight tell a story —"This Time It's Love—Travelin' —Honeymoon Hotel."

She sings them with Victor Young's orchestra over WCAE at 9:30.

* * *

Halloween games guaranteed to wreck homes, ruin furniture and make bitter enemies out of the best of friends are suggested by Olsen and Johnson in their Revue on WJAS at 10.

* * *

Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra does everything but un-Ravel the "Bolero" during tonight's "Threads of Happiness" program, heard over CBS-WJAS at 9:15.

He has secured 18 outstanding instrumentalists to weave the musical threads of "The Last Rose," "Indian Summer," "Chimes in the Chapel" and "Close Your Eyes."

'Fire Chief' Sets Sparks Flying

By AIRCASTER

The Amalgamated Broadcasting System, fathered by Ed Wynn and launched on the air waves just a month ago, has run into its first difficulties.

Under what conditions it will continue broadcasting hangs upon Ed Wynn's decision in the matter of affixing his signature to his resignation as president.

If he signs the document, Ota Gygi, vice president, will bring in new partners, an idea hitherto banned by Wynn.

If he doesn't sign, then it will be an indication, of course, that he has changed his mind.

* * *

No Sponsors

He was eloquent, so the story goes, about the management.

On the other hand, Gygi figured he had done a good job, getting things lined up and started before Wynn's return.

But, unfortunately, there were no commercial programs.

So-o-o-o-o, Ed Wynn suddenly ended the argument by announcing he would resign. Thereupon he locked himself in his office.

"Put it in writing and I'll go out and get new partners!" Gygi says he called in to him.

But Wynn's fountain pen wasn't working. Gygi now reports he has new partners lined up—partners ready to sink more money into the project if Wynn definitely relinquishes control.

That was the situation last night. It may be quite different today. Those close to Wynn (who won't give out any statements) assure me that Ed is definitely through with network administration and utterly disillusioned.

But for some reason, Wynn cancelled an advertisement in which he had planned to tell the waiting world of the climax of his brief career as a radio head man.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Traveler's Aid

Ralph Kirbery received it at the close of a rehearsal.

He was to present himself for an audition in Cleveland at the earliest possible moment.

He rushed to Newark airport. But he forgot to take cash. The plane would take off within five minutes.

The clerk wouldn't take a check. Kirbery's watch wasn't any good either as a deposit. Neither was his car. He was almost hysterical. This was his biggest opportunity since joining up with the national broadcasting company.

Then suddenly a man, also a passenger, stepped forward and handed Kirbery $53 in cash—his fare.

'Hick' Traps Bandits In Radio Drama

How a gang of modern desperadoes were trapped through the keen observation of a so-called "hick" lunchroom proprietor is revealed in a tense and well-acted radio drama heard over eight stations in the tri-state area this afternoon and evening.

The dramatization, titled "The Wild West of 1933," and adapted from a story in next Sunday's American Weekly, big feature magazine distributed with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, is broadcast on the following schedule:

WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, 5 p. m.; WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.; WCBU, Charleston, W. Va., 5:15 p. m.; WADC, Akron, 7:45 p. m.; WAIU, Columbus, 8 p. m., and WLBW, Erie, 9 p. m.

FOUR JAILED IN 'LOCO WEED' ROUNDUP

Federal, state and city agencies moved in unison today to smash the "loco" weed trade.

A raid, which netted a large supply of marijuana—used for "pep" cigarets, resulted in three Mexicans being held for court for violating the state narcotic act, and one being sent to the workhouse, without option of a fine.

GETS WORKHOUSE TERM

Nick Mendes, 26, of 1311 Epiphany street, was held for court on $2,500 bail. Detective Lieut. Edward Harkins, City Detective Walter Monahan, and state and federal narcotic agents testified he was a manufacturer of the weed-cigarets. Mendes told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg that he bought the weed, American grown, in McKeesport.

Manuel Barble, 24, of 1412 Hazel street, who said he bought the loco cigarets from Mendes, was given 60 days in the workhouse.

ENOUGH FOR 500 CIGARETS

John Taylor, 27, of 1313 Hazel street, whom police said sold the cigarets to construction camp laborers and others on a commission basis, was held for court under $1,000 bail, as was Michael Hernandes, 36, of 72 Logan street, also said to be a peddler.

Taylor, it was testified in Central Police Court, bought the cigarets at the rate of 10 for 80 cents. Small tins of the stuff brought $2, it was said.

Seized in the raid on the Mendes place last night, police said, was half a bushel of the weed, enough to make 500 cigarets.

Here's a Heap of 'Loco Weed'

WJAS CHANNEL CHANGE DENIED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The Radio Commission today gave the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company permission to move station KYW from Chicago to Philadelphia.

The company is to build a new 10-kilowatt transmitter near Philadelphia, with directional broadcasting facilities to decrease interference with stations in New York and Baltimore. The decision brought to a close the drawn-out "1020" clear channel case.

An application by station WJAS of Pittsburgh to increase its power from one to five kilowatts and to change its frequency from 1,290 to 820 kilocycles, was denied. The Pittsburgh station had proposed that the 1,020 channel be assigned to station WHAS at Louisville, Ky., which now operates on a 820-kilocycle frequency.

The Courier Journal and the Louisville Times Company, owners of station WHAS were granted a license renewal.

End of Philadelphia Towing Squad Asked

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The end of Philadelphia's police "towing squad" and "Six-Dollar Club"—which have inconvenienced many motorists, is sought by Councilman Clarence H. Crossan, who offered an ordinance repealing its legal authority.

The "Six-Dollar Club" is so called because motorists whose cars are towed away for violation of traffic regulations must pay that sum to retrieve their vehicles.

Manning Defends Politics in Church

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Bishop William T. Manning, of New York, says that although clergymen are admonished against bringing politics into the church, "we are pledged to bring the church into politics."

Addressing the closing session of the Episcopalian Catholic Congress, celebrating the centenary of the Oxford movement, he called on Anglo-Catholics last night to lead the world out of "chaos and confusion."

Herbert Barrington, Former Actor, Dies

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Herbert Barrington Hollingsworth, stage star of 30 years ago and a pioneer motion picture actor under the name of Herbert Barrington, died yesterday at his home in Tarrytown. He was 61 years old.

For many years he played with Richard Mansfield and achieved successes in "Cyrano De Bergerac" and "Polly of the Circus." He retired eight years ago. His widow and two daughters survive.

Federal Road Jobs Increase 300 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The Bureau of Public Roads said today employment under its construction program had increased nearly 300 per cent in October over the September level—from 30,088 men at work last month to 80,000 now.

At the same time, T. H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau, said extraordinary efforts would be made in November to keep the figures for that month up to October's high.

Short Circuit Causes Pitt Laboratory Fire

A short circuit in a battery in a laboratory of the University of Pittsburgh on O'Hara street caused a $50 fire early today. Firemen of Engine Company No. 14, summoned by a still alarm, extinguished the blaze.

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

First I want to answer Mrs. James A. Shupe, of Avonmore, Pa.

You are perfectly right in assuming that the retail code signed by the President does not apply to a store in a small town of twelve hundred people.

The management of that store, in regard to wages and price-fixing, can go on the same as heretofore without violating a code. No doubt the conditions which you outlined had something to do with the government's decision.

Chain stores in small towns are not exempt from the provisions of the NRA, regardless of their location.

He had returned from Elizabeth, where he covered a football game for the Sun-Telegraph, and was mentioning to his wife that he might not be home for supper on the morrow because he expected to go to Jeannette, when little 6-year-old Elaine chirped in with:

* * *

To the boys who play football on the streets:

I have had several requests from property owners who feel that their rights have been violated by street football playing. They are upset because of the damage to lawns and shrubbery when a punt wavers from the narrow confines of the curb.

In order to keep peace and protect property from damage in the neighborhood, can't you look up a nearby lot or playground, and if not available, make rules for street playing so trespassing will be averted?

Sports-trotter:

Harry Greb fought Gene Tunney five times.

The next two fights were Tunney's; the fourth a no-decision, and the fifth, in St. Paul, a decisive victory for Tunney.

Peanut Butter Cutlets - By Josephine Gibson

Mix ½ cup Heinz Peanut Butter with ¾ cup hot milk. Add ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Quickly dip slices of several-day-old bread into this mixture and brown quickly in a skillet with 2 tablespoons hot fat. Do not use much fat as the oil of the peanut butter is almost sufficient for frying. Serve crisp and hot.

MISS JOSEPHINE GIBSON on the Air!

How and when to serve Peanut Butter Cutlets will be told by Miss Gibson on a Hostess Counsel program next week.

Tune in on the Hostess Counsel Broadcasts for bright new ideas about menus and recipes. Hear this helpful, interesting program, sponsored by Heinz' 57 Varieties, over your nearby N.B.C. station. For the time and station see the radio page of this newspaper.

We take GREAT PAINS over LITTLE THINGS!

Condiments are the joy of eating and the spice of life. They are the accessories that turn a humdrum meal into sheer fun for all. And that is why Heinz takes great pains to see that your condiments are perfect, your joy unconfined. Read on:

HEINZ PICKLES—Do you know that our gherkins pass a shape-test, even as bathing beauties do? They do, and the outsizes are out! Definitely! So the pickles you buy have beauty—of figure as well as of flavor. Heinz makes ten kinds.

HEINZ BEEFSTEAK SAUCE—"Tomatoes, onions, lemons, sugar, salt, and a blend of Heinz cider, malt, and distilled vinegars, with tragacanth, mustard, turmeric and other spices." So saith the label. And out of this myriad of flavors, Heinz projects a sauce that tastes, we think, delightfully unlike any other sauce you've used.

We count our part in the scheme of things as sacred as that of the housewife. For, together, we and she are entrusted with the task of providing for the family's well-being. Holding these things true, the founder of our House set high the standards of Heinz purity and Heinz quality. And we who carry on, hold steadfastly to those standards.

HEINZ KETCHUP IS GRAND! from the Tomato Seed UP!

THE thing that makes Heinz Ketchup the world's largest selling ketchup is the tomatoes. Luscious, red-ripe, they come fresh from plants that are grown by Heinz in Heinz greenhouses. Even these plants are grown from seeds specially developed by Heinz. These tomatoes and Heinz fine spices (secured by Heinz buyers in the Orient) give to this world-favorite ketchup its unusual rich flavor.

NOW YOU CAN HAVE Real HOME-MADE SOUP!

...without long hours of soup-kettle toil!

Out of the Heinz kitchens back to the tables of America come the well-loved home-made soups of years gone by. This time Heinz, instead of you, takes on the long slow task—brews for you the same grand soups that you yourself would brew.

Heavy fresh cream and delicate fresh mushrooms go into Heinz delightful Cream of Mushroom Soup. The vegetables, for each Heinz soup, are grown under Heinz supervision. Spices to savor Heinz soups, are selected by Heinz buyers, in lands as far as India. Each soup is cooked slowly in open kettles till the fine home-made flavor is brewed thoroughly "down" and "in."

That isn't all. Heinz soups are not condensed; the food-value and the good taste are not diminished. Complete and perfect, Heinz soups come to you ready to heat and serve.

Add soup—to make each meal more fully satisfying, more fully nourishing. But ask your Grocer for Heinz soups, home-made soups—the kind that everybody loves.

KEEP ON HAND

For hasty feasts put Heinz Oven-Baked Beans on to heat in a hurry. We have spent long hours preparing a dish that will delight you on the spur of the moment. Careful inspecting and selecting of beans, then hours of soaking, then baking in hot dry ovens, then the "cooking-in" of savory sauces. All this . . . and they come to you, thrilling to sniff, sublime to munch, amen to appetites. . . See that they're Heinz—that the tin says OVEN-BAKED.

HOSPITAL BILLS AT JOHNSTOWN PAID BY EGGS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 27.—You can pay for your operation in this Flood City with an auto tire or butter and eggs, or potatoes—or even toothpaste!

That's how the Memorial Hospital has been making ends meet in these less prosperous times.

Potatoes, chickens, rabbits, cabbage, milk and coal have been accepted for bills.

A patient squared things by hauling the ashes from the hospital power plant. But perhaps the most unusual payments was that of the patient who, when the hospital truck broke down, towed it in.

SLAYER MEETS DOOM BY NOOSE

International News Service.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27.—Euel Lee, 62-year-old Eastern Shore Negro, was hanged early today for the murder of Green K. Davis, his employer, of Taylorsville, Md. Davis' wife and two daughters were slain with him, but Lee was tried for only the one killing.

His death on the gallows marked the end of a two-year fight by attorneys for the International Labor Defense, a Communistic organization.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Four minutes before Charles E. Washington, Negro, was to begin the slow walk to the electric chair in the district jail today, President Roosevelt granted him a two-day reprieve.

William C. Robinson, another Negro, was electrocuted this morning for murder, and Washington was to have followed him to the chair, when the Department of Justice telephoned the White House that there appeared to be some new evidence in Washington's case.

CROWD BEATS YOUTH, FATHER

Attacked by a group of Negro men and women in the Hill district late yesterday, William Lando, 46, of 3047 Center avenue, and his son, Lunny, 18, today were suffering severe bruises and cuts.

The Negroes pounced upon the Landos and Constable P. J. Mager as they left a dwelling in Beebe street, owned by Lando, and told the tenant that a constable's sale of the contents had been postponed, according to a police report.

A riot call was sent to Center Avenue police, but when the officers arrived the assailants fled. Later police reported arresting Lucille Price, 26, of 26 Granville street. She was held for court on a charge of assault and battery by Magistrate George Metzler in Center Avnue Police Court today.

Lando and his son went to Passavant Hospital for treatment.

JILTED WOMAN FIGURES IN SUIT

Shortly after she married Edward A. Hartman, of Pressley street, another woman came to see her, Mrs. Nellie D. Hartman, 39, testified in her divorce action. The other woman described herself as the sweetheart Hartman had jilted, the wife added.

Mrs. Hartman wants a divorce on grounds of indignities. She testified that once her husband pushed a gun against her and threatened to kill her. Married in April, 1933, they separated six weeks later.

Gas Blast in Home Of Aluminum Chief

Firemen from Engine Company No. 14 were summoned to the home of R. A. Hunt, president of the Aluminum Company of America, at 4875 Ellsworth avenue, after gas exploded in a furnace in the basement last night. The furnace door and a window were blown out. The damage was estimated at $75 by firemen.

Gunman Charged With Manslaughter

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Despite a ballistics expert's opinion that a bullet from the revolver of Detective John Mullen killed Miss Edna Kingsley, 26, during a gun battle between officers and a robber suspect yesterday, Coroner Frank G. Kreft last night announced he would file a manslaughter charge against Donald J. Elliott, 31, of Cleveland, the fugitive gunman.

Siam Revolt Reported Over as Prince Flees

SINGAPORE, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Reports that Prince Bovaradej had fled from Siam and that the revolt had been completely ended were received by the Siamese consul-general today.

Population Bovaradej, former war minister, for whom a reward of nearly $5,000 has been offered, was credited with having prolonged the revolution beyond expectations.

Ashes of Ibanez Returned to Spain

MENTON, France, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Honored by two nations, the ashes of Vincente Blasco Ibanez, Spanish novelist, were dispatched to their native land yesterday. They were placed on the Spanish cruiser Jaime which sailed for Spain, accompanied by three French and two Spanish cruisers.

Former King Alfonso of Spain exiled Ibanez for his republican agitation, and he died in France in 1928.

Worst Past, Says British Secretary

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Dominions Secretary J. H. Thomas, in a speech last night, declared that hopeful signs of the passing of the worst crisis in history are nowhere more numerous than in the British Empire.

He cited figures of empire trade improvement since the Ottawa agreements, which he called a striking example of how free nations could work together for the common good.

Mate of Slain Deer Battles 4 Hunters

LEWISTOWN, Mont., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—John Schwab, Jr., ranch youth, shot one deer and summoned his brother and two neighbors to help him pack it home. When they returned, at night, another buck was standing guard over the dead one and he charged the four. Raymond Schwab hurled a stone that caught the buck between the eyes and downed him. The youths leaped on the animal and slashed his throat.

Engineer from Ohio Killed in Germany

RUESSIDSHEIM, Germany, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The body of an American engineer, Peter Cook, 35, was found yesterday in a wrecked automobile on the highroad to Bischofsheim. The car had crashed into a ditch at a curve.

Much Interest Here in Amendment No. 11

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Alleghenv countians perhaps have the greatest interest in Amendment No. 11 of the suggested constitutional changes to be voted on November 7. It is not a new subject, for this is the so-called "Greater Pittsburgh" Amendment, though the consolidated city or county it would create might be known by some other name than that.

Mr. Shields

It could be called "Greater Pittsburgh," or "Metropolitan Pittsburgh" or "City of Pittsburgh (Metropolitan)."

In 1928 the voters of the state ratfied an amendment of similar purport. The Legislature of 1929 submitted a charter to the voters of the county, but it was defeated because the amendment which had been adopted provided that two-thirds of the electors in a majority of the municipal divisions of the county must approve the charter. A majority of the voters in a majority of the districts did approve, but their decision was nullified by the two-thirds rule.

The amendment now up for vote eliminates the two-thirds provision and decrees that the charter shall be adopted if a majority of the voters in a majority of the municipalities, and a majority in the whole county, vote in the affirmative.

When the 1929 charter was defeated two courses were open. Either the Legislature could have been asked for a new charter, or a new amendment could be instituted. The latter course was decided upon, principally to circumvent the two-thirds rule, and also to secure wording which would permit again applying to the Legislature. Those purposes were served, the charter can be submitted every two years until accepted and so we have the amendment again up for consideration.

Great Similarity To One Adopted in 1928

There is great similarity between the amendment now proposed and the one adopted in 1928. Small courts, such as aldermen and justices of the peace, may be consolidated, and the judges may be elected or appointed. Including these courts, and the courts of record, there are nearly 300 separate courts in Allegheny County.

The present board of County Commissioners would be done away with at the end of present terms and a new commission set up the number to be determined in the charter, as well as the question of whether members shall be elected sectionally or at large.

Forcible annexation is prevented, proponents claim. If one section of a municipal division wishes to amalgamate with another, the decision rests with all the voters of the two divisions, and not just with those of the section seeking to become annexed.

The amendment expressly stipulates the intention that the charter shall reserve to each municipality its autonomy. Each is to retain its name and form of government, including the right of its own paid or volunteer police or fire departments. This was a fighting point in the last amendment and charter election, volunteer firemen fearing that their existence as units was jeopardized and they fought the charter to a finish. It is understood that much opposition to the present amendment springs from the same source.

Joseph T. Miller, chairman of the now defunct Metropolitan Commission and now leading the fight for the amendment, has consistently denied the rights of volunteer firemen will be invaded.

One provision in the amendment reads that there shall be power for "the assessment of property for taxation, the levying and collecting of taxes and the payment of the cost of any public or municipal improvement, in whole or in part, by a special assessment upon abutting and non-abutting property specially benefited thereby."

* * *

Provides Special Improvement Districts

In other words, had this provision existed when the Liberty Bridge and Tubes were built the South Hills might have paid for them "in whole or in part" if it had been decided that this section was "specially benefited." As it was, the whole county paid a pro rata share through general taxation.

Special improvement districts could be created by the Commissioners where an improvement was for the benefit of more than one municipal division and could be financed through special taxes in the district apart from the general tax.

If a charter is adopted amendments which do not reduce the powers of the separate municipalities may be made by the Legislature.

However, if there are subsequent charter amendments which would reduce the powers of any one or more municipal divisions, they shall not become effective until approved in the same manner that the original charter was adopted.

It is the provision dealing with subsequent amendment of the charter which appears to be rousing the most discussion. Its proponents hold out as an argument that Metropolitan Pittsburgh will receive a higher census rating.

While Allegheny County is considering imposing tolls on free bridges, Amendment No. 12 would authorize the state to borrow $10,000,000 to free present toll bridges. Tolls would continue to be charged on the state bridges until sufficient revenue had been returned to re-

BIG LAKE, POOL PROPOSED FOR NORTH PARK

$620,000 Project Would Provide Dam for Pine Creek

Another federal aid project, including construction of a 48-acre lake and a swimming pool in North Park, has been presented to the Pennsylvania committee on federal projects by the County Commissioners.

A dam and spillway would be erected across Pine Creek, backing up both the north and west branches of the creek. The relocated Babcock boulevard is to be built on the top of the dam and spillway.

The proposal, planned at a cost of approximately $620,000, was presented to Joseph Trees, chairman of the state federal aid committee, yesterday by County Commissioner C. M. Barr, who suggested it. Trees met yesterday with Commissioner Barr, Planning Engineer E. L. Schmidt and John Rice and James Rae, members of the county committee negotiating the federal aid projects.

FAVORED BY TREES

Schmidt said detailed plans would be completed soon and presented to the committee. He said Trees had given favorable consideration to the plan.

Commissioner Barr said that in 1932 the South Park swimming pool had more than 250,000 patrons and the revenue was more than $33,000. This was offered as part of the argument that the North Park improvements could be made self-liquidating.

In addition to pool fees, a charge would be made for boating on the lake. The county also could obtain revenue by leasing camp sites.

FLOOD CONTROL SEEN

Schmidt said the members of the Citizens' Conservation Corps quartered in North Park could immediately begin clearing the two valleys which are to be flooded. He said Pine Creek cares for the drainage of approximately 24 square miles, and the dam would also retard high water which almost every spring floods many North Boroughs communities.

Construction of the boulevard across the top of the dam would provide a drive of unusual scenic beauty, affording motorists a clear view up the two branches of the lake. Schmidt said the lake would be the largest artificial one in the district, having a shoreline of between three and four miles.

COSTS SMALL

The application will be made with the request for a 30 per cent grant from the government for the cost of labor and materials. Schmidt said the county would be given an unusually good return on this proposal, as most of the expense will be for labor and material, with no property damage or right of way costs.

The pool, circular in form, would accommodate about 25 per cent more swimmers than the South Park pool. Water will be supplied from the city water lines in Shaler Township, near the Zoar Home.

Cost of piping the water to the park has been included in the estimate as has that of sanitation and sewage arrangements for campers.

Industry Advanced By Stabilizing Influence

This is the second of a series of articles on the coal industry by Mr. Browning. Today is presented the union's side of the labor question; tomorrow, he will deal with the operator's problems with labor from the operator's viewpoint. Yesterday, the first of the series, discussed the general problems which have resulted in the decline of the industry, particularly in Western Pennsylvania.

By HOWARD L. BROWNING

Did King Coal kick his best friend out of court?

That question today is bound to occur to anyone interested in the present and past and future of the coal industry in Western Pennsylvania or elsewhere.

When the Constitutional Society of West Virginia said in 1922 that union agreements with coal operators stabilized the unionized half of the coal industry, it stressed a fairly new principle.

But today that principle is one of the fundamentals of the National Industrial recovery act and, is being applied to the coal industry and every other industry in the country by making employes' rights to collective bargaining a recognized legal fact.

Not New to Industry

And if high wages and protection of the worker from having those high wages cut are helpful in stabilizing industry and preventing cutthroat competition, the long fight waged by operators against the union has been self-destructive.

Unionization and collective bargaining are no new principles in the coal industry.

The first known union was organized in the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania by John Bates, a miner, in 1849. Chris Evans, pillar of miners' unions in their early days, wrote that:

"The low wages paid for coal mining, together with the 'pluck me' (company) stores that had already invaded the district, contributed largely then, as now (1900), in reducing the real wages paid."

Two Unions Merge

By 1889, there were two major organizations in the coal fields, with possibly 28,000 members in 16 states. A joint conference of the two unions, in 1891, resulted in the formation of the United Mine Workers of America. And the preamble and constitution of the new organization we find to be an interesting document. Here are excerpts:

". . . We hereby declare that our objects are:

"To secure an earning compatible with the dangers of our calling and the labor performed.

"To establish our right to receive pay for labor performed in lawful money and to rid ourselves of the iniquitous system of spending our money wherever our employers designate.

"To reduce to the lowest possible minimum the awful catastrophes . . . by securing legislation looking to the most perfect system of ventilation, drainage, etc.

"To uncompromisingly demand that eight hours shall constitute a day's work.

"To lawfully prohibit their (children's) employment until they have attained 14 years of age.

"To abrogate all laws which enable coal operators to cheat the miners and to substitute laws which will enable the miner to have his coal properly weighed or measured."

Growth of 35 Years

Do you ask what unionism actually did for the miners?

Over the succeeding 35 years it secured constantly rising wages in union fields while, in non-union fields, no comparable advance occurred.

Little by little, it brought into disrepute the custom of paying the men in company scrip, good only at company stores. That custom is finally abolished by the NRA code which requires wage payment in cash money.

The miner today can buy at any store he pleases to patronize.

The union can be thanked, in part, for the improvement in mine safety which has turned out to be an improvement in efficiency, as well, with a saving of millions to the operator.

With the 48-hour week demanded in the union's constitution now almost a matter of course, we find the coal code going one better and establishing a 40-hour week—as a result of long union agitation. And now the union calls for 30-hour weeks.

Thank the Union!

No one under 17 years of age, the code says, can work inside a mine; no one under 16, outside. Thank the union for that.

The checkweighman—paid by the miners to weigh the coal the men have loaded—has for many years been a feature of ever union mine. He is again coming into his own.

And with those demands for a starter and others as they arose, the union grew until, by 1910, the Central and Western Pennsylvania fields and the West Virginia Panhandle section were highly organized. Even nonunion mines toed the union's mark and paid union or better wages.

The miners didn't have much luck in the South, but the South at that time didn't amount to much in the coal industry.

Frick's Hand Seen

In the Connelisville coke region —including Fayette County—too, the miner could never push his case. The late H. C. Frick saw to that when, in 1891, he fought the men into submission during a strike for recognition of the union and higher wages.

And there, from that day until 1922, the prevailing wages of miners were below those of the union field and their lot unusually unhappy. Since the great strike of 1922, however, the coke regions, especially the "captive" mines, have paid union or better wages.

The strike of 1891, by the way, was the origin of the refusal of "captive" mines—owned by other firms and mining coal for their owners' use—to recognize the union after passage of the NRA code.

'War Wages' in Code

During the war a scarcity of labor and a heavy demand for coal sent basic wages to the unheard of level of $5 a day. That is the level restored by the coal code today.

In 1920 wages were upped to a basic $7.50 a day. But long before

ALLIED BOARDS CARRY FIGHT TO CAPITAL

Clash With County on Toll Project Spurs Opposition

Allegheny County's application for a loan from the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works to finance the purchase of the Wabash tunnel was opposed again by the Allied Boards of Trade—this time at the source.

A telegram, stating the objection of the trade body, was sent to Secretary Harold L. Ickes, of the Interior Department, who also heads the public works board. The telegram read:

"Allied Boards of Trade, composed of 48 civic organizations in Allegheny County with a membership of over 35,000 earnestly protests against the approval of the Allegheny County application for loan insofar as same includes purchase of the Wabash Bridge and tunnel and the imposition of tolls on the Liberty tunnels. Respectfully request no action be taken without opportunity given us to be heard. Letter follows."

The action follows a dispute between the trade committee head, Max U. Applebaum, and the County Commissioners. Commissioner W. D. Mansfield, when the trade group protested last Tuesday, declared that if Allegheny County didn't get the loan, some other community would. And McGovern pointedly said:

"For years people have been relying on the Boards of Trade and that bunco Chamber of Commerce, that make statements not worth a thing. We should let the fellow who pays the taxes express his opinion."

OAKLAND PLANS MUMMER FETE

More than 5,000 persons are expected to take part in the Halloween parade under auspices of the Oakland Board of Trade, according to the committee in charge of arrangements. The parade will start at Oakland avenue and Forbes street, traversing the principal streets of the Oakland district. A street dance will be held.

The committee consists of President Anthony H. Clarke, chairman; Edward L. Flaherty, Howard Neely, James Blaine Smith, Robert P. Alexander, James Shields, Raymond J. Leahy, Thomas Flaherty, Richard T. Hugus, Jr., William Stout, James Keenan, James T. James, W. Oetting, John A. Freyvogal and James Mensch.

John Barry, captain of police, will be in charge of safety, and a number of Oakland physicians are on the Red Cross committee.

—By ARTHUR (Bugs) BAER—

The danger of digging for gold is that you might strike oil and be ruined.

The elusive metal is found in all rock formations except marble-front banks.

All of our gold is now in the Treasury vaults and no government employe is allowed to report for work with a pick and shovel. It's safe down there for no pelican ever coughed up a fish for a friend.

We've been off and on the gold standard like a humming bird on a honeysuckle vine. We accepted it in 1834, ratified it in 1873, wavered in 1878, and officialised it in 1912.

Now we are back where we started and have been penalized five yards.

ESTATE LOSES U. S. TAX SUIT

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker yesterday awarded judgment in favor of the government in a suit by Louis B. Hays and Virginia Hays Osburn, executors of the estate of Mary H. Hays, to recover $12,951.42 alleged to have been illegally collected as inheritance tax.

The action involved difference in valuation placed on property in Smithfield street, part of which is now under lease to the Frank & Sedar Company. The government claimed at the time of assessment the proerty was worth $190,000 and the plaintiff placed the valuation at $120,000.

Two Held in Raids In Fullerton Street

A cabaret in Fullerton street and an alleged drinking establishment a few doors away were raided by constables from the office of Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, of Sewickley, late yesterday. Sam Rosenthall was arrested as the proprietor of the former place and Leroy Smith, Negro, of the latter. Both will be given a hearing Monday night.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 27.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

All the western states held a convention here in Los Angeles the other day on taxation to see what the running of the various states was costing 'em. Well, they found it was costing 'em so much that they are talking now about letting Mexico have them back. It's taken since I believe it was 1812) for us to realize Mexico won that war, but like all conventions it did nothing but hold a business meeting and pass some resolutions, then hold a banquet and the waiters passed some cocktails. Then they all went home and got ready to vote for the same politicans that put the last tax raise on 'em. But a good time was had by all. Please pass the gravy.

Yours, WILL.

JUSTICE FACES PAROLE PROBE

Justice of the Peace Benjamin F. Swartzwelder, of Seward, Cambria County, after spending last night in Allegheny County Jail, was being given a hearing in Criminal Court today, charged with violation of parole.

Swartzwelder, convicted of false pretense November 21, 1928, before Judge Elder W. Marshall, was taken into court by Chief Probation Officer George Austen before Judge Sylvester J. Snee late yesterday to explain why he had not made restitution of $9,700, which had been a stipulation of his parole. He had been found guilty of obtaining this amount from George Hereto, of Sharpsburg, by representing that he was heir to $5,000,000 from the estate of Jacob Baker, of Philadelphia. Austen said his records showed only $185 had been paid to date.

ELOPING BRIDE, 'GANGSTER' DIVORCED

Her story of a Wellsburg elopement followed by a bumpy matrimonial journey during the past two years won a divorce for Mrs. Louise M. Morin, 20, of R. D. No. 7, Bellevue, from Frank X. Morin, Jr., 21.

Following their marriage, Morin was arrested for forging checks, attempting to rob a cigar store and at one time told her he was a member of a criminal organization. Mrs. Morin testified before Judge W. Heber Dithrich. Morin did not contest the divorce. Explaining a trip to Chicago made by her husband, Mrs. Morin testified:

"He told me he was a member of a criminal organization he had double-crossed, and they were going to kill him. This was the reason he gave for going to Chicago."

Mrs. Morin's father, John J. Haller, had to come to her husband's rescue to make good $200 in worthless checks only a few months after their elopement the girl testified.

M'KEE ASSAILS TAMMANY

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Joseph V. McKee, who seeks the mayor's chair on the Recovery party ticket, took his stand today on a 21-plank platform, promising to "destroy the power of Tammany Hall's stupid and arrogant leadership."

From the camp of his fusion foe, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, came a blast accusing McKee of having voted in favor of an attempted "bus franchise grab" which Samuel Seabury called "a big blot on our political history."

Seabury, who investigated former Mayor Walker's administration and is now a chief supporter of LaGuardia, said the equitable bus deal "was an attempt by a group of politicians to monopolize the franchise wealth of this city." He said McKee, as a Board of Estimate member, voted for it, but the project failed because the bus concern was shown to be a "financial cripple."

McKee's program pledged, among other things, that he would not cut city employes' salaries.

2 OHIO BANKERS FOUND GUILTY

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Two former officials of the closed Standard Bank were convicted yesterday on embezzlement charges growing out of the investigation into the bank's $13,000,000 failure. The conviction carries possible penalties of up to 40 years in prison and fines of $10,000 each.

C. Stirling Smith, who rose to bank president from messenger boy, and Dale T. Winslow, auditor of the bank, were found guilty by Common Pleas Judge Arthur H. Day of embezzling $19,253.28 in February 1930. Judge Day heard the case without a jury.

Defense counsel said a motion for a new trial would be filed Monday, to be heard later in the week. If the motion is overruled, sentence will be pronounced then. Smith's bond was set at $20,000 and Winslow's at $12,500.

Winslow collapsed shortly after the verdict was read.

FORD OWNERS SHOULD READ THIS

Your car is an investment in convenient transportation. Yet not even a Ford can give you perfect winter performance unless you protect it against freezing and rust.

Boil-away anti-freezes evaporate during warm spells and leave your car unprotected. Refills are frequent. Tests show many so-called "permanent" anti-freezes break down and cause rust.

At $2.95 a gallon, Eveready Prestone is your most economical buy. One filling lasts all winter—25,000 or more miles of safe, rust-free service. The V-8 takes 2 gallons for protection to zero. All other Fords need only 1 gallon for protection to zero. For other makes, see your dealer's chart.

BORICH IN JAIL; FIGHT GOES TO HIGH COURT

Frank Borich, 33, of 151 Crawford street, secretary of the National Miners' Union, after parting from his wife and three children late yesterday, surrendered to W. H. Marshall, director of immigration in this district, who holds a warrant for his deportation to Yugoslavia. He was placed in jail.

Although he has lost legal battles against the deportation of the Department of Labor in the Federal District Court and the United States Court of Appeals, Borich still maintains strong hope of a reversal in the United States Supreme Court, according to his legal adviser and friends.

Before the surrender plans were under way to petition the Circuit Court to stay its mandate directing Borich's surrender to the immigration authorities, pending an appeal to the Supreme Court. He was charged with being a member of an organization that believed in the overthrow of the United States givernment.

Borich was accompanied to the immigration office by Attorney Jacob Seligsohn, who has carried on his client's fights against deportation in the district and Circuit Court. The Circuit Court upheld the decision of Judge R. M. Gibson.

Borich, a native of Yugoslavia, came to this country in 1913. He was arrested in March, 1931, at the headquarters of the National Miners' Union, Fourth avenue, in which he was active as an organizer and official. Later, after a hearing, he was ordered deported, and the various steps in the proceeding were contested in behalf of Borich by Attorney Segilsohn.

'FAIR PRACTICE' RALLY PLANNED

Representatives of Pittsburgh mercantile and industrial concerns will be mobilized at a "Fair Practices Dinner," November 14, for a campaign against violations of the unfair practices sections of the master retail code recently signed by President Roosevelt.

The dinner and the mobilization is being sponsored by the Better Business Bureau.

Declaring that early interest indicated that significant and far-reaching business gains should develop as a result of this general rally, Arthur C. Kaufmann, committee chairman, said the affair marked the greatest organized move yet attempted in the Pittsburgh district to protect legitimate business and the public against unfair business practices.

Capt. Reuel W. Elton, of the Better Business Bureau, said:

"The building up and maintenance of good will between the buying public and all business is regarded by Better Business Bureaus as a most important factor in business recovery."

King Coal Kicked Best Friend Out, Says Union

this, the southern fields were developing mines and slashing labor costs to rock bottom.

In the South they were paying $4 to $6 for the same work. The union could make no inroads there.

Business has never been good here since 1922. The doom of northern unionism was already sealed.

Meanwhile, the union itself had thrived. The district and local unions built halls, founded insurance companies, held huge funerals. Initiation fees rose as high as $75 in some place—and were paid.

These fees and the dues and other assessments were collected through the checkoff. That had been originated by the operators, to make sure miners paid their dues and that quarrels within the union didn't interrupt work.

Power of Checkoff

But the checkoff was, of course, a guarantee of the union—it assured its income. And every dollar meant power. So the checkoff grew and grew until it became a gigantic thing.

Today, new agreements limit the amount of the checkoff to prevent abuses.

There was little doubt that the miner in Western Pennsylvania was better off than his brother in the South. But not the operator. He had to pay far more to produce and transport his coal and his business was vanishing.

It was the struggle for solvency that caused much of the trouble in the coal fields. The greed of a few—who cheated the men in weighing coal and forced them to trade at company stores, charging higher prices than prevailed at outside stores, and made them live in company houses—had always been.

Out for Killing!

But now operators decided to kill the union. They didn't want the checkoff, which insured powerful defense funds to the men. They didn't want anything to curb them in cutting wages, because they felt they had to compete on favorable terms with nonunion shops or go bankrupt.

In 1925, several large operators, led by Pittsburgh Coal Company here and the Consolidation Coal Company in West Virginia, broke their contract with the union and tried to work open shop. Pittsburgh Coal has lost millions since then; Consolidation is in receivership.

At the expiration of the existing contract in 1927, the rest of the operators threw out the union. A serious strike deleted the union's treasury and unionism was defeated. Wages were slashed.

But operators soon found they couldn't cut wages here as low as those in the South without starving the men. Living costs were higher here.

By 1930, however, several operators, tired of the unrest and confusion in the coal fields, led by Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, returned to the union as a stabilizing influence.

The Taplin interests, operating Terminal, had long been friends of the union. It was only when other corporations in 1925 and 1927 deserted the union and made competition on the union scale impossible that the firm went non-union, in 1927.

It returned, hoping to give the union a foothold from which it could expand to bring equal wage levels once more to coal mining.

Plight of the Miner

But the plight of the miner was a sad one until the signing of the NRA's coal code. That equalized wages, North and South. That gave the men the right to collective bargaining—and what could that mean if not a union?

Today, only the "captive" mines and a few in the South refuse to recognize the union. But all, union or non-union, must pay comparable wages and none can employ children.

Conditions, costs of production, are more nearly equal.

All this, mind you, is only what the union has been advocating for years. Philip Murray, international vice president of the union, in 1923 told the United States Coal Commission, which was seeking to stabilize the industry, that "by guaranteeing the right of workers to organize and bargain collectively," the mine industry would become settled and peaceful.

Price Control

Again, in 1928 and 1932, Murray and other officials of the United Mine Workers moved for federal control of prices—provided today in the coal code—and the right for collective bargaining between workers and operators, in the Davis-Kelly bill.

Discussing the bill, P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers—embracing the Pittsburgh district—said:

"The operators will be able to show profits and declare dividends on long idle stocks and the miners will draw some money on pay day and pass it along through the public markets."

That was in 1932. Fagan, Murray and other labor leaders had taken the same stand a number of years earlier.

Today, they have what they want.

So it looks as though King Coal did kick his best friend out of court, and it looks as though he's going to have to let him back in again.

And unionized labor may now prove to be the dominant factor in lifting the industry out of the mud.

Interne at Hospital Robbed, Auto Stolen

L. C. Alcorn, an interne at Children's Hospital, reported to Oakland police today that two Negroes, one of whom was armed, had held him up, robbing him of his watch, valued at $75, and his automobile. Alcorn said the robbery occurred at Bedford avenue and Manilla street. Thirty minutes later his auto was found abandoned in Bedford avenue, near Fullerton street.

M'NAIR DODGES CAMERA POSE WITH MAYOR

APPLAUDS MAYOR

But, the meeting over, McNair hurried away, insisting he couldn't spare a minute for the photographer.

The Mayor opened his speech (which told how Pittsburgh had fought the depression) by referring to McNair as "a friendly enemy."

McNair seemed restless, but did not put any questions when the Mayor invited them after his speech. The Democratic candidate spent the time fiddling with a fork and a soup spoon and brushing a hand along his face. He laughed at the proper time and applauded before and after the Mayor's remarks.

QUIZZED BY EVANS

Most of the questions asked Herron were put by George S. Evans, who retired as a Democratic councilmanic nominee to make room for William A. Magee. When Evans said that McNair contended the city's sound financial condition was due to its tax system, Herron replied:

"I don't agree with Mr. McNair. The human element is there in handling taxes. You must be careful in conserving the people's money."

Discussing the Metropolitan Plan, the Mayor said the city would be "better off" today if the last four territories had not been annexed.

INSULL'S PLEA AGAIN SCORED

ATHENS, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The prosecution had its say today in the resumed hearing in which the United States for a second time is seeking the extradition of Samuel Insull to Chicago to face charges in connection with the collapse of his utilities operations.

The prosecutor turned his attention to the defense arguments, particularly their quotations from American legal authorities which they contended last week upheld their contention that Insull should not be held liable.

He emphasized that the question of extradition must be decided here regardless of the outcome of the case in America.

Insull closely followed the gestures and expressions of the prosecutor, but since the attorney spoke in Greek, the defendant continually asked his lawyers to translate what he was saying.

Insull chewed candies as the hearing progressed.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Justice A. C. Kingstone today reserved judgment on the motion of Cook County, Illinois, for the extradition of Martin J. Insull to answer charges of embezzlement and grand larceny.

DUKES END NIGHT CAMPAIGN AGAINST TITANS

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Irish Spark Main Question.—Klein Sale Finally Real. May Affect Pitt's Chances. Plaid Must Be on Guard. Dukes in Moonlight Finale. Jockey Retards Winooka.

OUTCOME MAY HINGE ON QUARTERBACKS

The old wheeze that a football team is only as good as its quarterback may hold the answer to the question as to how the Pitt-Notre Dame battle in South Bend tomorrow is going to result. Aside from the uncertainty as to what extent, if any, the Panthers will be improved at right halfback by the withdrawal of Mike Sebastian in favor of Dick Matesic, it appears that the comparative chances of the contending teams will depend mainly on the work of the rival field generals. There are some who think the Panthers would do better under Bob Hogan than with Miller Munjas calling the plays. Munjas is a better blocker, perhaps, but in defensive ability and punting power the edge is all with Hogan, and it is argued, in addition, that the club's greatest consecutive gains have been made with Bob handling the reins. However, Coach Sutherland knows his plays and players better than any outsider, and he would not be picking Munjas for such an important game without having good reasons for doing so.

Dick Matesic

On the Notre Dame side, the quarterbacking question is even more important. It is vital. Weakness at that post has been one of the chief causes of the Irish slump this fall. The weakness has not been confined to poor generalship, but has included also inferior blocking and a lack of inspiration. Without inspiration, the best of teams will not click. Perhaps Tony Mazziotti, besides being a better blocker and smarter general than the other quarterbacks of 1933 at Notre Dame, will also supply the spark needed to put the Irish machinery in real motion. If he does, Pitt will be up against a different Notre Dame team from any seen so far this year, and will be in grave danger of defeat. But from paper indications on the eve of the struggle, the Panthers shape up as having an equal chance to win. Until the quarterback question is answered in actual play, it looks like anybody's game.

DUKES APPEAR IN FAREWELL NIGHT GAME

In the meantime, Pittsburgh tonight will say farewell to after-dark football for another year. The Dukes, who introduced nocturnal grid attractions here in 1929, will appear under the electrics for the last time in 1933, meeting Westminster at Forbes Field. It will be the seventh straight night game for the Laydens, and the dope indicates they should have little trouble in ringing up their seventh consecutive victory.

Moonlight football has been carried on to a new record here this year. Tonight's game will be the eleventh of the season under the lamps, the Pittsburgh pros having added four to Duquesne's seven. The extended program has drawn consistently large crowds, attesting that the popularity of night games is still on the increase, and assuring that the feature will be continued on the same broad scale next year as an established part of the Pittsburgh pigskin picture, by the Dukes, at least, if the pros, as is planned, go in for Sunday afternoon games exclusively.

SALE OF KLEIN LOOKS REAL THIS TIME

The reported sale of Chuck Klein by the Phillies has been a feature of off-season baseball gossip regularly for several years. Every time it proved to be just another of the fakes that are so numerous during the cold months. Since the annual story was revived this fall, experience has led the fans around the major circuits to pass it up as only an empty rumor. This time, however, they may be wrong. There is a strong possibility that developments will show the latest Klein story to have been founded on fact.

Chuck Klein

Persistent whispers in circles close to the inside operations of the Philadelphia and Chicago clubs give the impression that the Quaker owners finally have consented to part with their famous outfielder and slugging star. Pressure of financial obligations probably forced the step. Don't be surprised if the rumor that Klein is going to the Cubs for Babe Herman, one or more other players and some heavy metal turns out to be true. There is reason to believe that unless other National League influences induce the Philly bosses to change their plans and retain the champion batsman of 1933, the deal will be closed very soon. Possibly it has been closed already, with announcement withheld until a propitious moment, as in the Virgil Davis-Jimmy Wilson trade.

OVERCONFIDENCE PLAID'S MAIN DANGER

While the Panthers are battling with the Irish in South Bend, Carnegie Tech will provide the Saturday collegiate attraction here in a tussle with Washington and Jefferson at the Stadium. Recollections of what the Presidents did in the Pitt opener in holding the Sutherlands scoreless for 56 minutes leave local fans assured of seeing another warm number when the Washington gridders make their second visit.

The main danger against which Carnegie will have to guard is overconfidence. There may be a tendency to take too much for granted after last week's big victory and to let down in the belief that a team able to beat Notre Dame has little to fear from Wash-Jeff. Any such attitude may prove costly. The Xavier experience must not be forgotten. Playing normally, the Skibos ought to defeat the Prexies by a larger score than Pitt's 9 to 0, but Hank Day's fighters are not to be trifled with, and the Tartans may save themselves from a lot of grief by keeping that in mind. This will be the twentieth game in the series, which stands at 12 victories for W. & J., three for Carnegie, and four ties. The last five years, however, the Plaid has won twice and tied twice, against one defeat.

AMERICAN RIDER MIGHT IMPROVE WINOOKA

While admitting that the proposed match race between Equipoise and Winooka is now out of the question in view of the wretched showing of the Australian horse at Laurel on Wednesday, when he finished last in a field of five, some turfmen are unwilling to believe that Winooka is quite as bad as he looked on that occasion. They not only point to his impressive earlier workouts and his record of $1:35^1_4$ for a mile, while carrying 139 pounds, as evidence that he can run, but they express the opinion that his jockey had much to do with his poor showing and that he would be able to do a lot better with an American rider on his back.

Edgar Britt

The general verdict is that Winooka is too slow leaving the barrier, and that Edgar Britt, his Australian jockey, does not know how to get the horse running as quickly as an American saddle expert could get him away. It is said that Britt has a peculiar seat, crouches low, throws his hands below his mount's withers, and turns the reins loose when his horse breaks. Then he sits up and gets a new hold on the reins. Racing men assert that Britt's methods are a detriment rather than a help to his horse, and that Winooka would break better without the jockey's "assistance,"

PANTHERS DRILL AT HOME OF IRISH FOE

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 27.—Back in the Middle West again, football territory which has been only lukewarm in its reception of Panther football elevens in the past, the Pitt gridiron varsity arrived here this morning. The Panthers are here to keep a date with Notre Dame tomorrow afternoon.

A week ago at this time, the outlook for a sellout crowd for the tussle was excellent. The Irish had been held up to a draw and to a close score by Indiana, but were still unbeaten and were figuring on and figured to, beat Tech. Pitt had taken Wash-Jeff, West Virginia and the Navy. Notre Dame officials were having roseate dreams of a 55,000 crowd.

RUDE AWAKENING

Then came Saturday and the rudest sort of awakening. First, the Ramblers took it on the button in Pittsburgh from Carnegie Tech and then Pitt put the finishing touches to the scene by losing to Minnesota at Minneapolis.

So tomorrow's contest has the boys guessing. It may turn out to be a great ball game, and it may turn out otherwise.

The Panthers arrived without mishap from Pittsburgh this morning. Yesterday's drill on the Pitt practice field was a lengthy, and, for a final home drill, somewhat of an ardorous one. Sutherland isn't set, by any means, on the lineup he'll start tomorrow, and he spent an hour or more yesterday in working with various combinations.

The idea of starting Bob Hogan at center hasn't clicked definitely yet with Pitt's Scotchman. Hogan can handle the job well enough, but the chances are better than two to one that George Shotwell will get the call. Nick Kliskey, the reformed third-string fullback, who was made over into a pivot man this fall, still is on the injured list and cannot be counted upon for much of a contribution to tomorrow's cause. Shotwell, who was Joe Tormey's understudy last year, naturally would be the logical choice for the starting assignment, but George's passing hasn't been all it should, and for that reason Coach Jock may gamble with Hogan, and gambling with Bob Hogan may not turn out to be such a long gamble at that.

SOUTH BEND CALM

The Panthers will stage a workout in the Notre Dame Stadium this afternoon, at which time Coach Jock may be expected to make a definite statement as to his starting lineup. One thing about Jock when on the day before a big game, he makes up his mind as to which of his ambitious athletes to send in for the opening kickoff, he can be depended upon to stick to that selection.

South Bend is taking tomorrow's game in what might be termed as stride. The Irish are not worked up much over the game. This year's eleven has them guessing.

The Irish held a secret practice yesterday. Coach Hunk Anderson's only comment was that they were not pressing up on offense, but it was rumored that the session was devoted to the perfecting of a new attack which will be sprung against the Panthers.

RED SOX LAND GROVE, BISHOP, REPORT SAYS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The Washington Post said today that Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, star of the Philadelphia Athletics pitching staff, has been sold to the Boston Red Sox.

While details of the trade were lacking, it was said to be an outright purchase by the Boston club with reports that Max Bishop, veteran infielder, and another pitcher will be included by Manager Connie Mack in shipment to Boston. The cash return to the Athletics was estimated at $200,000.

The Post said details of the deal have been consummated though announcement was not expected for several weeks.

MACK DENIES REPORT

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Connie Mack today denied a report that he had sold Lefty Grove to the Boston Red Sox for $200,000.

"That's very nice of others to dispose of my players. I like the price very much, but since they've gone that far I think I'll hold out a while and see if they can get the ante raised. No sale has been made."

Grove, at his home in Lonaconing, said:

SURPRISE IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Employes in the office of the Boston Red Sox today denied any knowledge of the report that Lefty Grove, famous pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, and other players had been purchased by the Red Sox. They said, however, that they were unable to speak with authority in the absence of officials of the club.

Dodgers Abandon Miami to Giants

BROOKLYN, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Stephen W. McKeever, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, of the National Baseball League, today denied a report from Miami that the Dodgers had agreed to train there again next spring. He said:

"We definitely will not return to Miami, but we have not decided definitely just where we will locate our training camp next spring."

The New York Giants recently signed a contract to train at Miami Beach, and it was predicted then that the Dodgers would move to some other city.

Here's One Barber Who Doesn't 'Run' At the Mouth

Age apparently holds no terrors for A. F. Bergman, of Leetsdale, long-distance runner, who barbers the community when not on one of his long treks over the countryside.

Seventeen years ago yesterday Bergman ran from Greensburg to Pittsburgh in 4 hours and 44 minutes, yesterday he covered the same ground in 4 hours and 30 minutes, clipping 14 minutes off his time he made in 1916.

Bergman is 47 years of age and has been making distance running and walking his hobby. Seven years ago he ran from Pittsburgh to Baltimore and has participated in many national runs over 50 miles.

W. & J. Game Real Test For Tech—Harpster

By Howard Harpster

Carnegie Tech Football Coach; All-America Quarterback, 1928.

Tomorrow we meet the W. & J. Presidents, of Little Washington, in the Stadium, and this game should determine whether or not our team has a chance to go anywhere this season. So far our boys have looked good and bad on alternate Saturdays.

Howard Harpster

I have stated before that when the Tech players are in a fighting frame of mind we have a pretty good team, but when they are not we have a poor team. In the opening game against Pop Warner's Temple team it was an easy matter to get the boys ready for the game, and they really looked good.

Then at Xavier we tried even harder to "set" our team for the game, but the boys just wouldn't "set." They loowed very unimpressive as we managed to win, 3 to 0. Then against Notre Dame last Saturday the Tech team was ready to go again, with the result that the players were fighting mad. The boys played well and beat the Irish.

A STRONG RIVAL

Now this week we meet a team which has been our natural rival for a great many years. W. & J. has a very strong team, as was clearly shown in its opening game against Pitt, when it held its own against the Panthers until the final three minutes of play. W. & J. will be "up" for our game, as we were for Notre Dame, and will play the game of their lives in an attempt to beat us.

If the Tech team can come back again and repeat last week's fighting display, we should win and go on to make a good showing throughout the remaining games. However, a lapse such as we suffered at Cincinnati will prove disastrous, with W. & J. winning without too much trouble.

The Tech team has a great deal at stake on this game, and it is my hope that the players will rise to the occasion and get safely past this game, which, to me, represents the real test of the season.

PITT VS. NOTRE DAME

Pitt is in South Bend for its game with Notre Dame tomorrow, and, while our victory over the Irish last Saturday has taken the edge off tomorrow's battle, the game should be one of the hardest fought of the year. Both teams lost their games last week, and each is out to regain its lost prestige.

Because of my position, I hesitate to make any comment as to how I believe this game will come out. I think the best thing to do is to trust that Pitt will come through, and to offer them three little bits of advice.

The first is that, regardless of what my friend, Jess Carver, says, Notre Dame has a pretty good football team. Secondly, Mr. Pitney, of the Irish, can run, and how! And last, but far from least, don't be standing around relaxed when one Mr. Elser starts up through the middle.

SOCCER TEAMS IN CUP GAME

By TOM BIRKS

Cecil meets the Union Switch and Signal eleven in the qualifying round of the National open challenge cup at Swissvale tomorrow. This will be the only cup tie run off. Two games will be played Sunday in the National competition, Heidelberg meets Moon Run, and the Castle Shannon Reihls go to Morgan.

The presence of Cecil, of the Keystone League, at Swissvale, should draw a capacity crowd to the Church street grounds. Cecil, backed by the local Italian club, is trying to build up a great eleven, and Switch will be fully extended for the 90 minutes of play.

Castle Shannon and Morgan will have the Millers Run district to themselves and any game with these teams functioning is a natural.

In the District League tomorrow, Ambridge goes to Beading to meet Old Carnegie; Beltzhoover travels to Lawrenceville to clash with Arsenal; the Pittsburgh Rovers go to Aliquippa, and Dunwick Rovers entertain Clan Douglas at Leslie Park.

Greenwood Beaten In Billiard Match

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Arthur Woods, of New York, lost his first game in the eastern sectional three-cushion billiard championship yesterday and dropped into a tie for the lead with Alfredo De Oro, of New York. Each has won four games and lost one.

Woods was beaten by Louis Elkans, of New York, 50 to 48, in 89 innings, each having a high run of four. De Oro defeated Elkans tonight, 50-33 in 83 innings, the winner running four and Elkans three.

In the other match yesterday, Arthur Wood, of Buffalo, defeated William Greenwood, of Pittsburgh, 50 to 45, in 88 innings. Wood's high run was 5; Greenwood's 3.

Wood holds third place in the standing, behind De Oro and Woods, with an even split in four games. Greenwood has won two and lost three games and Elkans brings up the rear with one victory in six starts.

GRID STAR BANNED

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 27.—(INS.)—Kilmore Gilmer's sophomore grid brilliance was definitely put today to the Kentucky football squad as a result of reclassification of his ineligibility by the athletic council here. The decision came because of his having played freshman football at Roanoke College, Va. He previously had been ruled ineligible and later reinstated, but had not seen varsity action.

This is the night the Duquesne University Dukes go gamboling on the green at Forbes Field for the seventh straight victory in the best season of their football history.

The Westminster College Titans, of New Wilmington, are expected to lie down and play dead before the charge of the Bluffites, who hope to be able to rest up some of their regulars, if the going isn't too tough, for a meeting with W. & J., at Little Washington next Saturday, snag that battle also and come down to the meeting with Pitt at the Stadium a week later with a perfect record of eight victories.

Meanwhile the Carnegie Tech Tartans get in their final polishing drill this afternoon for their clash with W. & J. at the Stadium tomorrow, which they are fearing before getting down to the business of fearing Purdue next week.

HARPSTER ON EDGE

Coach Howard Harpster, of Tech, is in the same frame of mind in which he found himself before Tech's second game, with Xavier, at Cincinnati, week before last. The Plaid players regarded this battle as a letdown after their glorious opener against Temple, and they never got going, winning by the slim margin of 3-0. Then they came back to beat Notre Dame last Saturday, and now Harpster is worrying about the possibility of another slump by the players after the tension of that Irish fray.

The Dukes already have taken Waynesburg, West Virginia Wesleyan, West Virginia University, Bucknell, Western Maryland and Detroit in their stride. They have a couple of casualties to worry about in Capt. Al Krankota, the left end; Ben Ciccone, center, and Armand Noccolai, the tackle, not to mention Silvio Zaninelli, the fullback, all of whom are slated

CITY LEAGUE MAY HAVE NEW CHAMPS TODAY

CARRICK, SOUTH OUT TO CLINCH GRID TITLES

By JULIUS LEVIN

Whether or not the City High School League will have new champions in each of its two divisions this season will be determined this afternoon when Perry High School, defending titleholder in Section II and winner of the City crown last fall, stakes its hopes for the honors on the outcome of its important battle with Carrick. Carrick is the present leader, with three victories in as many starts.

Nothing less than a victory will enable Perry to stay in the running for the crown, as the Blue and White gridders of Coach Chester Smith already have been held to a deadlock by South Hills.

The Section I teams are assured of a new champion, inasmuch as Westinghouse, 1932 winner, already has been tied by Schenley and defeated by South High School.

CARRICK NEEDS VICTORY

A victory for Carrick will all but clinch the crown for Coach Ted Lyons' eleven, as it will give them a record of four straight victories with only one league contest to be played. South Hills, another contender for the divisional title, has been held to a tie by Perry.

South High School, like Carrick, will be given an opportunity to clinch its sectional laurels this afternoon when it opposes Peabody on the Langley High School field. A victory over the East Enders, always a tough opponent for the Orioles, will give Washabaugh's team a record of four in succession with only a contest with Allderdice remaining on the program for next week.

SEEK FIRST TITLES

If South and Carrick succeed in winning their divisional crowns this afternoon it will mark the first time in the history of the league either school has won its way to the post-season playoff. The City League was divided into two sections in 1924. The only winners in Section I during the nine-year period have been Schenley and Westinghouse, while in Section II, South Hills, Oliver and Perry have held the crowns.

In Section I, Schenley has won the title five times and Westinghouse four times. South Hills has won the Section II crown seven times and Oliver and Perry each once.

Two battles between natural rivals also grace the local card this afternoon. Allderdice renews an old feud with Fifth Avenue at Schenley High School Field in a Section I contest, while Allegheny and Oliver staged their battle of the North Side at Oliver in a Section II skirmish.

Two non-league frays involving City League schools are listed for disposal. South Hills and Westinghouse tangle in an inter-sectional contest at Westinghouse, while Langley and Crafton come together at Crafton.

LEADERS TO CLASH

Monongahela and Duquesne, two of the four contenders for the class A crown, will attempt to keep their records clean today. Monongahela entertains Trinity at Monongahela, while Duquesne is host to Homestead. Scott and Ambridge, the remaining two survivors in class A, swing into action tomorrow. Ambridge faces its test of the season with Aliquippa at Ambridge, while Scott plays a non-league game with Norwin at Irwin. Ambridge will be seeking its fifteenth successive victory.

New Castle, tied with New Kensington for the lead in class AA, goes after its eighteenth straight victory by opposing Youngstown Chaney in a night engagement at New Castle.

East Pittsburgh, bidding for the class B crown, has moved up its game with Trafford and the teams will clash this afternoon instead of tomorrow.

PIN TOURNEY SET

An open singles sweepstakes bowling tournament will be rolled on the Central Recreations Alleys, Erie, Pa., December 9, 10, 16 and 17. The entry fee is $10 and all entry money aside from the bowling cost of $1.40 per man will be converted into prize money. Entries should be addressed to Ray Peebles, Erie Dispatch-Herald.

ETNA SYCAMORES WIN

The Etna Sycamores scored a touchdown in the final quarter to earn a 7-6 victory over Christy Park in a night duel at Etna yesterday.

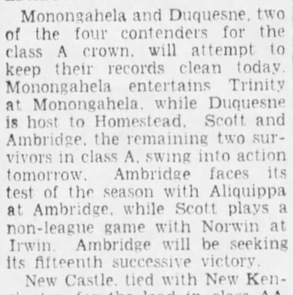
HOW TO SHAVE TENDER NECKS —without pain



HERE'S a tip for men who are troubled with "neck-rash", or very tender skin. It's a trick used by some of the finest barber shops in the country — such as the U. S. Senate Barber Shop and the Famous Terminal Shops.

Follow this tip—and see how much easier your shave is—fast, smooth and clean—and more important, notice the difference in your skin. Instead of being raw, sore, smarting, it's cool, soothed, refreshed—with all signs of irritation gone! What a difference!

The idea is to apply a thin layer of Medicated Noxzema on your face before lathering. Brush in the lather over it. The Noxzema does three things—first, it softens the beard better. Second, it forms a protective film on the skin which helps prevent cutting the skin, and last it soothes any skin irritation or tenderness and helps clear up any razor-rash.

If you shave with a latherless cream, use Noxzema the same way: without a lather—wet face, apply Noxzema, and then shave.

Here's an easy way to test this tip—to see for yourself how Noxzema gives you the smoothest and most comfortable shave you've ever had. This week you can get a trial tube of Noxzema—25c value for only 10c. Only a dime—but it means a wonderful shaves! Get a tube at the nearest drug store—today.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE HOUSE BUILT IN DARKNESS—This curious construction is situated in Tujunga, Cal., and was built in its entirety by Elmer Reavis, a blind man. Among the many extraordinary details of this construction is a stone weighing 1,500 pounds, on top of the fireplace, which Reavis single-handed placed in position. The blind builder likes to spend his days in his self-built shop of the house, busying himself with his machinist's tools.

NEALE DENIES HE'LL RESIGN W. VA. BERTH

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 27.—Earle (Greasy) Neale, head coach of the West Virginia football team, has no intention of resigning his post at the conclusion of the current football season, it developed today.

Printed reports to the effect that Greasy would toss his portfolio back in the laps of the Mountaineer officials were repudiated by the aggressive mentor who made his position very clear. Neale said:

"When I leave here it will be because I have been fired. I have a contract calling for my services here at West Virginia until the end of the school year. It is not my motto to resign from any position merely because I haven't been fully successful. I will be right here until June and after that, too, unless I am fired. You may say that Greasy Neale absolutely won't resign."

Neale's detractors have been closing in on him, but the howling has not scared the former star of the football and baseball fields.

The latest outbreak on the case was sprung without any authority from Neale or any of the local officials.

What Was That Verse About Excelsior?

EXCELSIOR, Okla., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—With just 12 possible players, the Excelsior high school considered abandoning football at the start of the season. However, the 12 decided to try it, anyway.

Jimmy Maloney Joins 'Pa' Stribling

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Jimmy Maloney, former South Boston boxer who recently established permanent residence in Miami, ended a seven-year working agreement last night with Dan Carroll, of Boston, and signed a two-year contract with "Pa" Stribling as his manager.

"Pa" Stribling said he had a tentative match under consideration between Maloney and Johnny Risko, possibly for Miami, this winter.

Titan Hurt Here Sees Career Close

DETROIT, Oct. 27. — William Rajovich, of Caro, Mich., alternate quarterback on the University of Detroit football team, sustained a shoulder injury in the Duquesne game at Pittsburgh last Friday night that is feared will terminate his college football career.

Rajkovich is a senior and a two-letter man. Until displaced by Capt. Cliff Marsh in the middle of last season he had been the first string quarterback.

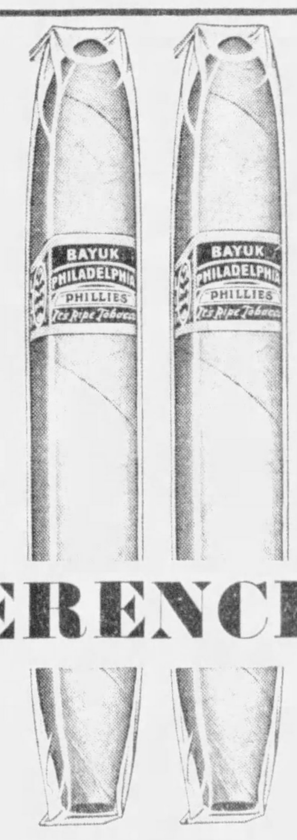
WHAT'S THEIR DIFFERENCE?



The one cigar—at 10c—was the largest-selling 10c brand in America for years.

Both are Bayuk "Phillies" . . with the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper . . the same fine Domestic and Havana long-filler . . the same fine workmanship. Bayuk guarantees it. Their only difference is in the price. Formerly 10c . . today 5c.

This explains why more men are smoking Bayuk "Phillies" than any other cigar on the market. They know they are getting a proven 10c cigar value at just half the former cost.

When you light a Bayuk "Phillies"—forget its 5c price. Forget, too, that it ever sold for 10c. Judge it on how it pleases your taste. Is it the one cigar—irrespective of price—that you'll enjoy most to smoke?

Bayuk's Guarantee

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

Bayuk guarantees that this cigar today—at 5 cents—contains the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper—the same fine ripe Havana and Domestic long-filler. It's the same identical cigar.

'NEW DEAL' SOUGHT FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

GOVERNMENT'S FINANCIAL AID REQUESTED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26 (AP.)—Men whose names are famous in Olympic annals last night launched a campaign to have the federal government sponsor America's next delegation to the International games as a "New Deal" for athletics.

Seeking abolition of the "hat-passing" plan of raising funds for Olympic teams, the committee plans to make its first appeal to Postmaster General James A. Farley, who is expected in Philadelphia soon, for an address.

Other groups are being organized in New York, Chicago and on the West Coast, it was announced at the meeting.

Lawson Robertson, veteran of seven Olympic games, four of them as coach, was elected president of the Philadelphia committee. It will be known as the American Olympic Democratic group.

James Roosevelt, son of the President, was described as one of those in other sections who are interested in the movement.

DUKES CLOSE NIGHT CARD

BEARCATS AT GENEVA

The Westminster squad is a small but scrappy one. It defeated Thiel, 14-0, last week after losing to Slippery Rock, St. Bonaventure and Geneva in three previous starts. It may be depended upon to put up a fight until, and if, it is overpowered by the superior numbers of the locals. The Dukes were held to a 20-0 score by the Titans last year.

Prices have been cut for this the final night game of the season at the Pirates' baseball park.

The St. Vincent College Bearcats play Geneva at Beaver Falls tonight. West Virginia Wesleyan plays George Washington University at Washington, D. C., and Salem and Glenville meet at Glenville, W. Va. The Pitt and West Virginia University Freshmen tangle in a night game at Fairmont, W. Va.

TITAN SQUAD REDUCED

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 27.—When Coaches Lawther and Martin checked with Trainer Jack Hulme here last night it was found that only 15 members of the Westminster College football squad would be available for the Duquesne game tonight at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh.

Seven or eight men are on the injured list and will be saved for the Grove City game at New Castle on November 4. Five of the injured men could not play anyway, Hulme stated.

GENEVA STARS OUT

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 27. — John Begolly will replace Johnny Iff at right end and Jack Weichel will sub for Joe Hlista at guard in the Geneva lineup against St. Vincent College here tonight as the Covenanters seek to keep their record for the season free from defeats. Hlista has a bad shoulder and Iff has a bad knee and ankle. Both were injured in the Waynesburg game.

The Geneva team looks for a stiff battle from the Catholic team and is prepared especially to stop Halfback Johnson. The lineup:

GENEVA		ST. VINCENT
Aultman	L. E.	Decker
Grannis	L. T.	Hockett
Weichel	L. G.	Stanko
Campbell	C.	Brown
Pacis	R. G.	O'Brien
Pietsch	R. T.	Bakken
Begolly	R. E.	Chiodo
Grahame	Q. B.	Dunlap
Troiani	L. H.	Kuzio
Jones-Rossner	R. H.	Lippert

HOLLAND AT FULLBACK

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 27.—Announcement was made here today that Don Holland, the quarterback, will start at fullback for W. & J. in its game with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh tomorrow, replacing Bill King, who, like Bill Wilson, sophomore halfback, is suffering from a leg injury. Isaac will start at quarter, with Malcolm and Bob Fife at the halves.

Amateur Sportsmen Boom Sunday Law

A throng of sandlot football, baseball and soccer followers attended the meeting in favor of Sunday sports held at the Hotel Henry last night.

Among the speakers were Peace President William E. Benswanger, Paul Kurtz, Bill Daizell, manager of the Homewood City League baseball club; Tom Beers, veteran umpire; Haddock, Cox, A. Jessup and Tom Birks.

A sub-committee was appointed consisting of 30 sportsmen favorable to Sunday sports.

Fight Results

At Pittsburgh—Larry Dunmore defeated Vern Gibson, 10 rounds.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Much has been written and much more will be written about the football ailments of Notre Dame this fall, but just about the most sensible thought put forward so far on the momentous question comes from a man who knows his football, although he never has coached a team.

It is to the effect that the Irish are suffering from a superabundance of football players, the result of an unwieldy mass system banging over from the Knute Rockne regime.

Said this football man:

"I notice that Carnegie Tech in beating Notre Dame last Saturday used only six substitutes, or 17 players in all. I understand its entire squad numbers only about 30 players, not all of them first grade. On the other hand, Notre Dame brought more than this number here for the game.

SMALLER SQUADS BETTER

"Because of their large squad, the Irish are able to have several full teams available for every game, and they are thrown into action singly and in units. The result is that few of them ever see action in a complete game and therefore their chances of developing are considerably less than those of the players on the teams they meet. As against Notre Dame's host of players for each position, I believe Carnegie is limited to something like two centers, four guards, as many tackles, three ends and not more than two sets of backs. The starting players know that, barring accident, they are expected to play through the entire game. They are on their own and must develop confidence and self-reliance.

"On the Notre Dame team a player merely has to make a single slip and he is yanked out and a substitute goes in. He may remain for only a play or two and out he comes. While he is in there he is overly tense and on his guard against making a mistake. An opposing player may err on one play and stay in to overcome it.

BATTERED IN WORKOUTS

"With so many players fighting for positions, it stands to reason also that there is a great deal of fierce scrimmaging in the Notre Dame workouts, with the result that when they come down to a game they are battered and worn, if not punch-drunk. Under the circumstances, I think Coach Hunk Anderson could solve most of his problems if he would decide on his first lineup and tell the players they are 'it' and will not be relieved unless they are hurt or exhausted."

Sounds logical, doesn't it?

RE COMPARATIVE SCORES

Do comparative scores mean anything in football? . . . Well, Carnegie Tech, which meets W. & J. at the Stadium tomorrow, defeated Xavier, of Cincinnati, by only 3-0, and W. & J. won over the same team by 8-0, yet Tech is favored to win . . . Pitt is the favorite over Notre Dame at South Bend tomorrow, although it lost to Minnesota last week, 7-3, while Minnesota was held to a 6-6 tie by Indiana, which lost to Notre Dame, 12-2 . . . So what will you?

BREMAN SEEKS NEW STAKE

Jess Quatse, all-America tackle at Pitt, now with the Green Bay Packers in the National Professional League, and making his home in Green Bay, Wis., has been married for more than a year, according to reports on the Pitt campus . . . They're calling Frank "Tiger" Walton, the Pitt tackle, Traffic Cop these days . . . Ask him why . . . Abe Breman, former Pitt fullback, who made a fortune in the Texas oil fields some years ago and then lost it, has returned to Cisco, Tex., to get a new stake . . . He prepped at Shady Side Academy and Indiana Normal School . . . His brother, Ben, also played for Pitt during the Warner regime . . . Abe turned fighter in Texas, got $600 for a bout with Fireman Jim Flynn and used it as the foundation for his cleanup.

Chillysauce

By Chilly Doyle

"What was the matter with the Pirates?"

To the thousand and one fans who have asked this question on the highways and byways of Western Pennsylvania in the past two weeks, the answer is herewith supplied, with all the emphasis of a Jimmy Durante.

Going from the eloquent Jimmy to the statistical Al Munro Elias you don't have to take much time to bring in a true bill against the Pirate pitching staff. Practically the whole staff is indicted, with one or two exceptions.

The evidence against the Pittsburgh flingers is more pronounced when we learn that the Buccos led the National League in batting by a big margin. Gibby's club hit for .285, which is nine points better than the second best team, the Cardinals. And the Buccos were not the worst-fielding club in the league.

Here are two of the counts on which the Bucs were indicted:

Larry French, with 18 successes, led the club on the mound, and Heinie Meine was second with 15. Here are the figures on the four first-string hurlers:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
French	18	13	.581
Meine	15	8	.652
Swift	14	10	.583
Swetonic	12	12	.500

And here's how the second-string hurlers finished:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Smith	8	7	.533
Chagnon	6	4	.600
Hoyt	5	7	.417
Harris	4	4	.500

Ralph Birkofer was a decided success in the closing weeks of the season as he won four and lost two games, but his work had no pennant bearing.

INDIANS LEAVE ICE LEAGUE

DETROIT, Oct. 27 — (AP.)—The Cleveland club of the International Hockey League last night dropped from the circuit, leaving Detroit, Windsor, London, Syracuse and Buffalo to compete for honors this year in the five-sided race.

The action followed an all-day session of league and club officials at which Manager Harry Holmes, of the Cleveland Indians, told a story of playing reverses and financial difficulties during the past season that resulted in the Cleveland franchise being declared inoperative at least for the coming season. Holmes is owner of the Indian franchise.

The league schedule will be revamped but no change in the November 9 opening date was made, and it was determined that each club will play 24 games at home and 24 away.

U. S. C. EXPECTS EVEN BATTLE WITH BEARS

JONES' SELECTIONS

U. S. C. and California a toss-up.
Stanford over Washington.
Oregon State over Washington State.
U. C. L. A. over Oregon.
Idaho over Montana.
St. Mary's over Nevada.

By HOWARD JONES,
Member, All America Board of Football.

Southern California met a fighting Oregon State team last Saturday and was held to a scoreless tie, because of the goal-line stands by the Corvallis eleven, particularly in the second, third and fourth quarters. In the final five minutes of play Southern California started a 35-yard drive which finally reached Oregon State's 14-yard line.

Warburton Howard Jones.

drove off right tackle for two yards. Wotkyns made two over left guard. Wotkyns again made four yards on a short-side play and was injured, being replaced by Griffith. With fourth down and two yards to go Griffith drove over left guard and was stopped, just a few inches short of a first down on the five yard line. This failure to make a first down at this point ended Southern California's last opportunity to score.

The Trojans had a tremendous edge in yardage gained and made 15 first downs to two for Oregon State. Oregon State's new coach, Lon Stiner, has engendered a fine spirit in his players, and they showed exceptional stamina by playing the entire game without a substitution.

CLOSE GAME LIKELY

The result of this game, along with the 6-to-6 tie between California and Washington State, makes the Beaver-Cougar contest a struggle which ought to be well worth seeing this Saturday. I am inclined to think that Oregon State has a slight edge, although Washington State has shown great improvement since losing to us in Los Angeles, as was indicated by their feat in holding California to a tie.

When the sun finally disappears in the Pacific Ocean this Saturday night so will go the hopes and aspirations of some of the Pacific Coast Conference football teams, in that all 10 schools are engaged in Conference games.

The game which will attract the largest crowd and the greatest interest is the one between the University of Southern California and the University of California, to be played at Berkeley. There is no doubt that between 80,000 and 90,000 people will witness this struggle between teams where intense rivalry exists.

California, despite its early defeat by Santa Clara University when it was not fully prepared, rightly can boast of a squad the equal of the Trojans. Fully aware of the fact that they have won only one game from their southern opponent in the past seven years, the Golden Bear unquestionably will be ready.

GREAT BACKS OPPOSED

Bill Ingram has brought his team along slowly, and it has shown improvement each week. The Bears showed real punch three weeks ago when they defeated the strong St. Mary's team.

As these two teams are engaged in battle the work of Blower and Williams, two fine ball-carrying backs, will be compared to Griffith and Warburton, who have turned in some stellar performances for the Trojans. Blower was injured a couple of weeks ago, but probably will be ready to play.

Between Rounds

Frankie Goosby, clever local Negro middleweight, who has been out of action for some time doctoring a stomach disorder, plans to leave today or tomorrow with his manager, Cherokee Tom Cox, for Syracuse, where he has been promised a series of bouts. He has not boxed since his bout with Vince Dundee at the Arena last summer, despite the fact that he is one of the leading local performers.

John Hernon will have some competition in his bidding for a return bout between Ted Yarosz and Young Terry, who won a decision over Ted at Newark, N. J., Wednesday night. It will come from Lou Raymond, who says he has the inside track for the battle, which he plans to stage as soon as a hand injury suffered by Yarosz mends. Meantime, he may bring in Terry against another good middleweight to introduce him to the fans.

Charley Massera, Monongahela heavyweight, who is going well around New York, boxes Lee Ramage in the semi-final to the Maxie Rosenbloom-Mickey Walker bout in New York's Madison Square Garden next Friday night.

The card has been completed for the boxing show at the Moose Temple next Monday night. Reds Barry and Sunny Jim McKey, heavyweights, are in the main bout. Curley Klaas, North Side heavyweight, meets Mike Mitchell, of Bellaire, O., in the eight-round semi-final, and Dominick Mancini boxes Dick Ambrose and George Smith meets Jimmy Loizes in the two six-rounders.

ST. VERONICA WINS

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Oct. 27.—St. Veronica scored its third straight victory in the Catholic School League last night by defeating St. Peters, of McKeesport, 12 to 7, on the local gridiron.

Speigal Awarded Decision Over Becker

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Joey Speigal, Uniontown (Pa.) southpaw, scored a flashy victory over Al Becker, of Pittsburgh, here last night in a 10-round melee, gaining a judges' decision.

After Becker had made a whirlwind start and apparently was the stronger of the two, Speigal settled down, fought coolly, and outpointed Becker throughout the last eight rounds, sending him to the canvas twice. In the eighth round Becker claimed a foul, but the fight was continued after a rest.

STOCKS CLIMB IN CAUTIOUS TRADING

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Financial market thermometers today registered "dullness and caution," but prices generally showed a tendency to improve in the afternoon despite the apparent indecision of trades regarding the administration's gold control program.

Recoveries of 2 to around 3 points were recorded by shares of National Distillers, Case and Allied Chemical. American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco were up a point. Moderate advances were shown by du Pont, Westinghouse, American Telephone, United States Smelting, Sears Roebuck, Alaska Juneau, New York Central, Chrysler and Pennsylvania. Most of the tobacco stocks eased.

Wall street, although chiefly interested in the gold situation, as related to the wished-for uptrend in both commodity and equity prices, was scrutinizing the third quarter earnings statements of the large corporations. Many of the quarterly reports were viewed as highly cheerful, notwithstanding the intimations in some that fourth quarter results may not be quite so bright.

The week-end trade reviews found a substantial upturn in retail distribution which was stimulated by cooler weather. Textile lines, it was said, were the most active. Dun and Bradstreet, believed the industrial indices were somewhat more favorable, although "lacking sufficient uniformity to establish a definite trend." While there was a moderate increase in employment, the review added, general operating schedules "are expected to continue at a diminished rate until labor disturbances will have been cleared up."

Some observers of the steel industry were predicting that the quarterly report of the United States Steel Corporation, out next Tuesday, will show considerable improvement over the 1932 period, but probably will reflect the declining demand through August and September. Opinions as to whether the corporation would again pay 50 cents on the cumulative preferred stock varied. Some estimated a balance would be shown which would more than take care of this payment.

Freight car loadings for the week ended October 21, were off 13,576 from the total of the previous week, but the decline was no surprise to the financial district. At the same time, the aggregate was 9,497 ahead of the same 1932 period. The past week's loss was principally in coal shipments.

WHEAT CLOSES AT DAY'S TOP

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. — Wheat made lively advances in price late today following reports that United States government sponsored purchases of wheat had been resumed.

The reports of a renewal of federal wheat activities were apparently due to buying of car lots of wheat in Chicago and St. Louis for the Farmers National Grain Corporation. A further advance of the Washington gold price fell flat as grain market influence.

CODE AFFORDS RETAILER WAY OUT OF 'RED'

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The experimental retail code which has been adopted at least gives merchants an opportunity to escape from the continued blight of red ink.

Mr. Rukeyser

Through competitive waste all too many retailers had become unintentional philanthropists—working only for the good of the public. On such a basis it is of course impossible to remain in business.

In spite of the ban against selling leaders at a loss there will be price variations, reflecting differences in operating efficiency.

However, as mere price appeal is lessened, new competitive factors will determine relative success.

"Henceforth it is going to require practical imagination to stay in business and make progress.

"With prices for comparable goods in each industry to become relatively stabilized, the competitive advantage will in the future, of necessity lie with the companies which ceaselessly seek to make their products more attractive to the consumer and are more adroit in the methods used in stimulating sales.

"I suppose it really comes down to this: You can equalize the conditions, wages and hours of labor, you can equalize prices, and you can equalize the general terms of competition—but you cannot equalize or stabilize the progressiveness of a businessman's ideas."

'MARTYRS BY MISTAKE'

The current effort of the NRA to emphasize the "buy now" note recalls a memorandum on the economics of the question by a group of six eminent British economists, including Sir Josiah Stamp, Arthur Salter, John Maynard Keynes, A. C. Pigou, Walter Layton and D. H. MacGregor.

Their thesis was that those with the capacity to spend who were nevertheless stinting were "martyrs by mistake," they pointed out:

"When a man economizes in consumption and lets the fruit of his economy pile up in bank balances or even in the purchase of existing securities, the released real resources do not find a new home waiting for them. In present conditions their entry into investment is blocked by lack of confidence. Moreover, private economy intensifies the block. For it further discourages all those forms of investment—factories, machinery and so on—whose ultimate purpose is to make consumption goods. Consequently, in present conditions, private economy does not transfer from consumption to investment part of an unchanged national real income. On the contrary, it cuts down the national income by nearly as much as it cuts down consumption. Instead of enabling labor-power, machine-power, and shipping-power, to be turned into a different and more important use, it throws them into idleness."

SPURS HOME ARTS

Yet in practice goods must be offered at an "economic price"—namely at a price at which it will move. Clinton Harris, editor of the Merchandise Manager tells me that the price in retail prices of dresses and apparel has stimulated an upturn in sewing in the home.

In discussing consumer reaction to higher retail prices, one thoughtful merchant observed:

"We here have right along felt it is not the persons who have been re-employed who will absorb the shock of higher prices, but the thirty-odd million who had jobs at some wage all through the depression. The fellow who was getting nothing, even at higher prices is better off than he was if he has been re-employed, but the many millions of people who are not affected by any adjustment of the minimum wage rate are taking this thing squarely on the chin."

WEATHER AIDS RETAIL TRADE

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—While general business conditions were reported as somewhat brighter this week in nearly all districts, said the Dun and Bradstreet Weekly Trade Review today, the most vigorous uptuin occurred in retail distribution, which was stimulated by cooler weather.

Regarding the industrial trend, the Review said that the indices are "somewhat more favorable although lacking sufficient uniformity to establish a definite trend." The report continued:

"Retail trade responded to the first touch of wintry weather, which gave a sudden spurt to the movement of seasonal merchandise, although department store sales depended heavily on profit-sharing sales to move stocks.

"A further incentive to buying was provided by the continuous emphasis placed by store advertising on the imminence of higher prices. Textile lines still are the most active, with women's wear, including coats and suits, selling better than last week.

"Wholesale orders have fallen below the total for the corresponding week last year, even though the volume of merchandise moved was larger because of shipments on old contracts."

AMERICAN GOLD OUTPUT UP

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—American gold production rose sharply in September, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reported today.

Output totaled 271,000 fine ounces, the largest in recent years, and compared with 181,000 in August, making an increase of 49.7 per cent. The total for September, 1932, was 246,000 ounces.

The rise placed the United States, for the month, in second place among the gold producing nations of the world, displacing Canada. South Africa comes first. Usually this country is third.

Electric Bond Gets Extension on Loans

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—The Electric Bond and Share Company announced that $50,000,000 in bank loans due yesterday of the American and Foreign Power Company, a subsidiary, have been extended for one year at the rate of 5¼ per cent interest. Electric Bond and Share purchased outright from the bankers $10,000,000 of these loans.

As of September 30, Electric Bond and Share announced it had cash amounting to $47,345,620; bankers' acceptances, government securities and other short term obligations amounting to $3,316,011, and other assets of $1,366,902, making total assets $52,028,533, against liabilities of $3,243,398.

Steel Construction Bookings Take Drop

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The American Institute of Steel Construction reports that 84 per cent of the industry had September bookings of 57,642 tons, compared with 78,379 in August. Shipments amounted to 64,362 tons against 67,913 the previous month.

Statement on Rail Order Due Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Federal Railroad Co-ordinator Eastman this morning stated he intends to issue a statement relative to the purchase of steel rail, probably tomorrow.

LESS CRUDE OIL IN STORAGE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP.)—Secretary Ickes, oil administrator, announced last night that at the close of the week ended October 21, domestic and foreign crude oil stocks amounted to 347,199,000 barrels, a decrease of 1,848,000 from the preceding week.

The decrease represented a daily average decline of 264,000 barrels. Domestic crude stocks decreased 1,664,000 to a total of 342,915,000, while foreign stocks held in the United States amounted to 2,436,000, a decrease of 184,000.

Reports indicated that during the week petroleum refineries handled 2,490,000 barrels a day, and that gasoline stocks were increased by 750,000. The increase in gasoline storage, Ickes explained, was equivalent to about 240,000 barrels of crude oil a day, or approximately the daily decline in crude stocks.

Forbes

People Ask
What to Do
With Money

—By B. C. FORBES—

"WHAT SHOULD I put my money into?"

That question is asked more often than any other.

What's the answer?

THE BEST anybody can do is to draw upon past experiences in his and other countries when inflation became a major influence.

Mr. Forbes

Reading the future is, at best, necessarily largely guesswork. And there are so many complicating factors, trends and uncertainties, so many absolutely new and powerful influences at work and in prospect, that guessing must be regarded as peculiarly hazardous today.

While I consistently refuse to tell anyone what he should do, I have no hesitation in telling what course I am following.

I HAVE gone on the assumption that inflation would be brought about in this country by one means or another. It was impossible to see how President Roosevelt's very definite objective of raising the general price level to 1926 heights could be attained without inflation, as that term is popularly understood.

The main question was what type or types and what degrees of inflation would be injected.

IN THE earlier stages of the Roosevelt administration, the financial world feared that he would exercise the power conferred on him by Congress to start the printing presses whirling to manufacture three thousand millions — three billions — of additional paper money, what conservative economists dub "fiat" money.

That prospect gravely alarmed old-school bankers, financiers and most men of wealth. They solemnly cited what happened in country after country which "tried to pay something for nothing," meaning oodles of paper currency.

Especially did they emphasize the ultimate upshot of resort to the money-printing presses in Russia and in Germany, and even in France.

THEN CAME a period when Washington emitted intimation after intimation that there has been an official swing away from inflation and towards "sound money" and that apprehension over inflationary tactics was utterly unwarranted. The terms of the Treasury's recent conversion loan were interpreted as confirming these intimations.

But the President's radio talk last Sunday has again revived inflation expectations, expectations strengthened by this week's marking up of the price of gold by Washington.

HENCE THE question:

"What shall I put my money into?"

ANY SUBSTANTIAL measure of inflation, such as seems in prospect, would logically increase prices for commodities and for dividend-paying securities, as against bonds paying a fixed rate of interest.

Among investors well versed in financial history, there has been and is purchasing of the common shares of better-class corporations likely to be benefited by higher prices, preferred stocks selling far below par (say, 60 or 50 or less), and also bonds quoted at only two-thirds or one-half or less of their face value.

Bonds selling around par are not so popular because their price is not calculated to be improved by depreciation in the purchasing power of the fixed number of dollars they yield in interest.

LEADING AGRICULTURAL products, particularly those most actively traded in on the organized commodity exchanges, are also in favor, because the avowed purpose of inflation is to lift their prices substantially.

A WISE rule of life is to ask frequently:

"After that, what?"

As always, a time will come when it will be advisable to sell.

What to do with dollars when cashed in near or at the peak of inflation is a poser.

Only we haven't yet reached that bridge.

*Preliminary.

MORE COAL MINERS went back to work last week. As a result the weekly index of business activity in the Pittsburgh district prepared by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh showed further recovery.

This was the third successive weekly gain. The present upturn followed a period of six weeks of decline.

A sharp revival in the index for coal accounted for practically all the improvement and counteracted declines in other types of activity among which were steel and electric power output.

Higher Than Two Years Ago

THE INDEX for the week ended October 21 stood at a preliminary level of 61.0. This compared with an adjusted index of 59.7 a week ago. A year ago it stood at 45.8. The index for the week ended October 14 was slightly below the level of two years ago, but last week it was slightly above the corresponding week of 1931, when the index stood at 59.0.

The recovery in the coal trade has been rapid. The increase for this industry increased from 19.9 in the week ended October 7 to 34.2 in the week ended October 14 and to 37.1 last week. Coal still is far below its peak for the year of 98.3 shortly before the strike. It is improbable that it will duplicate that level in the near future since much of the buying at that time was for stock in anticipation of higher prices and the strike.

Employment Index Shows Decline

THE EFFECT of the business decline and of labor troubles last month can now be measured by the bureau's employment index. A statement on this subject says:

"Employment by all firms in the Pittsburgh district declined 5.3 per cent, or from 76.9 in August to 7.8 (preliminary) in September; the all-firms payrolls index fell 11.3 per cent. There were two fewer working days in September than in August; because of this decrease there would have been a large loss in payrolls even if there had been no change in the rate of industrial operations in the district. Practically all the decrease in employment was in the mines and quarries group and the railroad group. Many of the coal mines in the district were closed down at least part of the time and some were idle during the entire month. As a result employment in the mines and quarries group decreased 38.5 per cent and payrolls fell 41.9 per cent."

Attach the ad or a copy of it to your letter giving date and when it appeared and also the classification.

Simple Rules and Prize List for COMICRAX Contest

(1) "Comicrax," the new pastime, will run as a weekly contest in the Daily Sun-Telegraph—appearing on the Want Ad pages. (Fourth weekly contest begins Monday, October 23d).

(2) The contest will consist of 6 Daily cartoons, each drawn to represent some popular phrase or by-word, and with each cartoon there will appear a list of these popular phrases in which list the correct answer for the cartoon of the day will be included.

(3) The prizes to be awarded by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will total $100.00 weekly as follows:

First Prize	$25.00
Second Prize	$15.00
Third Prize	$10.00
4th & 5th Prizes, $5.00 each,	$10.00
6th, 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th Prizes, $3.00 each	$15.00
25 Prizes, $1.00 each	$25.00
35 Cash Prizes totaling	$100.00

(4) These prizes will be awarded to the entrants who submit the most nearly correct and neatest sets of answers in each weekly series and who submit the best letters of not more than 50 words on the question "Which Want Ad appeared in the Sun-Telegraph during the current week most interested you and why?" Attaching the Want Ad or a copy of it to your letter and giving the date and classification of its appearance.

(5) The first group of cartoons—6 in all—must be submitted as a single unit and distinctly separate from any contest cartoons to appear in succeeding weeks' issues of the Sun-Telegraph. The sets of answers for the fourth week's "Comicrax" contest must be in the hands of the Comicrax Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., before midnight, Tuesday, October 31st.

(6) The judges will be selected by the Sun-Telegraph and their decisions will be final. The Sun-Telegraph will not enter in any correspondence about letters of cartoons in this "Comicrax" contest. The contest is open to everyone in the reading area of this newspaper except employees and their families of the Sun-Telegraph or of Radio Station WCAE, affiliated with the Sun-Telegraph.

(7) It is not necessary to buy the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in order to compete. Copies of the Sun-Telegraph are on file at public libraries and may be examined without charge. Copies may also be examined at the Sun-Telegraph

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

"A girl like you," said Mr. Brilling sententiously as he sat with Nollie at a corner table in the chop house near the office, "should never have to work at all."

"And what am I to do then? Starve?"

He took a long pull at a glass of beer. It was the real thing, and it heartened him.

He didn't answer her question. Instead he put one to her.

"The boss told me today you came to him with a letter from Jinny Judson. She a pal of yours?"

"Oh, no. I mean, she was very nice to me. I—I did some work for her."

"Secretarial?"

"Well, sort of." Nollie hesitated as she remembered how she'd "deputized" Mrs. Judson. "For a day or two, I was kind of a jill-of-all-trades to her."

Nollie said quickly: "I don't know what you mean by that, but she was very pleasant and good-natured to me and I liked her."

"Hum? She can be disagreeable as the dickens if she wants to."

"Ha? Giving away Jinny's pet secrets?"

"No. But I admire her."

"Well, I'm not surprised at her taking a shine to YOU, though personally I'd judge Jinny as selfish as they come—"

"Oh, I don't think so," interpollated Nollie staunchly, "you just think of her that way because she has the money to gratify every whim."

"And I wish I had!" Mr. Brilling looked moody.

DECLINES INVITATION

Nollie was surprised. Mr. Brilling's appearance and his mode of life and background (he had a good deal of social position, according to the papers) suggested plenty of money.

"I thought you were in the firm," she remarked timidly.

"I shall be, very soon. But I'm not so sure I care about it."

"Not care about it? Why, Galbraith & Co. are awfully well known."

"I don't know that I care about the conditions." Mr. Brilling stared at the beads rising in his stein of beer.

Then he swung around on his secretary.

"What d'you say you and I go on and dance somewhere?"

"Oh, do. I know of an awfully cool roof that's just opened."

"It's kind of you, but—"

"Come on. Don't you think you and I have earned a little relaxation this evening?"

"Certainly we have. Each in our own way. But dancing on a roof tonight wouldn't be mine."

"Then let's do a movie, shall we? They pump the air through ice or something in the big houses."

"No, thank you very much. I must go home." And Nollie pushed her chair back from the table. She felt embarrassed now. A little surprised at Mr. Brilling's new attitude to her.

"But I have brought it on myself," thought she, "a girl hasn't any call to take supper with her chief, even if she does work late for him."

"Well, we'll taxi uptown anyhow," rejoined Mr. Brilling, again moody. "I refuse to go in the subway in this heat. I'll take you home."

A RUDE VISITOR

But she made him drop her at Forty-seventh and Broadway, saying she had an errand to be done.

She didn't want to drive up to her door with him. There might be prying eyes and gossipy tongues. And in this queer, erratic mood of his, and at a loose end as he seemed to be, he might offer to come in.

"Do you wish to see Mr. Brilling?"

Synopsis

Nollie Day, young and pretty, goes to New York for a career. After searching in vain for a position, she faints on the street. She regains consciousness in a suspicious looking house owned by a woman called "Daffy." Nollie flees in terror when one of Daffy's "friends" make advances. Later, she obtains a position as public stenographer in a high-class hotel where she meets Mrs. Virginia Judson, a wealthy widow. Nollie substitutes for Mrs. Judson at a theater party. Mr. Hiram, with whom Mrs. Judson had the appointment, sends young and handsome Tony O'Brien in his stead. Nollie tries to explain she is not Mrs. Judson, but Tony does not hear her. After a happy evening together, Tony tells Nollie he will telephone her next day. Later Nollie sees Tony in the hotel, but before she can reach him, he disappears. She takes a new position as secretary to Jack Brilling, of the Galbraith Company. Nollie's thoughts are all of Tony. One night, after working late, Brilling invites her to dinner.

Now Go On

The strange girl said abruptly. "I'll attend to that myself."

And she swept on. But the look she had given Nollie was enough to scorch her.

Nollie went on typing. She wondered who the rude young woman was.

This was correct. But, as the pair passed out together, it didn't seem too happy a meeting.

The hard-faced girl (her expression angry) had him by the arm. And Mr. Brilling's usually smooth forehead was drawn into a deep frown.

REVEALS IDENTITY

His partner turned to stare again at Nollie, and the latter this time had a better view of her. She saw she was no girl, but a mature woman.

Several years older than Mr. Brilling, that's to say. She looked very much annoyed. Nollie wondered what could be the matter.

He didn't get back till after 2 o'clock. He was in a bad mood. Irascible.

At 5 o'clock, the same woman came again. This time she didn't march right in. She sat down in the outer office.

Lit a cigaret and started to read an evening paper. She utterly ignored the secretary.

"Shall I tell Mr. Brilling that you're here?" Nollie inquired.

"Mr. Brilling expects me and will be out in a few moments," was the stiff rejoinder.

Suddenly the woman leaned forward and spoke to her.

"Strange that you don't know who I am," she remarked.

"I haven't been long with the firm and you didn't tell me your name," said Nollie levelly.

"Well, it's Galbraith. My father is the head of the firm. And"—the women drew her lips in as she stared at Nollie—"I am engaged to be married to Mr. Brilling."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

At times life seems tragic and hopeless.

For years you may have hoped for certain improvements in members of your family, but it hasn't been brought about.

You have used every means in your power, and by word, deed and appeal endeavored to make all members of your family reach the ideals you set for them.

But they do not come up to expectations—you are discouraged.

Perhaps it is an endeavor to get a little money ahead for a sort of old age pension or fund to keep you out of an institution in your last days.

But something always happened to reduce accumulation to nothing.

Efforts you made to advance where you are employed came to naught.

Long out of employment and often carried along with a false hope that you would be a money earner again.

So much that is unfavorable has happened that you feel "what's the use."

Such a state of mind is an alarming condition and should not be permitted lest it become a chronic habit of mind.

There is some use in making an effort.

Continuing to strive there is always hope that you may benefit by it.

THE BRITISH RETREAT FROM CONCORD (APRIL 1775)

Marching through the thin line of resisting Minute Men at Lexington, the British soldiers reached Concord and destroyed some ammunition stores of the colonists. Then the British retreat to Charlestown began. Harrassed by the Americans, the British lost about 280 men before they reached their line. About half as many Americans sacrificed their lives in the fray, the beginning of the War of Independence. (United States History)

MERCURY AND VENUS

Below—Venus, second planet from sun, shows in phases a great range of apparent diameters. Markings in ultra violet photos show probably a cloud-laden atmosphere. (Gen. Science)

MAC GOT A JOB WITH ALICE'S PULL

The New York Zoo bought Alice, a show elephant. Her keeper was thrown out a job. It was a sad parting.

Alice got a comfortable place and plenty of hay in the Zoo. So the management was puzzled when she started to revolt, wrecked her cage and had to be chained down to trees.

Mac was hunted up. He patted Alice, talked to her, released the animal and she followed him obediently into the cage. Loyalty of the elephant, so brutally and sincerely displayed, provided Mac a steady job. (Character Building)

TEUTONS FLEEING INTO GAUL (102 B. C.)

Besides internal discord between the two social and political exponents, the patrician senate and plebeian assemblies, Rome had continuous struggles outside, partly to expand, partly to repulse tribes invading from the North. The plebeian Marius (155-86 B. C.) rising from a common soldier to a leading general, excelled in both struggles.

He subdued Jugurta, king of Numidia (African coast), was elected consul dictator several times, and drove out the Teutons, a race of barbarians, from North Italy, almost annihiliating them in 102 B. C., when their survivors fled to Gaul (above). The patrician senate later favored Cornelius Sulla, rival general, throwing Rome into a civil war in which Marius perished. Sulla restored the aristocratic rule of the Senate although modifying its authority. (World History)

PRESSURE FILTERS (Chemistry)

They consist of a steel tank (above) with concrete lining and sand (quartz) core through which the water is forced by pressure. Easily cleaned, they offer an efficient and economical means—with subsequent sterilization—for water purification, adopted also for domestic use. The sterilization (killing of bacteria) may be done by chlorine gas, ozone (See Pict. Educ., Sept. 29, 1933) or ultra violet irradiation.

AUTOMOBILE DIFFERENTIAL GEAR

This is a set generally of bevel gears, placed between the driven (rear) wheels of the car. It conveys the power from the transmission enabling the driven wheels to turn at different speeds in a curve.

The bevel drive-pinion meshes with the bevel ring-gear attached to the differential case. The two axle-shafts with rear autowheels at outer ends (not shown) intrude into the differential case, each ending in a bevel gear. These mesh with three or four bevel pinions on a star or cross-shaped spider. When the car travels straight, the differential gear and axle-shafts turn together as one piece. In a curve the inner wheel is forced by the shorter path to turn slower, the outer faster; the difference is equalized by the turning of the pinions on the spider rotating with the case.

Motorizing the Department

The pruning and paring of any municipal budget is always a neat bit of digit juggling and thumb twiddling.

We shall not name any particular city, hamlet or town. But, if the shoe fits, you had better walk on your hands.

Take the time they decided to motorize the garbage department. At the end of five years the taxpayers were still buying oats for 200 hosses who refused to resign and were too healthy to insult. Fifty men were still on the payroll. They were taking care of the 200 hosses in spite of the fact that the motorized garbage was proceeding on the green light and stopping on the red.

They couldn't even pry the city veterinarian off the budgetary roll of honor and emoluments. That was because he had a chauffeur's license and had motorized himself with the garbage.

That's only one little insinuating detail of life in the great city. Once the boys get on the grand payroll they cling like rubber boots to the mud. Salt won't reduce the swelling and vinegar will not pickle them.

They aren't in the same class with the Navy yard commandant who bequeathed seven cruisers to his favorite nephew. If you live on government property long enough you think you own it. But they do very well with the material at hand. And there are few times in the history of politics when the payroll ain't bigger than the salary list.

Once you get your name on the fiscal docket nobody can get a crowbar between you and the ground. All you require is one official paper on the spindle and you are set for life like a concrete bridge. The only economical administrations are those of the Gypsies, who never stop long enough to build a city hall or dedicate the cornerstones for marble buildings with jammed doors and broken windows.

Nobody ever saved the taxpayer's money for the taxpayer. Joe Cannon was right when he said few die and none resign. A cloud of reform sweeps over the works occasionally but it is either cirrus or cumulus and never low down enough to dust off the books.

In a way, this is a temperate squawk which may lead to either something worse or something different. When the boys hear about the 200 hosses and 50 men they may decide to hire enough jockeys to make it a fair and square race.

The President's Effort to Resume Relations With Russia Is Laudable

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S effort "to end the present abnormal relations between the 125,000,000 people of the United States and the 160,000,000 people of Russia" ought to commend itself to the thoughtful citizens of both countries. It is a wise act, on the President's part, and advisable from every point of view.

"It is most regrettable," as Mr. Roosevelt truly says in his cordial message to Mr. Kalinin, President of the All Union Central Executive Committee at Moscow, "that these great peoples, between whom a happy tradition of friendship existed for more than a century to their mutual advantage, should now be without a practical method of communicating directly with each other."

To find such a method and to remove the difficulties that have given rise to this anomalous situation are the laudable purpose of the conversations soon to take place in the White House between the President and Mr. Litvinoff, the Russian Commissar for Foreign Affairs.

Mr. Roosevelt does not deny that these difficulties have been serious, but he shares with the American people the hope and the belief that they are no longer "insoluble."

* * *

IF THIS free country could continue diplomatic relations with Russia under the government of the old regime, which was opposed to every principle and every ideal on which this nation was founded, we ought to be able to find a way of resuming relations with Russia under the present government, which, although not in accord with our own policies of government, is nevertheless not as diametrically opposed to our ideals as the former despotic autocracy that Russia was.

Nor can we longer question the fact that this form of government is Russia's choice, because it has been firmly established there for 15 years and there is every indication that it will continue to represent the conceptions of government held by the Russian people.

One of the reasons for this country's refusal to resume diplomatic relations with Russia was the present government's repudiation of pre-war and war-time debts.

This reason seems at present rather ridiculous, as we not only maintain diplomatic relations with France and England, but co-operate in close intimacy with these debt repudiators in regulating the affairs of Europe.

In fact, we have even appeared to be more friendly with these welching nations as they have not paid their just debts and obligations to this country.

* * *

RUSSIA from early days has been the friend of the United States, and a very important friend in past history, and there is every political reason why the two countries should resume this traditional relationship which has proved mutually advantageous in the past and may prove mutually essential in the future.

Japan has of late taken publicly on more than one occasion a very menacing attitude towards the United States.

Furthermore, the moves of Japan, on the diplomatic chessboard toward absorbing the mandated islands of the Pacific, and her activity in populating the American territory of Hawaii, and her apparent intention ultimately to take over both the Hawaiian Islands and the Philippine Islands are developments which would seem to indicate a temptation, if not a disposition, on the part of Japan to disrupt the friendly relations between Japan and this country and to disturb the peace of the Pacific.

Certainly the American people have no desire to see their relations with Japan other than friendly or to be called upon to defend against aggression the peace of the Pacific.

AS A great nation and a peace-loving people, we cherish nothing but sentiments of friendship for Japan just so long as Japan minds her own business and does not intrude upon American affairs.

But if it be the purpose of Japan, now or later, to dominate the Pacific, violate American rights or menace American territory, insular or continental, America should have an ally or at least a friend in Russia.

Therefore, for the peace of the world and for the establishment of justice among nations of good will, and for the sake of fair dealing and common sense in our international relations, it would seem to be mutually advantageous for the United States and Russia to renew that "happy tradition of friendship" which characterized their relations for more than a century.

We have said little about trade relations because these are, perhaps, the least important consideration. Nevertheless, friendly political relations promote trade relations, and trade relations, when on a basis of fairness, promote friendly political relations, so that the trade aspect of the situation should not be altogether ignored.

* * *

OF THE questions outstanding between Russia and the United States, the most serious is one that can best be removed "by frank, friendly conversations" of the sort that are soon to take place in the White House.

This is the revolutionary activity on American soil against the government and the institutions of the United States, which has been apparently fostered in the past by the government now in power at Moscow.

The American people will share with the President the hope that the Russian Commissar for Foreign Affairs, who is now on his way from Moscow to Washington, will begin his conversations by eliminating, once and for all, this obstacle to the dawn of a new and better day in the relations of these two great nations.

Mrs. McBride's Choice

It Might Be Helpful to Know Whom She Prefers for Judge of Juvenile Court.

As a candidate for Judge of Juvenile Court Lois D. McBride received in the recent primary election 87,385 votes, far more than any of the other contenders. But her votes were divided among three parties, consequently she failed to receive either the Republican or Democratic nomination. Her name will appear on the ballot as the nominee of the Independent party, but she says in a formal statement that she does not solicit support.

Eighty-seven thousand, three hundred and eighty-five citizens have shown by their votes that they regard Mrs. McBride as an authority on the business of the Juvenile Court. They, and others, would appreciate her advice; she should let them know whom she prefers for the new judgeship.

It is of the greatest importance [illegible] the Juvenile Court should be presided over by a judge who is fit for the job.

Mrs. McBride owes it to the community to help settle this question properly.

It Has Worked Well

The City Graded Tax Law Has Rewarded Progress and Penalized Stagnation.

The proposals of W. N. McNair, Democratic candidate for Mayor, that the city tax rate on land be fixed at 25 mills and that on buildings at 5 mills, and that the graded tax system be used in collecting school and county taxes also, has evoked some adverse comment.

Not only McNair's proposed ratio of 5 to 1, which is perhaps open to question, but any differentiation between land and buildings, is condemned.

The answer to that is that under the graded tax law enterprise is rewarded and stagnation penalized. Those who let their land lie idle while owners of adjacent property improve it must pay in full for the enhancement in value, while the builders are taxed, so far as their buildings are concerned, at half the land rate.

The plan has worked well.

Wanted—a Dramatist

Brownsville, Pa., Offers a Theme for the Hand and Brain of a Capek.

Even to the title—"[illegible]"—material has been revealed for a new kind of folk drama near Brownsville, Pa.

There in the heart of the soft coal regions once existed a thriving industry. On a hill overlooking the town huge ovens were erected in the shape of giant cones, and men toiled at the task of converting coal into coke for smelting purposes.

In those days the busy hillside glowed at night with a thousand fires, and black smoke draped the landscape by day.

Then something happened a few years ago—something technological." The coke industry failed, and the fires went out, and the coke burners themselves became a pathetic advance guard for the world's millions of unemployed. They were—all unknown to themselves—a prophecy of technical progress and of attendant human ills.

And now a score of them—homeless and destitute—have moved into the abandoned coke ovens for homes and are helping each other to subsist by communal tasks.

Each man of them has his duty, and malingerers must go. Hobos are not even allowed to arrive.

The ruins which these jobless beings inhabit are symbolically—"bee-hive shaped," and their very way of life is like the bees', even to the "stinging" of the drones.

But here, for the social satirist, is inarticulate human drama, to be observed and developed into something pregnant.

It is material for the hand and brain of a Capek. On this melancholy scene of an American local past what vision of the future might not such a one project?

Put Them All to Work

(Copyright, 1933.)

America vitally needs a program of private building construction.

Three years have seen, in the country at large, a serious shortage develop in housing. Many buildings in use are now obsolete and must be modernized or replaced.

In architects' offices, a survey indicates, at least TWO BILLION DOLLARS of planned construction awaits financing—while the building supply industries languish, contractors are idle and hundreds of thousands of skilled artisans lack jobs.

Meantime, also, there is money in the country to finance building.

The Federal Government, in co-operation with bankers and in connection with its own Public Works Program, can put these idle factors to useful work and speed the return of prosperity.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

We Must Be Self-Starters

She hasn't any initiative.

She'll do perfectly whatever she is told to do, follow directions intelligently. But she never thinks of doing things by herself. And if she's left to carry an unprogramed responsibility, she falls down. Then everyone is furious.

Being a friendly little soul, this distresses her terribly. Nor can she understand it. Why should people be so angry just because she doesn't go ahead on her own? To be "handy," good-natured and obedient—that was enough when she was a girl. And it was enough during her married life when Jim was here to plan everything.

But now Jim has gone, and, at thirty-eight, Mrs. Allen must get out and earn a living somehow.

If people would only be a little patient and understanding," she says ruefully. "It really isn't my fault. I was always this way. I simply wasn't born with initiative. It never was easy for me to strike out like it is for other girls. Even if I had wanted to, my father wouldn't have let me. He always wanted to run everything. So did Jim.

But everybody said I was a wonderful daughter and wife, and I'm just as willing to do things now. I know I could succeed if people would only tell me what they want. Why can't they? That surely isn't asking much."

Hot tears break. You can feel the fright that is creeping upon her. But you can also see that she's sorry for herself, because that she has been unfairly treated, since that the modern world is cruelly commercial with no consideration for finer feelings.

She's wrong, of course. There is as much kindness in the world as there ever was. But there isn't as much leisure. These are busy, crowded days. Gorgeous days, in which we should all have a part. And we can all have a part, but not if we wait for the other fellow to give us directions.

IF WE WANT TO BE PART OF THIS MODERN WORLD, WE MUST BE SELF-STARTERS.

Whereupon this discouraged little lady, and millions like her, will sigh, "That lets me out!" But it doesn't.

Initiative isn't something with which one is born. It is something which every human being must acquire. It is never easy for anyone "to strike out." We are all born afraid. We must all learn, by slow and painful processes, how to eliminate or control our fear, or at least, hide it. If we don't learn this lesson early, we can learn it late. It is never too late to learn it.

Our parents can help us greatly in learning this lesson. They can help us by forcing us to make decisions and experiments. But comparatively few parents are wise enough to do this. Thirty-five years ago, practically no parents were wise enough. Parents, then, believed in Obedience—and nothing else but. They believed in it enthusiastically, not because obedience was righteous for children but because it was convenient for parents.

It was convenient for Mrs. Allen's parents to make her obey, and also for her husband. It flattered their conceit and contributed to their comfort. All of which was a bad break for Mrs. Allen, and she has a right to resent it.

WHY IS THERE SO LITTLE INITIATIVE?

That's why.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Pass the Orchids

There ought to be a preparatory school for prospective husbands and wives, with a special course in flattery—or passing the "orchids."

* * *

They could teach it with a chart, showing all the tender spots in a man's self-esteem and all the sensitive places in a woman's nervous system and her vanity. There ought to be recipes for giving compliments as well as for making pancakes.

* * *

More "orchids," as Winchell calls them, and fewer "scallions" in the home—more compliments and few criticisms—would prevent hundreds of divorces, and make it necessary for gigolos and gold-diggers to go to work for a living.

* * *

Most people who break their marriage ties are simply starving for a little applause, and are terribly fed up on advice and criticism. What we need is somebody to tell us how brilliant we are, and how young and beautiful we look, every 24 hours. Somebody to keep our inferiority complex down to zero and our self-esteem up to par.

* * *

The medieval kings and queens had the right idea. They PAID courtiers and "favorites" to flatter them and laugh at their jokes and nourish their vanity and self-complacency. No wonder they thought they were divinely sent.

* * *

A husband or a wife is supposed to be your most ardent admirer, and therefore your natural booster. But it seldom works that way. A husband is so busy trying to "improve" his wife or a wife is so busy telling her husband something "for his own good," that married life is sometimes just a bowl of "scallions."

* * *

The truth is that the average husband and wife are terribly afraid they may make each other conceited. Even when they DO pass each other a compliment or an "orchid," it usually comes so wrapped up in a lot of "wholesome advice" that you don't recognize it.

* * *

Where's the thrill in being told that you have a really brilliant mind "if you'd only concentrate it on your work or something worth while?" And where's the kick in being told that you have a gorgeous head of hair "if you'd just stop wrecking it with permanents and making it that awful color?"

* * *

That's where false friends and gold-diggers shine by comparison and get in their fine work. Everybody needs a cheer-leader. Everybody needs somebody to keep up his (or her) courage and self-confidence—to help him bluff himself! But flattery and cheer-leading, like charity, should begin at home.

* * *

Text for Today

Wherewith shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves of a year old?—Micah, vi:6.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—Thoughts while strolling: Somehow a dress train suggests Beatrice Lillie. Kenyon Nicholson is handsomest of the current playwrights. And has a seasonal hit. Rex Weber and Phil Baker bear a resemblance, and Frank Dobie and Will Rogers not only look but talk alike.

One-word description of Barbara Bennett—marbly. They say Marilyn Miller at 35 is richest of the American actresses. She put it all in government bonds. What ever became of Theda Bara? Noel Coward's influence on manners is hilariously revealed in that revue.

Even the chambermaids and waiters in a hotel where he is a guest affect his speech and loose walk. Zaz Hitchcock is as beautiful as ever she was. And as charming. Burns and Allen always seem to be twittering that way on the street, too. Nobody can barge along like Heywood Broun.

Ona Munson, a Portland (Ore.) girl, who made good in the city. No magazine editor appears to get so much rollicking fun out of life as Harold Ross. Mrs. Arthur Somers Roche's Dutch bob. Percy Hammond calls the Dorothy Parker crowd "the charade and anagram set."

One of my favorite people—Robert Rubin. Technicolor couldn't photograph that sartorial splash of Mickey Neilan's—green shirt with a salmon pink tie. When that Frances Maddux sings a noisy speakeasy all of a sudden becomes a sedate drawing room. And that's art!

* * *

Prize fighters are notoriously shy of humor. Nearly all catch a joke on the third bounce. Imagine Carnera fielding a fast one! The exception is Jack Dempsey, who is still a practical joker. Two days before one of his championships he appeared for a sparring workout with his left arm bandaged and in splints. Everybody in the training squad turned oyster white. Dempsey, simulating agony, went through the paces, poking awkwardly with his injured fin. Suddenly receiving a light jab, he went spinning around the ring in cart wheels. It was expert comedy.

* * *

The most striking natural resemblance the theater has seen since a fellow of forgotten name burlesqued Caruso in a Follies is that of Tommy Hamilton to the Prince of Wales at the Music Box. He has David's face, walk, talk and hair brush to a T. In casting circles "a natural."

* * *

The Guild of Autograph Hounds at first nights has embellished their odd calling with a new co-operation. Along the curbs outriders peer into limousines and megaphone the names of celebrities through their hands to the hyena half circle at the entrances. Calling: "Tallulah Bankhead!" Or: "Howard Chandler Christy." Thus most notables debouch from their herdics in a spotlight huzzah. The most consistent non-autographist is Ina Claire.

* * *

When Nunnally Johnson was first called to Hollywood to labor on his film script, he spent three months around the studios while others dissected and reassembled his brain-child. One morning at one of those dreary, meaningless conferences, Johnson clapped his hands and sat up with a perk. "I remember now," he beamed. "I came out here to work on my play."

* * *

Otis Skinner is among the few sterling actors who is an incurable trouper. He prefers the road with sleeper jumps and uncomfortable hotels to a New York run, his comfortable home and admiring cronies at the Players. This season he is swashbuckling in the provinces with a high class revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." And reverses the usual hoggishness of stars for top billing. He insists Queenie Smith as "Topsy" be co-starred. Deserving, of course, but cracks up the stellar tradition.

* * *

For 20 years I've been seeing George White around. In that time his costume never changed—blue serge suit, white, soft-collared shirt and midget black bow. Plus, of course, the precise middle hair-part. If some day he busts out in zig-zaggy stripes and a red tie that, like the man biting a doz, will be news.

* * *

Another Broadwayite one would rather expect to swirl with barber pole effects is Texas Guinan's White Way-wise young brother, Tommy. But he, too, expresses apple-pie decorum sartorially. Only a few old-time gamblers and a certain columnist continue to make a sissy of the rainbow.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Who wrote:

1. "The lunatic, the lover and the poet
   Are of imagination all compact?"
2. "For he on honey-dew hath fed
   And drunk the milk of Paradise?"
3. "Tell it to the marines, the sailors won't believe it?"
4. "And when he is out of sight, quickly also is he out of mind?"
5. "Heaven from all creatures hides the book of fate?"

Do you know:

6. What is the meaning of "ditto?"
7. In which book of Dickens is the character Jerry Cruncher?
8. What country is Hindustan?
9. What is meant by "incognito?"
10. What tree is sometimes called the Judas Tree?

Match correctly:

11. Niagara Falls	Highest peak in Massachusetts.
12. Richmond	Near Buffalo, N. Y.
13. Mt. Greylock	Chief city of New England.
14. Boston	Near Atlanta, Ga.
15. Stone Mountain	Capital of Virginia.

Answers to Today's Tests:

1. Shakespeare. "Midsummer Night's Dream." 2. Coleridge, "Kubla Khan." 3. Scott, "Redgauntlet." 4. St. Thomas a Kempis, "Imitation of Christ." 5. Pope, "Essay on Man." 6. The same. 7. "Tale of Two Cities." 8. India. 9. Under an assumed name. 10. Elder tree. 11. Near Buffalo, N. Y. 12. Capital of Virginia. 13. Highest peak in Massachusetts. 14. Chief city of New England. 15. Near Atlanta, Ga.

ISN'T IT SO?

The night may have a thousand eyes, but at that it can't see half as much as a jealous wife.
